HOYT (Hoit, Hoyte, Hoite, Haight). [Revision with the aid of FREDERICK EVEREST HAVOUR, New York City.]

Simon, the progenitor of the name in this country, was born in the year 1595, and it would seem probable that his birthplace was Curry River, Somersetshire, England. He was one of the company that came to this country under the leadership of Gov. John Endicott in the ship Abigail, arriving at Salem the 6th September, 1628. During the summer of 1629 he and a few others, at the request of Gov. Endicott, explored and settled Charlestown; but he cannot have remained there long, as he was one of the first settlers of Dorchester in 1630, where he remained until 1635, when it was ordered "that the lott of meadow that was Simeon Hoyte's, next to Boston side joyning to John Witchfield, shall be divided betwixt Mr. Roger Williams and Gyles Gibbs." May 18, 1631, he had been made freeman, being one of the first in Massachusetts. From Dorchester he went, in 1633, to Scituate, where he married his second wife, Susanna Smith, and in April, 1635, with her joined the church of that place. As he had sold his ppy. there to Mr. Bower before 1636, it would seem that he went to Windsor in the first, or one of the first companies, although Hinman puts him down as one of the party who went to Windsor in 1639 with the Rev. Mr. Huit. The Particular Court, on May 7, 1640, taking into consideration the long distance between Simon Hoyt's house and the general settlement did order that "Simon Hoyette and his family are to be freed fro' watch and ward until there be further order taken by the Court." Later (28 Feb., 1640) eighty acres of land were granted him by the town. He must have moved from Windsor to Fairfield about 1649, as a home lot of 2½ acres was granted him there in March of that year, and he shortly after bo't other lots there. He found his last home and resting place in Stamford, where he died 1 Sept., 1657, after having been either an early or one of the first settlers in seven New England towns.

This family became so early identified with Simsbury that we have merely presented in these pages such few names as appear on the Windsor records concerning them. A splendid quarto vol. of 1,115 pages, published 1887, entitled The Humphreys Family in America, by Frederick Humphreys, M. D., assisted by Otis M. Humphreys, M. D., Henry R. Styles, M. D., and Mrs. Sarah M. Churchill, has done full justice to this distinguished family.

The name of Mrs. Ch. (So.) Jours, Michael Humphrey has 520 recorded descendants, born by the name Humphreys, and 251 descendants, children of the H. daus., born by names other than H. Total, 1,271.

The name of his Ch. (So.) Simon, has 2,321 recorded descendants, born by the name Humphreys, and 1,024 descendants of female Humphreys, born by other names. Total, 6,325.

Gov.'s counselor. He had 5 sons, who all m., and 4 s. Joseph, Gov. R. I. 1757-32. Maj. Nathaniel; Rev. Ebenezer, pastor of the ancient Baptist church in Providence, and William<sup>2</sup> (Judge), b. 1675, d. 1745, whose son was William<sup>3</sup> (Jun.), whose son was Christopher<sup>4</sup>, whose son was Charles<sup>5</sup> (given above). Benedict, in his History of American Republics, Vol. I, pp. 492-495, gives a pretty full account of the eldest and largest branch of the family, sc. of John J. Jr. Esq., by his 1st marriage, from whom Gen. Chas. Jencks was descended.

The connection between the English line and the transfer of the American family had not been clearly ascertained as late as 1856, by the late Rev. William Jencks, D.D., of Boston, Mass., who gathered much interesting material tracing the descent of the family, not only in this country, but also in England among ancestral records. The name appears to have originated with Robert Jencks of Wolverton (Manor) in the parish of Eton, under Ewood, Shropshire, England, as early as about 1350, in the reign of Edward the Third. This gentleman was the son of Jenkyn Cambray of that place, and of Dorothy, a daughter and co-heiress of Sir Walter Calvyn (Knight) of Church Stretton in the same county. From Robert (or John, as other authority has it) the ancestry is traceable as far upward as Welch animals, and barble pedigrees are carried, in the house of Elystan Goddydd. At Wolverton the name continued for ten direct descents, and families branched off from this stock. Herbert Jencks, Esquire (grandson of Herbert Westphaling, Bishop of Hereford, and uncle of the great painter, brother of Haney and Kenley, the Rev. Benjamin Jencks, author of well-known Prayers, Meditations, and other pious works), possessed Wolverton in about 1640, and it descended to his heirs, by a daughter, sc. of Thomas, the Jenckses of England can trace their descent through the royal line of Wales, to Victoria, King of Britain, A.D. 150.

there, in 1853, he was app. sec'y and treas. of the Bellefontaine & Indiana R. R., then just org. under Gov. Brough, with headquarters at Indianapolis, Ind. From this time until his death, except a few years spent in New York city in the book business, he held the position of treas., first in the B. & I., then in the C. C. C. & I., and finally in the I. & St. L. R. R., and also served two years in the State legislature. In the last few years of his life he was not engaged in business, but devoted much of his time to working up the genealogy of his family and related Old Windsor families, the readers of this edition of Ancient Windsor being much indebted to him for the completeness of the King, Newberry, Ellsworth, Wolcott, and other families. A lover of history and antiquities of all kinds, his home was filled with many relics of early Windsor days. An honest man, upright, faithful in the discharge of every duty, he was beloved by all who knew him, and has left the priceless legacy of a good name to his children. FAM. 2. Charles A.<sup>h</sup> (M.D., D.D.S.) (Amariah<sup>h</sup>), when eight years old, at time of his mother's second marriage, he rem. with her to Guildhall, Vt., where he res. on his step father's farm until 16 years of age, during which period he rec'd the six or eight months' yearly schooling, and exercise in farm industries as are common to New Eng. farmers' boys. He early developed a great love of books, and when only 16 commenced to teach in the district schools, alternately attending the Wesleyan Acad. at Wilbraham, Mass., and Newbury Seminary, Vt., until at 18 years of age he was nearly fitted for college. During the winter of 1837-8 he taught a large school in his native town, where many of his pupils were older than himself. Visiting Trenton, N. J., in the spring of 1838 for the purpose of teaching another year before entering college, he formed the acquaintance of Dr. Nath'l Brown, a dentist of that city; and this, together with the fact of his own kinship to two other then prominent dentists — one, Dr. H. H. Hayden, formerly of Windsor, Conn., but then a prominent professor and lecturer in the dental art, the other, Dr. Horace Wells, the discoverer of anaesthesia, and an esteemed dentist in Hartford, Conn., — inspired young Kingsbury with special interest in their profession. He became a student with Dr. Brown, at the same time continuing to teach in Trenton, and applied himself so studiously to the study and practice of his chosen profession, that, in the spring of 1839 he relinquished his engagements as a teacher and fairly embarked upon his life-work. His keen mind eagerly seized upon every improvement in the dental art that was suggested; and he was probably the first dentist who successfully applied an electrical current to alleviate the pain of aching teeth. In the mechanical department of dental work he speedily made himself proficient, and spent a year or so in New England in perfecting himself in classical and natural science studies, with a purpose of securing a college course. Disappointed, ultimately, in this, he opened an office in Bordentown, N. J., in the spring of 1841, and in the fall of same year seized upon a good opening and rem. to Philadelphia, where he soon attained a fine practice. In 1842, yielding to a conviction of duty which had steadily been growing upon him since his conversion at the age of 15, he entered the Meth. ministry, united with the N. J. Ann. Conference, and was assigned to Had- donfield, N. J. But malarial and bronchial troubles so completely shattered his system that he was professionally admonished never to resume pulpit labor; and, after three years at H., he rem. to Mt. Holly, N. J., where he resumed his dental practice and also studied medicine, graduating from the Philadelphia College of Medicine. In 1857, after 13 years resid. at Mt. Holly, he rem. again to Philadelphia, where he has since established himself in a high position in his chosen department of work. He was active in the founding (1863) of the Phila. Dental College, in which he now holds the chair of dental physiology and operative dentistry, and of which he has been (since his resignation of its active duties) Emeritus Professor. He helped to org. the Am. Dental Assoc'n, the Odontographic Society of Penn., of which he was the first vice-pres. and its second pres.; is a memb. of Penn. Assoc'n of Surgeon Dentists, and of Acad. of Nat. Sciences. In 1867 he took a long and leisurely tour of Europe, and had many and strong inducements held out to him to remain and practice abroad. While in Damascus, the celebrated Abdel Kader desired his services, but for want of dental instruments he was obliged to decline. His published essays in the line of his specialty (mostly contributed to Dental Cosmos) have been numerous and valuable. Dr. K. m. (1) 31 Jan., 1841, Hannah S. Bills of Allentown, N. J.; (2) 29 Sept., 1856, Anna H. (dau. Dr. Benj. H.) Strat- ton of Mt. Holly, N. J. Ch. (by 1st marriage):

Mrs. F. W. CHENEY of So. Manchester, Conn., in a letter dated Feb. 26, 1890, says: "We have copies of several original deeds given by members of the Long family to each other and to Benjamin Cheney. In the first one, dated Aug. 17, 1729, Sarey Long, in consideration of the sum of twenty shillings, etc., grants to Benjamin Cheney her right in a 'certing' piece of land called the Five Miles, bounded . . . . In the second Zachariah Long, in consideration of £14, 10s. makes over to Benjamin Cheney his right in a large tract bounded by Farmington, Simsbury, Litchfield, and Waterbury, date Apl. 12, 1721.

"In the third, dated Meh. 16, 1731, Sarah Long conveys to her son Zachariah Long, 'in consideration that he shall pay to my daughter Elizabeth Long the sum ten pounds, and to my daughter Sarah Long twenty pounds, within two years next after my decease,' five acres of meadow land, etc., (giving boundaries, 'south on land of Timothy Edwards,' etc.), 'two acres of house pasture, two acres in the town pasture, twelve acres, more or less, of upland, one perch on y<sup>e</sup> east side of highway with house and barn thereon standing, and one perch of woodland, partly on line between the towns of Hartford and Windsor.' Also all her right in the un divided lands of Windsor, reserving the use of all these premises during her life. The boundaries of all the Windsor lands are carefully given. Elizabeth Long m. Benjamin Cheney, 12 Nov., 1724. Ch."

LUDLOW, Roger (Mr.), Deputy-Governor. [The sketch of Mr. Ludlow's life in our first edition was found among some manuscript notes relative to the early history of Connecticut Jurisprudence, written by THOMAS DAY, LL.D., which were kindly placed at our disposal by his son, Thomas Day, Esq., of Hartford. To this, in the present edition, we add (and distinguish by brackets, thus: [ ]) some most interesting details concerning Ludlow's family and early life, recently brought to light in Miss Elizabeth H. SCHENCK'S Hist. of Fairfield, Conn., of which, as of Windsor, he was a founder.]

Mr. ROGER LUDLOW, to whom pre-eminently belongs the honorable appellation of the "Father of Connecticut Jurisprudence," was a brother-in-law of Gov. John Endicott [having married the Gov.'s sister, probably after they came to America, as none of his children were of age when he left England]; a lawyer by profession, and resided in Dorchester, Eng. [He was bap. at Dinton, England, 7 Mch., 1590,* and was the third son of Thomas Ludlow and Jane, his wife, who was daughter of Thomas and Elizabeth Pyle of Bampton, Co. Wilts, Eng. He had an elder brother, Gabriel, who was adm. to the Inner Temple, London, 1610, then described as of Bullleigh, Co. Somerset, who was made a barrister in 1620, and a Bencher, 1637. He also had a younger brother, George, who died in Virginia in 1655, leaving a bequest to his brother Gabriel's children, then in England, but the bulk of his property to Roger's children. The mother of Gabriel, Roger, and George, Jane Pyle, was a sister of Sir Gabriel Pyle, Kt., and own aunt of Elizabeth Pyle, wife of Sir Francis Popplein, so that Roger Ludlow was own cousin to Sir Francis Popham (s. of Chief-Justice John and nephew of Sir George Popham), who continued his father's efforts to form a settlement on the coast of Maine, begun at Sagadahoc in 1607. Ludlow's father, Thomas, was uncle to Sir Henry Ludlow, member from Wilts. of the Long Parliament of 1640, and great-uncle to Lieut.-Gen. Edmund Ludlow, the Regicide (who, in his Memoirs, mentions his cousin Roger), a great soldier and orator during the civil wars of England, and one of the strongest advocates in England for the liberties of the People as against the encroachments of the Crown, and who died in exile at Yevay, Switzerland, in 1693.

ROGER LUDLOW matriculated at Balliol College, Oxford, 16 June, 1610; was admitted to the Inner Temple, London, Nov., 1612, and was then described as the son of Thomas, then of Maiden Brailey; but he does not appear to have become a barrister. Allowing that he was admitted to the Temple at the age of 20, he must have been nearly forty years of age when he came to New England. ]

Before leaving England he was chosen an assistant of the Massachusetts Bay Colony in the place of Samuel Sharp, and, on the 20th of March, 1630, embarked with Rev. Mr. Warham and his flock, at Plymouth, for America, in the Mary and John, which is mentioned as "Mr. Ludlow's vessel." Immediately upon his arrival he entered upon the discharge of his official duties as a member of the Court of Assistants, which position he held for four years following. But, at a meeting of the Governor and Assistants at Boston, in 1632, it was mentioned that the people intended, at the next General Court, about to be held, to desire that the Assistants might be chosen anew every year. At this, Mr. Ludlow "thereupon flew into passion, and said then we should have no government, continued still in his opinions, and though the matter was cleared to the satisfaction of the rest, protested he would then return to England" (Winthrop, i, 158). This incident is strikingly illustrative of Mr. Ludlow's temper and character, and is the more remarkable, inasmuch as the charter expressly provided that the Assistants and all other officers of the company should be, once in the year, forever thereafter, newly chosen for the year ensuing.

At the next meeting of the General Court, however, on the 8th of May, it was unanimously agreed that the Governor and Assistants should all be newly chosen every year; and the former Governor and Assistants were re-chosen, Mr. Ludlow among the rest. He was now pacified; was chosen again the next year, and, in 1634, had become such a favorite with the people that they elected him Deputy-Governor in place of Thomas Dudley, who was promoted to the chief magistracy. In the course of this year he was an overseer of the works on Castle Island, consisting of two platforms and one small fortification; and one of the commissioners, or auditors, to adjust Gov. Winthrop's accounts of receipts and disbursements during his administration. In 1635 there came a political change in Massachusetts, not unlike those which now and then occur in our day. [Ludlow had evidently aspired to the governorship for the ensuing year—an office which his ambition, as well as his merits, led him to expect—and when, by the popular vote, May 6, 1635,] John Haynes, afterwards of Conn., was elected Governor, and Richard Bellingham Deputy-Governor—and himself entirely left out of the magistracy—[great was his disappointment]. For this change, so far as Mr. Ludlow was concerned, Gov. Winthrop assigned two reasons: first, because the people could exercise their sovereign power; and secondly, because he had been somewhat captious in protesting against the proceedings of the delegates, who had agreed upon the candidates before they came to the meeting; that is, in modern phraseology, had "caucused," which, as Ludlow declared in a moment of outspoken indignation, would render the election void. [While some were actuated by jealousy of his rising influence in the colony; and some took this means of showing their displeasure at his interference with what they considered their chartered rights in the exercise of the franchise, there were others, undoubtedly, among the wiser heads, who saw plainly that he was not, as yet, sufficiently democratic in his views to take the helm of government, and (what was more of an objection in their minds), that his church views were far more liberal than their own. It must be remembered that the Ludlow family, which had for many years held an influential place in the British Parliament, had ever been strong upholders of the liberties of the people against kingly usurpation; and, as a family, they were High Churchmen. Ludlow himself was a strong Puritan, but the Connecticut Constitution of 1638-9, which he framed, in which the civil franchise was not based upon church membership, evidences the liberality of his views. Nor was he the only one of his Massachusetts associates who were growing restive, from one cause or another, under the "hard and fast" lines of ecclesiastical domination which prevailed in that colony. His friend, Capt. Israel Stoughton, had been prohibited from holding office in the colony for three years, because he had asserted, in the heat of debate, before the General Court upon the question of settling a colony upon the Connecticut, "that the Assistants were no Magistrates." Gov. Winthrop had been deposed from office and subjected to the humiliation of a financial investigation; John Endicott was under censure of the Court for the too free use of his sword upon the English flag; Roger Williams was under the ban of church discipline which soon after bounced him from the colony; other Assistants had been set aside and their places filled by others not mentioned in the Charter; while many influential and thoughtful citizens were strenuously insisting upon their right to be freemen, irrespective of church connection.]

[Ludlow promptly decided to turn his back upon the scene of his fallen hopes, at his request he was relieved from the charge of the Castle Island fortifications, but, at the same time, the Council, sensible of his merits and willing, perhaps, to "let him down easy," appointed him with Govs. Winthrop and Dudley, Mr. John Humphrey and Thomas Beecher, on a Committee on Military Affairs, with very extraordinary powers.

Meanwhile, though he had previously opposed the idea of emigration to Connecticut, Ludlow now turned all his thoughts and efforts that way. The Saltonstall movement towards Connecticut was already disturbing to the Massachusetts colony; and the new influence which the emigration scheme now received from Ludlow's influence so alarmed the colonial officials that they appointed a Fast, 18 Sept., 1634; but it was of no avail — emigration had already commenced — and the consent reluctantly wrung from the Mass. General Court, May 6, 1635, was a futile yielding to a pressure which could not be withstood.]

But a few weeks after his defeat in the election, Roger Ludlow, authorized by the Bay Company, who still recognized his abilities, was on his way across the wilderness as one of a "commission to govern the people of Connecticut for the space of a year now next coming," and became one of the most influential men in the embryo colony of Windsor. [It has generally been supposed that he was one of the first emigration with Warham and Church, in July, 1635, but he must have been in Windsor at even an earlier date, since Saltonstall's agent, Bartholomew Greene, writing to his patron about the disputes at W. with the Dorchester people, lays the blame of Saltonstall's defeat upon Roger Ludlow, as being "the only man of Dorchester that set down there" (i. e., the only man of influence then present at Windsor at the time of the trouble). And it seems very probable that Ludlow's restless and forceful nature would have made him the avant courier at Windsor of his friends and fellow settlers who were toiling along through the woods from Massachusetts.] Still, he was not forgotten in Massachusetts, nor were his merits undervalued. More than six months after his departure his name was inserted in the Commission for Connecticut, placing him at the head of the magistracy constituted by that instrument. He attended nearly or quite all the meetings of the Commissioners held after the arrival of the emigrants in Connecticut, and participated largely in their proceedings. [This commission was issued to Roger Ludlow, Wm. Pynchon, Mr. Steele and others, to govern the people of Connecticut "in a judicial way", and practically, being thus first named in the instrument, he was the first Governor of Connecticut, for, on the 26th of April, 1636, he, with Mr. Steele, Mr. Phelps, Mr. Westwood, and Mr. Warde, opened at Hartford the first court ever held in the new colony, Mr. Pyncheon, Swane, and Smith, appointed to assist, not being present. The second session of this court was held 7th June at Dorchester (Windsor). In the gradual organization of this court, Ludlow instituted trials before jurors; took great pains to keep the settlements free from adventurers, and to conserve the family relations in the commonwealth on the basis of Christian morality. Persons could only join the colony by vote of the inhabitants, etc., but church membership did not make a sim qua non to citizenship. It is evident that the lesson of political experience had not been lost upon him, and that "the very discipline which had so angered and humiliated him had enlarged his views and prepared him for a more liberal and enlightened mode of the building up of a republican form of government. From this time he became the leader of Connecticut Jurisprudence." From this time, also, it is easy to see that the drift of his thoughts and intentions, as well as of those who had sustained him in his original scheme for an emigration to the Connecticut Valley, was plainly and determinedly towards the establishment there of a separate and independent colony. The population of the three river towns at this date, independently of Winthrop's twenty men at Saybrook Fort, was about 890, including 250 adult men; and the exigencies which were forced upon them were such as to compel a severance from the allegiance to Mass., to which their original commission held them. One of these exigencies was the Pequot War of 1637; and here Ludlow's courage is shown by his prompt acceptance of the responsibility of ordering war against the savage foe, a step which proved to be the salvation of all the English colonies.] He did not at first go out with the expedition under Capt. Mason, his presence being deemed necessary at home. About a week after its departure he wrote to his friend Pyncheon at Agawam, detained by a similar necessity, a letter which will be found on page 68, Vol. I. But this was too inactive a position to be long maintained by a man of Ludlow's temperament, and the next we hear of him he is in pursuit (the second expedition under Mason) of the routed Pequots through Meninketuck and Quinnipiac to Sasco (Sasquig), since called the "Pequot Swamp," where he witnessed their annihilation. [The country which he thus passed through was to him a new and pleasing one. Its fine scenery, as well as its maritime advantages, made an ineffaceable impression upon his mind, and, upon his return to Hartford, his energies were employed in legislating for the benefit of the colony, establishing peace with the River Indians, and supplying the people against the wants of the coming winter. He was appointed one of a committee to send a vessel to Mass. for corn and other supplies, and also with Mr. George Hull, Windsor, to traffic with the Indians for beaver in behalf of the inhabitants of that town. During the long and tedious winter following the Pequot War he and his associates prepared a form of government for the colony which should constitute it "a public State or Commonwealth." In this he had the opportunity of displaying his abilities as a lawyer and statesman, and also of triumphing over his Massachusetts enemies, by opening a wide and conciliatory policy and allowing the franchise to rest, not on church membership, but good moral character. This instrument is the first example in history of a written constitution—a distinct organic law, constituting a government and defining its powers. In it, Ludlow considers the concrete and the abstract at once, and prepared a system such as alone could be placed in the hands of frail men to protect them against their worst enemies—their own lawless passions. It was Milton's prophetic utterances of republican government and liberty put into actual practice. Of it Palfrey says, "The whole Constitution was that of an independent State. It continued in force, with very little alteration, for 180 years, securing throughout that period a degree of social order and happiness such as is rarely the fruit of civil institutions . . . and "the instrument, drawn with great care and knowledge, seems to bear the marks of the statesman-like mind of Haynes and the lawyer-like mind of Ludlow." That Ludlow sought the advice and approval of Haynes is probable, but the document bears intrinsic evidence of a legal skill and phraseology which, when compared with Ludlow's Code of 1649, seems to prove that, whosoever's advice he had, no other hand but his drew the first Constitution of Conn.]

On the re-organization of the government in 1637, Ludlow was re-elected a magistrate, and re-elected in 1638, and at the first general meeting of the freemen under the new Constitution which he had framed 11th Apl., 1639, he was elected Deputy-Governor of the Commonwealth, being the first who ever held that office in Connecticut [an election which, despite the honor conferred upon him, must have been disappointing to Mr. Ludlow, though it could scarcely have been wholly unexpected. Haynes had come to Hartford late in the previous spring; had been a very popular Governor in Mass., and his coming hither was considered a great accession to the infant colony. If, as is probable, on account of the dignity attached to his former office, his name was placed before Ludlow's in the order of the List of Magistrates, at the assembling of the General Court, in the following November, then Ludlow undoubtedly had a timely warning that Haynes would be elected Governor. Whatever disappointment he may have felt, he kept his own counsel; he had no reason to doubt that the election was the result of an honest vote, nor does it seem to have disturbed his personal relations with Governor Haynes.]

Being absent the next year, Mr. Haynes was placed in that office, and Mr. Ludlow, notwithstanding his absence, was chosen to be one of the magistrates, the oath of office to be taken on his return. In 1641 he was again re-elected to the same office in his absence. The next year, 1642, being present, he was restored to the office of Deputy-Governor; from 1643 to 1653, inclusive, with the exception of 1648, when he was Deputy-Governor, he sustained, by annual re-elections, the office of magistrate. In 1648-1651, and '53, he was one of the Commissioners from Connecticut to the United Colonies.

In February, 1640, he was desired by the General Court to take into consideration the following subjects, viz.: Sudden deaths, occurring accidentally or by violence; the disposition of the estates of persons dying intestate; the purchase and possession of lands, and the power of the magistrate in the infliction of corporeal punishment, and to present to the next Court a draft of such laws relative to those subjects as would best promote public good. It does not appear that he made any report to the next court, probably because his time was otherwise employed. He may have thought, also, that his commission was too restricted to answer the object in view. The business remained in this state until April, 1646, when the General Court desired him to draw up "a body of Laws for the government of this commonwealth, and to present them to the next General Court." While thus employed he was to be allowed, at the public charge, the services of a man for his own occasions. In May, 1647, it was found that, for reasons which do not appear, he had not perfected the task assigned to him. To encourage him, therefore, the Court provided that, besides the hire of a man, he should be "further considered for his pains." In the spring of 1650 the first code of laws, since known as Ludlow's Code, or the Code of 1650, was completed and entered upon the public records. This is the foundation of the written laws of Connecticut, and was published at Cambridge in 1672.*

* So reliable a historian as Dr. Palfrey 'sees the statesmanlike mind of Haynes' as well as 'the lawyer-like mind of Ludlow' in this document. Without admitting or disputing that, as Palfrey infers, Haynes helped to round out this great work, we may venture the remark that in rearing a great structure the builder may avail himself of the strongest material without detracting from his own skill or future renown of the edifice. We may also add that by Palfrey's own showing Ludlow was hardly the man to call in the aid of so formidable a rival as Haynes. The worthy doctor also hints that the work was 'largely added to from the

[But, to return. This second disappointment which he had received in his gubernatorial aspirations probably had some influence in disposing his mind towards another change of residence, and we find him, in the summer of 1639 prospecting and purchasing lands in that fertile country along the Long Island Sound; the fine scenery, broad meadows, and seaport advantages had so favorably impressed him during the Pequot campaign of 1637. In granting his petition for leave to settle there the General Court indicated Pequanock as the most desirable point for the purpose; but he finally settled at Uncoway (present Fairfield), for which the Court afterwards censured him "for undue haste in taking up." In his defense he said: "The hand of the Lord was upon him in taking away some of his cattle, which prevented him from selling some, and, being under apprehension that others intended to take up said place, which might be prejudicial to this Commonwealth, he adventured to drive his cattle thither."—Col. Rec. In this case, as at Windsor, Mr. Ludlow was not the man to allow himself "to be left out in the cold." The Court, perhaps, not unnaturally, suspected him of an intention to form another colony south of the New Haven Colony. They fined him £50, reprimanded him, and soon after authorized the establishing of another town.] It was Mr. Ludlow's destiny, notwithstanding his high position and eminent services, to encounter some of the troubles incident to public life. In September, 1639, while he was Deputy Governor, the General Court fined him five shillings for absence. It seems that this was occasioned by his going to "Poquanock and the parts thereabout" (now Bridgeport and Fairfield), and driving his cattle thither to make provision for them there. By way of explanation and apology, he made a report of his proceedings to the General Court in October following; but that body, thinking that his occupation of that country might interfere with their designs respecting the plantation there, declared his proceedings unwarrantable and his conduct without excuse. The absence complained of was evidently not the sole ground of dissatisfaction. He had evidently, however, got his heart fixed on a future home at that place. It is not improbable, also, that he fancied he should there find a larger field for his talents, and a better chance to realize those ambitious aspirations which he cherished.

We next find him at Fairfield, but the precise time of his removal is unknown. It was, however, about 1640, so that his residence at Windsor was only of about five years continuance. It is evident that he had not removed in 1639. [Windsor Rec. are singularly deficient in any details such as we would like to have, by which we can fix either the exact time or the points of his residence here. His residence at W. was on the upland road to Hartford, about three-fourths of a mile below the Farmington River, and was a "stone house." He owned considerable land, both in W. (see pp. 161, 546, Vol. I), and on the east side of the Great River near Scantic, which he sold, 20 Feb., 1642, to Mr. William Whiting of Hartford, for the sum of £500, and which lands afterwards became the subject of a somewhat noted lawsuit for recovery of the same, between the heirs of Mr. Whiting and those of John Bissell, to whom he had sold the same]. In 1641 he purchased of the Indians of Norwalk certain lands in that town conveyed to him in a deed, the record of which is entitled, "A Copy of a Deed of Sale made by Norwalk Indians unto Mr. Roger Ludlow of Fairfield, 26 February, 1640"; that is, 1641. This affords presumptive, though not conclusive, evidence that he was then a resident of Fairfield. At any rate, the record of the General Court shows very satisfactorily that in April, 1643, he had become settled at that place. There he remained until the spring of 1654, when he removed with his family to Virginia. ["The Massachusetts laws," which we do not deny; but the addition was made in 1650, and Ludlow's Constitution was finished in 1647. We submit that the code, notwithstanding its subsequent additions, was as much the work of Roger Ludlow as the United States Constitution is the work of its recognized authors. The General Court, sitting in February, 1651, "ordered compensation for his great pains in drawing out and transcribing, concluding, and establishing the same in May last." It was, moreover, by general consent called "Ludlow's Code." Article by Win. A. Beers in Map. of American History, Vol. VIII, Pt. 1, p. 264.

herculean work accomplished by Ludlow at Fairfield," says the historian of that town, "ever vigilant, zealous, and unwearied for her weal, gives him the well-merited title of 'The Father of Fairfield.' Here he was thrice chosen Deputy-Governor and several times a Commissioner to the United Colonies of New England, in great emergencies, he was annually chosen one of the Magistrates of the Fairfield Colony; was first judge of the highest court of Fairfield, and its first military commander, and the first lawyer in the State." ] The reasons which led to his sudden and voluntary exile to Virginia are as follows: In that year (1654), the Colony was alarmed by fears of Dutch and Indian hostilities, and Stamford and Fairfield, then frontier towns, were thrown into an agony of apprehension. Believing that the Dutch were the instigators of the Indian attacks from which they suffered, they urged "in a spirit of self-protection and not of sedition," the subjugation of the New Netherlands as the only avenue to permanent peace. But, though the agents of Cromwell, who was then on the eve of a war with Holland, also urged on the colonists to this course, Massachusetts and Connecticut (following her example), declined their official sanction. Entreating the New Haven Colony for troops and assistance, they were refused, and, losing all patience, Fairfield and Stamford resolved to raise troops independently of the colony, and to defend their own borders and carry on the war themselves. Roger Ludlow was appointed commander-in-chief. In all this there seems to have been no thought of sedition, but only the impulsive action of a town, who, foreseeing their own imminent peril and hopeless of receiving the needed aid from a source whence they had a right to expect it, resolved to arm in their own defence. The government of Connecticut, however, did not look at it in that light, but, treating it as a matter of insubordination, if not of open revolt, proceeded to deal with the principal movers in the affair as "fomenters of insurrection."

Ludlow, although not openly dealt with, had been foremost among those who were for prosecuting the war against the Dutch. [He no doubt thought this a golden opportunity to bring the troublesome Dutchmen of New Amsterdam under the control of the New England Colonies. The United Colonies only the previous year, in 1653, had applied to Cromwell for "help, shipping, and forces" to prosecute war against the Dutch, which supplies were daily looked for from England, and certainly no more favorable opportunity could have been offered for such a design, while England and Holland were at war.] He had also seriously compromised himself by his hasty and unadvised acceptance of the Fairfield forces, without legal appointment [but his sanction to the declaration of war against the Dutch by the people of Fairfield, he doubtless believed to be one of military necessity; neither did he, nor the Fairfield men, countenance the seditious acts of certain New Haven men at this juncture, but he promptly advised the New Haven authorities of the step which Fairfield had taken, and called upon them for aid. It can hardly be doubted, also, that the old jealousy against him was strongly stirred at this time, especially in the New Haven Colony, lest his ambition might tempt him to establish another colony which should be more particularly under control of the mother country, and perhaps more in sympathy with the views of reformers in the Church of England.] From this moment he became the victim of animadversion and persecution, especially at New Haven, where it was charged against him that he was an enemy to the Commonwealth. The fact that his family in England, while opposed to the arbitrary course of Charles I., were not friendly to Cromwell, may also have tended to draw suspicion upon him. ] He felt that he had, without any moral guilt, incurred the displeasure of the colony, and that unless he should make some humiliating concessions, his behavior would not be likely to escape public censure. It was quite evident that his popularity had reached its meridian. Proud and sensitive to a high degree, he brooded over the change that had taken place in his prospects, as well for promotion as for usefulness, [Dr. Eliot (Bioq. Dict.) says "he gave so much offense as to make it best for him to leave the country. The least he could expect was to lose his offices' ], and at last came to the conclusion, not without many keen regrets, to leave the colony, where he had held so conspicuous a place for nineteen eventful years. [The sudden coolness of the New Haven Magistrates who, more zealously than any other colony, had advocated a war upon the Dutch, and had even denounced Mass. on having broken the articles of confederation, in not prosecuting such a war; the suit brought against him by Thos. Staples for reporting, while with the Rev. Mr. Davenport of N. H., the story that Mrs. Staples was suspected of witchcraft, thus making him responsible for the declarations of the Witch Knap and a majority of the men and women of Fairfield, and for which he was fined £25 (New Haven Col. Rec., ii, 77); and last, but not least, the action of the New Haven Colony in confiscating the vessel at Milford, which he had engaged to carry his effects and family to Virginia,* must have filled his last days in New England with humiliation and almost a sense of degradation.] That he did not remove before the 13th of April, 1654 (MS. of Dr. E. Hall of Norwich, Conn., Hollister says 26 Apl., 1654; see, also, Trumbull's Conn., i, 225), is evident from an assignment executed by him, on that day, to the inhabitants of Norwalk, of his interest in that plantation. This assignment was undoubtedly made in contemplation of his removal, as it appears that within a fortnight afterwards he was actually shipping his family and effects. [He went to Virginia to pay a farewell visit to his brother George, at Yorktown — possibly, also, to seek a chance for sailing to England, and soon after left this country and settled (1655) at Dublin, Ireland, in the practice of his profession. After Cromwell's death he removed to Hollyhead, an island in Co. Anglesea, North Wales, a parliamentary town of considerable importance, and the nearest British seaport to Dublin, for his name was even then an offence in the King's ears.]

The rumor which was for a long time prevalent, that Ludlow, in his flight to Virginia, carried with him the records of Fairfield, is incorrect. It is true that one of the earliest volumes was for a long time missing from the town clerk's office, but was finally found in the possession of an aged inhabitant of the town and restored to its proper place.

Mr. Ludlow's wife has already been mentioned — she died in England — but no record of his death has been found. They had children, of whom one at least was born in Windsor (Old Ch. Rec.), but name not given. He had sons, as is evidenced from a deed dated 19 June, 1650, to the plantation of Norwalk, wherein he reserved a convenient lot of the value of £200, to be laid out for these sons. One of them, Thomas, was a witness to the deed of Feb. 26, 1641, and they all accompanied their father to Virginia. [His daughter Sarah, "a person eminently distinguished for her genius and liberal acquirements," became the wife of Nathaniel (prob. the son of Francis of the N. Haven Colony and nephew of Elder, of the Plymouth Colony) Brewster, who grad. Harv. Coll. 1642; ret. to England; had deg. of B. D. from Dublin Univ.; settled at Albany, Norfolk Co., Va.; where he m., ret. to New Eng. abt. 1663 or '65, and sett. at Brookhaven, L. I., where he d. 1699.]

[It has been admirably said of Ludlow, that he "possessed a large intellect, but little self-control. England's universities had thoroughly trained him in the manual of letters; he was especially well drilled in jurisprudence, and brought to the chaotic colonies clearly defined notions of legislative polity. Stirring and brave, he was equally ready to avert danger by expedient, or face it by intrepidity action.

* This vessel, owned by Capt. John Manning, was seized by the New Haven Colony, and brought before the court, 26 Apl., 1654, on a charge of contraband trading. "I, of my own free will, informed the Governor how inconvenient and what a damage it would prove to him, if he were stand which he had hired to transport him and his family," and offered £100 security for Manning. "But, the goods withdrawing the bond, the vessel was condemned as a lawful prize, and sold at Milford by public auction. . . . The bid was adjudged when one inch of candle had been burned."

In these essentials no one of his associates was better equipped to confront the stern problems of the times. But, on the other hand, he was self-willed and often self-asserting to a repelling degree. He utterly wanted the suaviter in modo, or the unruffled affability especially demanded of a popular man of affairs. Instead of objecting with consideration, he opposed with effrontery, his persistence made enemies, when repression would have won friends. Thus, at the critical moment, when loss of balance meant the upsetting of well-digested plans, his ofttime infirmities of temper would outweigh the product of a keen, comprehensive mind, and men of less natural force but greater self control, would secure popular favor and master the situation. He, himself, was the sentinel that opened the door for the enemy."—WM. A. BEERS in Mag. of Am. Hist., viii, Pt. i, 265.]

to my father, from whom I hoped I might gather some information which would throw light on the inquiry which was the subject of your communication.

You were correct in your impression that I am the son, the youngest, of the late Chief-Justice Marshall. I regret, however, that I can not give you the genealogy of my father's family at its earliest sources. All I can learn is, that some six generations from me, making the time probably coincident with the immigration of your ancestor, mine came from England to Westmoreland County, Va.

He came as agent in the employment of a Mr. Markham, who had considerable property in the "North on Neck," and whose family estate in England was large. If I could ascertain the part or shire in England of the Markham estate, it would go far to designate the part of England from which my ancestor came. I infer that our family was, at the beginning, a highly respectable one, because at an early period it became connected with some of the best families in the State. The family names most common are John, Thomas, and William. The names of John and Thomas have alternated with the oldest sons throughout three generations.

My name is Edward Carrington, coming from my mother's sister's husband, Col. Edward Carrington, distinguished in the Revolutionary War, in the southern campaign.

I will end this communication with a statement of the history of the family of Virginia, at its later period, which I think very remarkable. My grandfather, Col. Thomas Marshall, highly distinguished at the battle of Brandywine, had fifteen children—eight daughters and seven sons. He lived to see every one of them grown up and married. Every one but one was highly distinguished for talents, and every daughter but two married men of high distinction. The oldest son was Chief-Justice of the United States; three others—that is, one son and two sons-in-law, were made federal judges by the elder John Adams; another son was president of two colleges; another son in law was senator of the United States. "Jam satis."

I think it extremely probable that our families have a common origin in England, and I regret that I have not been able to throw any light on the subject. I will close this letter by saying, that if this investigation, or any other motive, should bring you to Virginia, I shall be happy to see you, and will give you a Virginia welcome.

Yours very respectfully,

EDWARD C. MARSHALL.

2. Eliakim (Rev.), b. 1 Meh., 1718-19; was converted under ministry of Rev. Mr. Whitfield, in the "New Light Stir," and was a Pedobaptist preacher abt. 20 yrs.; he became a Rep. 1786; d. at W., 1791, esteemed as a preacher of piety and talents; several times rep. the town in State Leg. While Abraham Marshall of Georgia was on his way to visit New England, in 1785, at Philadelphia he fell in with Mr. Winchester, of whom he inquired respecting his relatives in Connecticut. He informed him what he knew; and among other things observed that Eliakim Marshall of Windsor was a man of sound judgment, a retentive memory, and a tender conscience. "Well," replied Abraham, "if this be his character, I shall expect to baptize him before I return; for if he has a sound judgment, he will understand my arguments in favor of believer's baptism; and as next that of infants; if he has a strong memory he will retain them; and if he has a tender conscience, they will have an influence on his mind." With a firm persuasion that he should lead his relative into the water, he presented his journey into Connecticut. It appears from the history of the Kioka church, that this Abraham Marshall was only three years old when his father went from Connecticut among the Mohawk Indians. He was of course unknown to any of his relatives here; but he was received among them cordially, and treated with respect, and he made Eliakim's house his home. He kept in mind what Mr. Winchester had told him of his cousin; but he resolved that he would not be forward to introduce the subject of baptism, nor press him too hard at first. Eliakim frequently expressed a desire to hear what his new relation, as he called him, had to say in defence of the opinions in which they differed; but Abraham waived the matter for a time. At length, from slight skirmishes, they, by mutual consent, entered with all their strength into the baptismal controversy, in which Eliakim had been a man of war from his youth, and now manifested a strong assurance of victory. He began with Abraham's Covenant, and mustered all the arguments usually brought in defence of Pedobaptism. Abraham, on the other hand, opposed his whole system, as destitute of scripture proof, and adduced his reasons for his different belief. At the first onset, this old Pedobaptist divine, as he afterwards acknowledged to a friend, had but two arguments left for the support of his system; and confining to lose ground, while striving with himself to regain it, in the next attack he was completely defeated, and in a short time after confessed his conscience could not be easy till he was baptized. But a trouble arose on account of his wife, who was much opposed to this change in his sentiments. He mentioned this circumstance to Abraham, and requested his advice. He replied that his youth did not qualify him to prescribe to a man of his years; "but," said he, "I will mention two passages of scripture which my father frequently made use of in difficult cases, which are these: 'I conferred not with flesh and blood.' 'What thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might.'" The tender conscience of this aged convert urged him to duty; and, according to Abraham's expectation, he was baptized by him the day before he left the place. A large concourse of people, supposed to be two or three thousand, collected to witness the administration of the solemn rite. The venerable candidate addressed them in the most melting manner: "I was awakened," said he, "under the preaching of Whitfield, about forty years ago, at which time my mind was solemnly impressed with this sentiment, God is wisdom; He therefore knows all my thoughts, and all I do. I was in the next place impressed with the sentence, God is holiness, and must therefore hate all in me which His wisdom sees is wrong. I was in the third place impressed with this solemn thought, God is power; this struck me like thunder, and brought me to the ground." So saying, he burst into tears, and in a moment the tears were flowing from a thousand eyes. "After laboring a few days," continued he, "under these weighty impressions, the soothing declaration, God is love, relieved my distress, removed my fears, and filled me with unspeakable joy." He expatiated largely on the interesting event of his conversion, and the most solemn attention pervaded the great assembly. Baptist Repository.

FAM. 9. Daniel<sup>2</sup> (Rev.) (Dea. Thos.,<sup>2</sup> Capt. Saml<sup>1</sup>). The following account of this eminent servant of God, drawn by his worthy son, Rev. Abraham Marshall, who succeeded his father in the pastoral station at Kioka, was first published in the Georgia Analytical Repository and afterwards in the History of the Virginia Baptists. It is now transcribed and presented to the reader in its original epistolary form.

"In giving a biographical sketch of my honored father, we must go back to the distance of almost a century. His birth was in the year of our Lord 1706, in Windsor, a town in Connecticut. He was religiously educated by respectable and pious parents, and being hopefully converted at about twenty years of age, joined the then standing order of Presbyterians in his native place. The natural ardor of his mind soon kindled into the fire of holy zeal, and raised him so high in the esteem of his brethren that they called him to the office of a deacon. In the exemplary discharge of his duty in this capacity, he continued near twenty years. During this time, in easy circumstances, he married and lost a wife, by whom he had a son named after himself, Daniel, who is still a useful member of society."

[It is related by the Rev. Mr. Chapman that he made himself odious to the orthodox church in Windsor, by preaching the Baptist doctrines, and at the death of his wife, the people having assembled to witness the funeral ceremony, the pastor of the church refused to perform the usual service, upon which the people all dispersed, leaving the reverend widower to bury his deceased spouse himself.]

"At the age of thirty eight years, our worthy parent was one of the thousands in New England who heard that son of thunder, the Rev. George Whitfield, and caught his seraphic fire. Firmly believing in the near approach of the latter day glory, when the Jews with the fullness of the Gentiles shall hail their Redeemer and bow to his gentle sceptre, a number of worthy characters ran to and fro through the Eastern States, warmly exhorting to the prompt adoption of every measure tending to hasten that blissful period. Others sold, gave away, or left their possessions, as the powerful impulse of the moment determined, and, without scrip or purse, rushed up to the head of the Susquehanna, to convert the heathens, and settled in a town called Onnauquaggy, among the Mohawk Indians. One, and not the least sanguine of these pious missionaries, was my venerable father. Great must have been his faith, great his zeal, when, without the least prospect of a temporal reward, with a much beloved wife and three children, he exchanged his commodious buildings for a miserable hut, his fruitful fields and loaded orchards for barren deserts; the luxuries of a well furnished table for coarse and scanty fare; and numerous civil friends for rude savages! He had the happiness, however, to teach and exhort for eighteen months in this place, with considerable success. A number of the Indians were, in some degree, impressed with eternal concerns, and several became cordially obedient to the gospel. But just as the seeds of heavenly truth, sown with tears in this unpromising soil, began to appear in their first fruits, the breaking out of war among the savage tribes occasioned his reluctant removal to Conegocheague, in Pennsylvania. After a short residence in this settlement, he removed to a place near Winchester, in Virginia.

"Here he became acquainted with a Baptist church, belonging to the Philadelphia association, and as the result of a close, impartial examination of their faith and order, he and my dear mother were baptized, in the forty eighth year of his life. He was now called, as a licensed preacher, to the unrestrained exercise of his gifts, and though they were by no means above mediocrity, he was instrumental in awakening attention, in many of his hearers, to the interests of their souls.

Under the influence of an anxious desire to be extensively useful, he proceeded from Virginia to Hughwarry, in North Carolina, where his faithful and incessant labors proved the happy means of arousing and converting numbers. Being so evidently and eminently useful as an itinerant preacher, he continued his peregrinations to Abbot's Creek, in the same State, where he was the instrument in planting a church, of which he was ordained pastor, in the fifty-second year of his age, by his brothers-in-law, the Rev. Messrs. Henry Leadbetter and Shubael Stearns. Soon after receiving this honor, my reverend father, in one of his evangelical journeys into Virginia, had the singular happiness to baptize Col. Samuel Harris, with whom he afterwards made several tours and preached, and planted the gospel in several places, as far as James river. It was but a few years after his ordination, before, induced by appearances of increasing usefulness, he took an affectionate leave of his beloved charge, and settled on Beaver creek, in South Carolina. In this place, likewise, a large church was raised under his ministry, and, till brought to a good degree of maturity in divine things, was an object of his tender and unremitting care and solicitude. At the direction of Divine Providence, as he conceived, and as subsequent events have proved, his next removal was to Horse Creek, about 15 miles north of Augusta.

The fruits of his labors in this place remain in a respectable church, some of whose sons, raised up under his care, have successfully diffused the light of divine truth through various benighted regions. From Horse Creek my aged father made his first visits to this State. On the second or third of these, while in prayer, he was seized in the presence of his audience, for preaching in the parish of St. Paul, and made to give security for his appearance in Augusta, the Monday following, to answer to this charge. Accordingly he stood a trial, and after his meekness and patience were sufficiently exercised, was ordered to come no more as a preacher into Georgia. In the words of an apostle similarly circumstanced, he replied, 'Whether it be right to obey God or man, judge ye.' Consistently with this just and spirited reply, he pursued his successful course, and on the 1st of January, 1771, came with his family and took up his final earthly residence at Kioka; the following spring the church here was formed, and it is famous for having furnished materials for several other churches. For this purpose many common members have been dismissed and several ministers have been ordained. Among these are the Rev. Messrs. Sanders Walker, Samuel Newton, Loveless Savage, Alexander Scott, and the writer of this article. Through God's blessing on the ministry of her indefatigable founder and pastor, this church continued to lengthen her cords and strengthen her stakes, breaking forth on the right hand and on the left, till our beloved country was unhappily involved in the horrors of war. No scenes, however, from the commencement to the termination of hostilities, were so gloomy and alarming as to deter my father from discharging the duties of his station. Neither reproaches nor threatenings could excite in him the least appearance of timidity, or anything inconsistent with Christian and ministerial heroism.

As a friend to the American cause, he was once made a prisoner and put under a strong guard; but obtaining leave of the officers, he commenced and supported so heavy a charge of exhortation and prayer, that, like Daniel of old, while his enemies stood amazed and confounded, he was safely and honorably delivered from this den of lions. Even the infirmities of old age and the evident approach of the king of terrors were not sufficient to shake his faith and hope, nor in the least perceptible degree to abate his zeal. A few months previous to his decease, rising in his pulpit, which he had frequently besprinkled with his tears, and from which he often descended to weep over a careless auditory, he said, 'I address you, my dear hearers, with a diffidence which arises from a failure of memory, and a general weakness of body and mind, common to my years; but I recollect, he that holds out to the end shall be saved, and I am resolved to finish my course in the cause of God.' Accordingly he attended public worship regularly, even through his last lingering mortal illness, till the last Sabbath but one before his dissolution. In his family he invariably performed his usual round of holy duties, till the morning preceding his happy change. Fully apprised of this as at hand, and perfectly in his senses, he expressed distinctly and emphatically his steady and increasing confidence of future bliss.

"The following, taken by me in the presence of a few deeply-affected friends and relations, are his last words: 'Dear brethren and sisters, I am just gone. This night I shall probably expire; but I have nothing to fear. I have fought the good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith; and henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness. God has always shown me that He is my God, that I am his son, and that an eternal weight of glory is mine.' The partner of his care (and I may add, faithful assistant in all his labors), sitting bedewed with tears by his side, he proceeded, 'Go on, my dear wife, to serve the Lord. Hold out to the end—Eternal glory is before us.' After a silence of some minutes, he called me and said, 'My breath is almost gone. I have been praying that I may go home to night. I had great happiness in our worship this morning, particularly in singing, which will make a part of my exercise in a blessed eternity.' Now gently closing his eyes, he cheerfully gave up his soul to God, with whom, I doubt not, he walks, 'high in salvation and the climes of bliss.' This solemn event took place at the dawn of the 2d day of November, 1784, in the 78th year of his age. A suitable discourse to his memory was delivered by the late Rev. Charles Bussey."

His children are all yet living in Georgia, at no great distance from the place in which their venerable father finished his earthly course. They all possess a competency of worldly things, and a number of them are members of the Kioka and other churches. Mr. Marshall, after all his sacrifices for the cross of Christ, was always blessed by a bountiful Providence with a sufficiency of the meat that perisheth, and left behind him an estate of considerable value. His son Abraham inhabits the mansion from which he was removed to the "house not made with hands." Rev. Daniel Marshall m. MASON, (Major) John, b. in England, 1600, had a military training, and (with Miles Standish, John Underhill, and Lyon Gardiner, all afterwards captains, and famous in the military annals of New England) served under Sir Thomas Fairfax, with the rank of lieutenant. He is supposed to have been a member of the Dorchester emigration of 1630; and in 1632 the General Court of Massachusetts sent him, with John Gallop and twenty men, in a shallop of twenty tons burden, to break up a gang of pirates which were infesting the coast, an undertaking which he prosecuted with courage and prudence, despite the hardships of the winter season. For this he received £10 from the Colony, and in November of that year was made Captain. In September, 1634, he was one of a committee of military men appointed to select sites for fortifications in Boston harbor, and personally superintended the erection of works on Castle Island. In 1635 he represented Dorchester in the General Court, and, while a member of that body, June 3d, the second application of the Rev. John Warham and church of D. to remove to Connecticut was received and granted. He would seem, from the date of lands recorded to him at Windsor (see p. 161, Vol. I), to have settled among his old friends at W. in 1637. When, soon after, the Connecticut River settlements were threatened by Indians, Mason led the gallant little band of settlers, and in the famous "Swamp-Fight" crushed the Pequots. His services as the savior of the infant Colony were properly recognized by the Gen. Court at Hartford, which created him "the public military officer of the Plantations of Connecticut," with a salary of £40 per annum, a position which he held until within two years of his death, a period of about 35 years — first with the title of "Captain," afterwards of "Major," and being the only major in the Colony, he was frequently named in the public acts of the Court as "the Major," no other designation being necessary to distinguish him. He was also drill-master of the Colony, being authorized to "train" all the inhabitants thereof ten days in each year. In 1647 he removed to Saybrook, it being the post of most importance and greatest danger, and was there empowered to have command, not only of all soldiers, but the inhabitants of the town (similar orders being issued in 1652). Thus the habeas corpus act was practically suspended by the dictatorial authority thus conferred upon Major Mason.

These arms are described by Burke as "Vert, two lions combatant, or.; Crest, a mermaid proper."

So important, indeed, was Major Mason's presence to the infant commonwealth that his request for permission to embark in a project for a settlement in Delaware was met with the following reply from the General Court: "That it is much in the desires of the whole Court that he would not entertain the thought of removing his abode out of this Colony, whereunto they cannot give the least allowance or approbation." But the Court could not wholly deny him, and so expressed their consent "that he shall attend the service for three months, provided, he will engage himself to return within that time, and continue his abode as formerly;" also, in a letter of complaint to the Commissioner of the United Colonies they say that the Narragansetts had fired eleven bullets into a house, "in hopes, as they boasted, to have slain him whom we have cause to honor, whose safety we cannot but make ourselves bound to protect, our Deputy Governor, Major Mason." The Major, indeed, seems to have been less careful of his own safety than the General Court were for him; the last of the instructions to him, when he was sent at the head of an expedition to Long Island (then belonging to Connecticut) being, "we do not judge it convenient that you should in your own person make after any Indians in the woods," etc.

In further testimony of their appreciation of his public services, they made him grants of considerable tracts of land, to two only of which can we now refer. June 5, 1641, it was ordered "that Capt. Mason shall have 500 acres of ground for him and his heirs, about Pequot country"; and Sept. 11, 1641, he was granted the island of Chipachauge (now Mason's Island), in Mystic Bay, besides 100 acres of upland and ten acres near Mystic, "when he shall make a choice." A portion of this island is still owned and occupied by his descendants.

— Besides his military offices and cares, he was, also, from 1637 to '41, a Magistrate; from 1641 to '59, he was Assistant, or member of the Gen'l Court; and from 1659, he was Lieut. Governor for ten successive years, when he declined a reelection; and for two years, during Gov. Winthrop's absence in England upon the Charter business, he was acting Governor; also, in the years 1647, '54, '55, '56, '57, and '61, he was one of the Commissioners of the United (Conn., Mass., and R. I.) Colonies. In the company which removed from Saybrook and founded the town of Norwich, Conn., Capt. Mason was by far the most prominent person, the deed which was executed June 6, 1759, by Uncas, Owaneco, and Attawanhood, being made in his presence and that of Thomas Tracy. This was the third town in Conn. of which he had been a founder — Windsor, Saybrook, and Norwich — we may, indeed, add Dorchester, Mass.

He was a man eminently formed for heavy responsibilities and great deeds. He possessed remarkable firmness and promptitude, a courage which was absolutely fearless, united with a prudence and moderation the most considerate and reflecting. Strong with the sword, he yet preferred the ways of peace, and by his cautious, firm, and yet resolute tact, he frequently prevented or checked in the outset every tendency to disorder or violence. These qualities made him not only a great soldier, but an admirable legislator; and, with the evident sincerity and nobleness of his purposes, caused him to be selected as a leader in all the important measures undertaken by the colony for a long series of years. Never in his whole career do we find recorded a single manifestation of an intolerant or persecuting spirit. Envy, hatred, and malice seemed to find no place in his heart. He was virtuous in his life and habits, and universally beloved and respected. In person he was "tall and portly, but nevertheless full of martial bravery and vigor."—(Rev. Thomas Prince's Introduction to Mason's Hist. of the Pequot War.) There was certainly nothing feeble or effeminate in his composition; and whatever excess of sternness, or harshness, or impetuosity, there may have been in his character, there was never anything bordering on tyranny or injustice; and the rougher features were moderated and tempered by the sincere faith and the humble life of the Christian. He suffered during the last year of his life with one of the most painful of diseases, and died on the 30th day of January, 1672, in his 72d year.

The closing paragraph of the last letter he wrote to the General Court of the colony, is in the spirit, as it is in the language of an apostle; entreating their remembrance at the Throne of Grace, he adds: "Beseeching the God of Peace, who brought again from the dead the Lord Jesus, the great Shepherd of His sheep, to make us perfect in every good word and work to do His will, into whose hands I commend you and your mighty affairs, who am your afflicted, yet true servant."

The exact location of his grave has been lost, but, at the Norwich Centennial of 1859, a monument was erected to his memory on the bank of the Yantic, and about a mile and a half from the site of his house and farm.

Major Mason wrote a History of the Pequot War, which was published at Boston, 1736, with an introduction by Rev. Thomas Prince. His first wife's name was unknown, but she must have come from D. with him and died in Windsor some time before 10 Mch., 1638, for the O. C. R. says under date of Aug. 17, 1777: "I find in an old book that Mch. 10, 1638, it was reckoned from y<sup>e</sup> beginning of y<sup>e</sup> plantation hitherto to that [date] there has dyed of old and young, 27; but not their names exprest but [i. e. except] two that ware members [i. e. of the church], and the Captain's wife, of children 16, of servants 8." McKINSTREY. [This sketch condensed from Mr. WILLIAM WILLIS'S Genealogy of the McKinstry Family, 2d Edition, pub. 1866, is strictly confined to the Ellington families of the name.] John (Rev.), b. in Brode Parish, Co. Antrim, Ireland, in 1677; was the s. of Scotch parents, Rodger McKinstry and Mary Wilson, his wife, who res. near Edinburgh, and who, about 1669, removed, under the stress of religious persecution, to Ireland. John McKinstry grad. Univ. Edinburgh, as M.A., 1 Mch., 1712 (Willis's McKinstry Geneal. gives a copy of his diploma); became an ordained Presb. minister; joined a company of emigrants from the north of Ireland in the summer of 1718, and arrived at Boston 4 Aug. of that year. In March, 1720, he was sett. over the church of Sutton, Mass. (a new town near Worcester), and ordained there in the following Nov.; but, as the Ch. was Cong., and Mr. McK. a rigid Presb., difficulties soon arose on matters of Ch. government, which led to a separation in Sept., 1728; during the less than eight years of his pastorate, however, 44 new members had been added to the church. On his way to New York, where he hoped to find a more congenial denominational companionship, as well as employment, the failure of his wife's health compelled him to tarry awhile in Ellington parish, E. Windsor, which—being then without a preacher—resulted in a call to him to supply the pulpit, and finally led to his settlement, as its first pastor, in 1733. His biog. will be found at pp. 821, 822, Vol. I. Soon after his sett. at Sutton he m. Elizabeth (prob. daug. Hon. William Fairfield, who died 25 Oct., 1782, a. 81. Rev. John McKinstry d. Ell., 20 Jan., 1751, a. 77. Ch.:

1. John (Rev.), b. Sutton, Mass., 31 Dec., 1723; grad. Y. C., 1746; a classmate of Pres. Stiles; he d. 9 Nov., 1813, a. 90; was ord. first pastor of 5th Ch., Springfield (now Chicopee), Mass., 27 Sept., 1752; was given a collocation in 1759, he m. Eunice (daug. 4. William (Dr.), b. Ell., 8 Oct., 1732; sett. before 1750 at Taunton, Mass.; m. 25 Nov., 1760, Priscilla (daug. Rev. Nath<sup>d</sup> Leonard); her father was pastor of 1st Ch. at Plymouthe, Mass., and her mother Priscilla was daug. of Nath<sup>d</sup> Boyers and Sarah, Appleton of Ipswich. Although of a feeble constitution and a tendency to consumption, Dr. McK. acquired a good practice at T. prior to 1743; his being called upon to attend to the dressing of the wounds of a certain noted Tory who had been roughly handled by the "Sons of Liberty," brought upon him such a stream of odium and unjust suspicion that he felt compelled to retire temporarily to Boston; and while there he received from the British General Gage the appointment Surgeon General of the hospitals there, and his ppv. at Taunton was confiscated. When Boston was evacuated, Dr. McK. and family went on board the British fleet, and while it was awaiting orders in Nantasket Roads, he d. 21 Mch., 1776, on the hospital ship Dutton, and was buried on George's Island in that harbor. The family were taken, with other refugees, to Halifax, N. S., but returned in 1778 to Newport, R. I. Of Dr. McK.'s four sons, Rev. William, John, Thomas, and David, none were married.

6. Abigail, b. Ell., 5 Mch., 1739; d. unm'd., Ell., 18 May, 1814.

7. Elizabeth, b. 25 May, 1739; "was killed by Bristol, a negro servant of her brother William, 1 June, 1763, while she was visiting him at Taunton. The negro was fond of her, but had been made to believe that he could obtain his freedom by killing some one of the family. He therefore took an opportunity when his victim's back was towards him, and struck her a fatal blow on the back of her head with an axe. Much excitement was produced in that quiet village and throughout the county by this sad event, and a great crowd attended upon his trial and execution which soon after followed." She was unmarried.

McKNIGHT, John, b. abt. 1712; came from Scotland to America at the age of 19, and settled at New Haven, Conn., as a merchant. He afterwards rem. to Hartford, and finally to Ell., where he resided on his farm until his death, in 1785. The exact dates of these several removals cannot be exactly given, but certain entries in his old account book, in very beautiful chirography, and still preserved by some of his descendants, show that he was doing business in Hartford in 1738. After he settled in New Haven, and before he removed to Hartford, he went to England for a cargo of goods, and while there married Jerusha Crane, an English woman. — Family Tradition. Family tradition says that the McKnight family in Scotland were active assistants of Sir William Wallace in his endeavor to resist the attempt of Edward I of England to seize the Scottish crown, and at one time they were driven from their estates and compelled to flee to the Highlands, but that afterwards they returned and recovered their property. John McKnight's career in Ell. seems to cover the years between 1752 and 1770, during which time he had dealings with Mr. Richard Edwards, the leading merchant of Hartford, and with John Hancock of Boston.

We are able to piece out his history, somewhat, from the following interesting document in Conn. Archives, State Library, Revolutionary War, Vol. V, 22 :

To the Hon<sup>ble</sup> the General Assembly of the Colony of Connecticut to be holden at New Haven the 13th October, 1774

The Petition of John McKnight humbly sheweth - That he came into this Colony in the year 1738 and bro't about £60 ster<sup>l</sup> worth of English goods with him from Europe, Which he traveld with and Disposed of in this Colony, and Continued that business for two years, after which he settled with M<sup>r</sup> Robert Sloan at Hartford for some years then Removed to New Haven where your Pet<sup>r</sup> Built two Ships one of 240 Tuns & 1 of 250 Whereby he bro't money into the place Instead of caring it out - During which time he was Clerk, and one of the Company that built out the Union - Warff and give £50 - for that purpose afterwards Returned back to Hartford and was one of the Company that lent the Government a large Sum of Money on the Com<sup>m</sup>encement of the War - During all which time your Pet<sup>r</sup> Suffered Extremely by the Depressing old Tenor; yet notwithstanding by his application and frugality to business he paid all his honest lawful Debts in Boston New York and Elsewhere tho he had Owed several thousands at a time, when many then were Obliged to turn Bankrupt; That your Pet<sup>r</sup> was oblig'd to take a small farm in East Windsor to save a large Debt - whereon he now lives; but leaving off the business he was bro't up in and not acquainted with Farming and being Unhappely bound for Another man your Pet<sup>r</sup> and Family is hereby Reduced to a Very low situation in life, and as your Pet<sup>r</sup> is now advanced in years and unable to endure the fatigue as formerly yet Doubts not but if your Hon<sup>or</sup> would be so good as to Conceded and Grant him your Hon<sup>or</sup> License to travel with such Goods in this Colony as shall be tho't needful for the People - And which can in all probability under Divine Providence be the only means to Relieve a Distressed helpless Family out of the Deepest Calamity - Not anxious now to acquire an Estate but to live Comfortably as heretofore together with his former Experiences therein - Would willingly flatter himself this Hon<sup>ble</sup> Assembly - Some of which knowes the Varacity and Integrity of the whole of the above - Would Indulge him in his Request, and your Petitioner as in Duty bound shall Ever Pray |

Dated East Windsor, Oct<sup>r</sup> 12, 1774.

Marriages (Eng. Town Rec.): 1 Nov., 1830, John McKnight of Ellington and Sarah Maria Abbe of Entfield; 20 Dec., 1831, Andrew McKnight of Granby and Sophronia Adams of Entfield; 8 Nov., 1840, Mr. Thomas McKnight and Mrs. Sophronia McKnight.

The Windsor Tax Lists for 1754 show names of a Robert and James, and in 1766 that of John McKnight in Ellington. In Scantie cemetery is a monument to "Miss Sarah, dau. of Mr. Robert McKnight and Mrs. Marcen his wife, who d. 25 Aug., 1762, in y<sup>r</sup> 43 year of her age." Query: Were these three men brothers?—R. McLEAN. [For this admirably condensed and very interesting sketch of the McLeans we are indebted to Mrs. MARY D. McLEAN of Wethersfield, Conn. The arrangement and bracketed items are our own.—H. R. S.]

The McLeans of Windsor and Ellington are descended from two brothers, NEIL and ALLAN, who emigrated to this country toward the middle of the last century. They are fortunate in being able to trace their lineage, without a missing link, to about the year 1100; their progenitor of that date being described in Celtic history as "an influential, just, and venerable man." A few generations after him came Gillean, founder of the name and clan, of which he is called the first chief. MacGillean, and, at length, MacLean, were some of the changes made in the name before the last became established, though the surname was by no means always used, and was variously spelled. The chieftainship descended to the eldest son, and the seventh in the succession had a younger son who was a very enterprising and powerful man. In response to his demand for an inheritance he received the Island of Coll and large districts in other islands, and he became the founder of a highly esteemed and influential branch of the clan of which he was the first "laird." The sixth "Laird of Coll" was the great-grandfather of Neil and Allan McLean. Their grandfather (Neil) third son of Lachlan, the laird, was an officer in one of the Highland regiments that fought for Prince Charlie against Cromwell. He was severely wounded in the battle of Inverkeithing (1651), in which it has often been said by historians that, of the 800 McLeans engaged, but 40 came out alive; possibly an exaggeration, as another more moderate statement appears that "Sir Hector was left among the slain with 500 of his followers."

Allan McLean, father of the emigrants, Neil and Allan, was by tradition professor in the University of Edinburgh, Scotland, and was of Grisiboll, or Grisi-pol, Island of Coll. He was prob. b. somewhat before the last quarter of the 17th century, and d. not many years before or after the first quarter of the 18th. His eldest son Louchlan was b. 1693, and his youngest in 1715. He prob. d. before his sons came to America, as letters received by them from the brother left in Scotland refer to the mother as living, but refer not at all to the father. These children of (Prof.) Allan McLean were well educated, as writings left by the younger, and the thorough medical training of the elder (extending, it is said, through seven years) plainly indicate*:

Neil (Dr.), according to apparently reliable tradition, came to America with the distinguished Dr. Morrison (of Hartford), in the year 1736, and this fact tends to corroborate the trad. that he was, like Dr. M., a graduate of the Univ. of Edinburgh, in which his father is said to have been a professor. The most reliable records say

*There are in the possession of a descendant of Allan, the emigrant, a few letters, written by the brother left behind in Scotland to those who came to this country. He was much older than they, and his interest in them and their children, and in other nephews in Europe and America, is more like that of a father than a brother, or uncle, and is very pleasant to notice. Furthermore, as far as these letters refer to my individual or event mentioned in the History of the Clan McLean (by J. P. McLean, published at Cincinnati, O.) they confirm the printed work, and the history, which is so much fuller in some cases, in detail, throws light upon some things merely hinted at in the written letters, because well understood by those to whom they were written. The letters and the history thus unintentionally corroborate one another. M. D. McL.

that Dr. McLean was b. 1702 (another, 1705), and without doubt in the home of his family, the Island of Coll. Both he and Dr. Morrison settled at Hartford, Conn., and both became prominent physicians. He owned at H., a house and considerable land which his ch. inherited, and also owned "a country-seat near the line between H. and Wintonbury parish," and located on what is now called the Blue Hills road. It is prob. that he resided here during the later years of his life, since upon Town Rec. of H., prior to 1773, he is always mentioned as "of Hartford," and in 1782 he is "Neil of Windsor." He d. Jan., 1784, and in May and June of that year his sons Allan, Lachlan, John, and Neil, all described as "of Windsor," quit claimed to John Caldwell their right in lands once owned by their father.

FAM. 3. Richard (Rev.), b. at Lowton, Winwick Parish, Lancashire, Eng., 1596. He early evinced a great fondness for learning, but his family having lost much of their property, he was obliged to make his own way in life. Was sent to school at Winwick, four miles from L., where he was boarded in winter, and in summer walked to and from school, so great was his desire for an education. At age of 15 he became the master of this school, and, the next year, was invited by the people of Toxteth Park (now a suburb of Liverpool), to take charge of their public school. Later he entered Brasenose Coll., Oxford, but did not remain there long enough for a degree. Returning to Toxteth he took holy orders; was ordained by Bishop Morton of Chester, and preached his first sermon 13 Nov., 1618, with great acceptance to a vast assemblage of people; but, such was the strength of his memory, that what he had prepared for one contained no less than six long discourses. As a pastor he became noted for watchfulness, tenderness, and energy. Sept. 29, 1624, he m. Katherine (da. Edmund, Esq.) Hoult of Bury-in-Lane. He preached twice every Lord's day at Toxteth, and every fortnight he held a Tuesday lecture at Prescott. He was suspended for non-conformity Aug. to Nov., 1633, and again in 1634 for the same cause. Being "without hope of again enjoying the liberty of doing any public work in his native land," he (15 Apl., 1635) journeyed to Bristol (being tracked by pursuivants who were endeavoring to apprehend him), whence he took ship (May 23d) for New England, arriving at Boston Aug. 17th. Out of several invitations quickly made to him, he selected that from Dorchester, Mass., where, until his death, 22 Apl., 1669, he faithfully served the church which had been left by Rev. Mr. Warham upon the emigration to Windsor, Conn. He was a man of great erudition, and assisted "the Apostle" Eliot in his translation of the Bible into the Indian language. His published works were a Modest Answer to Mr. Charles Herb his Book, 1644; Reply to Mr. Rotherford, 1645; and, in 1648, he was selected to draw up an Outline of Church Discipline for New England, agreeable to Holy Scriptures. He is said to have been really the sole author of the Discourse about the Church Covenant and the Answers to the Thirty-two Questions, 1639, although they passed under the name of the Ministers of New England. He was, indeed, highly esteemed for piety, courage, and power, by the best theologians. "His voice was loud and big, and uttered with a deliberate vehemency which procured unto his ministry an awful and very taking majesty." He m. In 1648 was made a freeman; in 1650 went to Eng., where his reputation had preceded him; was app. chaplain to the Lord Mayor of London, and became immensely popular both with the ministry and the laity; pres'd at Gravesend and at Exeter Cath.; app. chaplain of Magdalen Coll., Oxford; two yrs. he went, with the Eng. C., 1650, commenced preaching at D. at age of 18 yrs.; under the eye of his father; 1657 went to Eng.; spent a yr. at Trinity Coll., Dublin; ret. to New Eng., 1661; became pastor of 2d (No. 1) Ch. of Boston, 27 May, 1661, and contin. till death; in 1681 was elected pres. of Hary Coll., but, after a short service, resigned on acct. of his congregation's unwillingness to grant him dis-sual; after the death of Pres. Rogers, he was again called to fill the presidency of the Coll., with the understanding that he was not to sever his connection with his ch.; he was actual pres. of the Coll., 1685-1701. In 1688 was sent by the Colony to England to present their suffering condition; had several interviews with King James and ret. to N. Eng. after a 4 years absence, during which he labored energetically both for the Colony's and college's interests, without recompense. For the Coll., in 1692, he prepared a charter which was sanctioned by the Gov. and Gen. Ct., but afterwards vetoed by the King, but under which (while it was in force) the corporation conferred upon him the degree of D. D., an honor never before conferred in Br. America. He was not again conferred until nearly 80 years after, when it was bestowed upon his grandson, Rev. Samuel. His administration of the College was a brilliant epoch in its history. His voice was commanding, his delivery grand and deliberate, and not monotonous. He d. 23 Aug., 1733, and was interred with great honors. His pub. works numbered 80. Of his sons were Rev. Corroon Maynard, one of the greatest intellects of N. Eng. and author of the famous May's of America, and who had a son, Rev. Dr. Samuel, also a distinguished theologian, and who succeeded his father in his Ch. at Boston. Rev. FAM. 36. Frederic Ellsworth<sup>10</sup> (Gen.) (Ellsworth,<sup>1</sup> Col. Oliver,<sup>2</sup> Nathl.,<sup>3</sup> Dr. Sam'l,<sup>4</sup> Rev. Sam'l,<sup>5</sup> Timo.,<sup>4</sup> Rev. Rich.,<sup>3</sup> Thos.,<sup>2</sup> John<sup>1</sup>). FREDERIC ELLSWORTH MATHER, son of Ellsworth and Laura (Wolcott) Mather, was born in Windsor, Conn., May, 1809, in the homestead of Col. Oliver Mather, his paternal grandfather. His father died 23 Dec., 1814; his mother re-married 12 Nov., 1816, and the care and support of the boy was assumed by his grandfather.

The Colonel was an extensive and prosperous farmer, and, in accord with New England thrift, the boy "did the chores." As he grew in years and strength he became familiar with all the farm industries. To the experience and discipline of such farm life he credits his physical vigor and robust health. His book-learning was mainly that of the district school, though in later years he at times attended the Academy. Always a diligent scholar, in the Academy he studied the rudiments of both Latin and Greek, faintly hoping that he might at some time pursue a full collegiate and professional course.

In November, 1829, he arranged with the Rev. Mr. Perkins of Amherst, Mass., for his aid as tutor, in fitting for college. In January, 1831, he was admitted to the Sophomore class in Yale—a class which he entered before he commenced with his preparations. Under such circumstances it was not easy at first to maintain a satisfactory class standing; but he persevered, and graduated honorably in 1833, and afterwards received the degree of A.M.

Having selected the Law as his profession, he read one year in Hartford (in the offices of Gov. Ellsworth and Judge Parsons), and another year in the Yale Law School. In 1835, when expecting to go West, he received a proposition to enter a law office in the city of New York. Among others with whom he advised on the proposition was his kinsman, Erastus Ellsworth, a retired New York merchant, who contented himself with the remark, "New York is a great business field, and should you conclude to go there, with industry, honesty, and economy, you will succeed."

In November, 1835, he became a "law clerk" in the office of Walter Edward, on Wall street, with a salary of one hundred dollars a year. In 1838 he was an attorney and counselor-at-law, and entered the field of professional competition. Being married and having no particular patronage, the struggle at times was trying, financially, but, by 1841, he had more than a fair living business. In November, 1844, he was elected to the New York Assembly, session of 1845. This took him from his professional business for five months, and nearly wrecked it, though it was left in care of a competent lawyer. A few years of renewed effort more than restored it, and thenceforth he prospered. But the time came when he found the requirements of his profession too exacting, and having gradually put them off, in 1882 he retired.

The foregoing sketch would be incomplete without the mention of other facts: In 1837, '38, and '40, respectively, he was commissioned First Lieutenant, Captain, and Lieut.-Colonel in the 264th Regiment, 6th Brigade, New York State Infantry. In November, 1842, he was commissioned Brigadier General to that brigade. While a strict disciplinarian, his election to each of these offices was unanimous. As an officer, he found pleasant and wholesome recreation from professional confinement and labors.

His sympathetic nature early associated him with humane and charitable institutions, of which are the Prison Association, the Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor, the Sanitary Association, with each of which he held official relations. Medical charities have particularly interested him. He initiated, and for more than twenty five years was the president of, the Demilt Dispensary. He actively co-operated in the initiation and organization of two other dispensaries, viz., the Northeastern and the Northwestern. He is a life member of each of these three institutions. He was also one of the original corporators, trustees, and organizers of the Roosevelt Hospital. Other institutions of charity have been aided by his services, and otherwise. In 1872 he visited hospitals and dispensaries in Great Britain and on the Continent, some results of which are embodied in the 25th Annual Report of the Demilt Dispensary.

He was one of the originators of the N. Y. Yale Alumni Association, and participated in the formation of the Yale Law School Alumni Association; also in that of the Association of the Bar of the City of New York. He is a member of the American Geographical Society, and life member of the N. Y. State Agricultural Society and the New England Society, and honorary member of the N. Y. Mercantile Library Association.

He long served as director of the Eighth Avenue Railroad Company; also as director, and for ten years as president, of the Richmond County Gas Light Company, Staten Island.

In 1845 he served in the State Legislature, and in 1855 and '56 in the New York City Common Council. For many years as Inspector, and other years as Trustee, he was given all requisite care and supervision of the public schools of New York city. To these offices he was elected from term to term.

Nor has he forgotten the place of his birth and boyhood, and matters there have received his aid. The old historic burying place of Windsor has interested him from his earlier years. He has caused the inscriptions on some eminent monuments to be re-cut, and has erected two granite monuments to replace perishing marble structures. In 1889 he prepared and advocated, and the General Assembly of Connecticut enacted, a law for the care and preservation of that cemetery, its lots and monuments. He has striven to put that law into efficient operation, and has subscribed liberally to the Cemetery Trust Fund.

With well defined religious and political convictions, and fearless to avow and defend them when assailed, Gen. Mather is neither obtrusive nor intolerant, and all of his political offices have been conferred by independent, non-partisan suffrages.

MILLS. [We have been largely assisted in this revision by Mr. TIMOTHY DRAKE of Hartford, Conn. The facts as to the trans-Atlantic origin of this family, as well as much of the information relative to the New Haven and Fairfield Co. families were obtained from Mrs. ARILLIA D. WYNKOOP, dau. of Judge Isaac Mills of N. Haven, Conn., to whom also we are indebted for the engraving of the correct coat-of-arms of the fam. (as granted to Sir Peter Van der Meulen), the result of personal investigation in Holland. Where no pl. of res. is given, they may be supposed to be of the N. H. or Fairfield Co. families. We have added many dates, etc., from W. C. R. and other sources.—H. R. S.

The progenitor of the Dutch family of Mills in America was Sir PETER WOUTERS VAN DER MEULEN of Amsterdam, Holland. His knighthood was conferred upon him for distinguished services to the public in the improvement of dykes and canals. His eldest son, PETER VAN MEULEN, b. in Holland, 1622, emig. to America from Leyden, where he was studying for the ministry in that University. About 1650 he there joined the refugees who had come thither for conscience's sake, from Eng., and thus aroused the displeasure of his father, who disinherited him. In Col. Rec., Vol. I (office of Sec'y of State, Hartford, Conn.), it is stated that, by his own request, his name was changed to Peter Mills, Van der Meulen, being in Dutch "the man of the Mill." He m. (1) Dorkas Messinger of W., who was b. 23 Sept., 1650, and d. 18 May, 1688; (2) Jane Warren of Hartford, 10 Dec., 1691; he d. 17 Apl., 1710 (one account says 12 Apl.), 1702. He had a lot in Haddam.

THE VAN DER MEULEN MILLS ARMS.

Conn., before 30 Nov., 1669. It is not known that he ever lived in H., but 13 Mch., 1670, the town of H. voted to Thomas Shailer "the lote that was Peter Milnes's the donche manes." (Had. Rec., 1st Bl.)—D. W. P. As a tailor, he is frequently mentioned in MS. of Rev. Timothy Edwards of (East) Windsor. He sett. in W., nr. the present east part of Bloomfield, eastward of the res. of the late Samuel J. Mills, and near the confines of Windsor Plains.    Children:

He showed such promise in theol. study that he was called, 2 Dec., 1723, to the then vacant ch. in North Haven, Conn., but, in preference, accepted the pastorage of a new society in the northern part of Stratford, Conn., called Ripton (now Huntington), where he was ordained, 12 Feb., 1723/4. It offered but a poor living, but he remained there until his death (52 yrs.), "greatly lamented after a few minutes' illness," 19 Jan., 1775 in his 79th year, and the 52d of his ministry, having had a colleague in Oct., 1773. He eked out his scanty living by preparing students for college, among whom was Rev. David Brainard, after he was exiled from Yale Coll., and until he was licensed to preach in 1742. Mr. Mills was a "New Light," and Whitefield, who made his acquaintance in his first coming to New Haven, 1710, notes him in his Journal as

"a dear man of God" who "talked like one who was no novice in divine things." He was "a warm-hearted divine, and entered fully into the spirit and preaching of Whitefield and Tennant, and co-operated with Bellamy and Edwards. In 1742 he was a member of a voluntary association which met at Wethersfield to promote the awakening and salvation of souls."—Contribution to the Ecol. Hist. Conn., 411. His est. inv. abt. 1735. Thomas, Jr.) Moore, 3 Dec., 1761; farmer; served as Quartermaster in Col. Enos's Reg't during the Revol. War; was also collector and constable in the colonial days; his staff, or baton of office, as constable, bearing the name of King George III, and the British arms stamped upon the broad gilded band that encircled it, was (1859) in possession of Mrs. Fanny L. Bissell of W. An anecdote of Mr. Elisha M.'s courage is still extant and undoubtedly authentic: A party of British officers were stationed at W., and, on a convivial occasion at one of the village inns they became exceedingly uproarious and abusive; and, to crown all, having marked a circle upon the floor, they declared that whoever dared to cross the line should be a dead man. Their conduct became so outrageous that the constable was finally summoned; and, on his appearance, Mr. Moore was threatened with death, if he entered the circle. Without delay he stepped over the line, and, "in the name and by the authority of the King," made them prisoners and quelled the disturbance — a deep cut in his three cornered hat testifying, however, to the peril he had risked in the discharge of his duty; he d. MOSELEY (Maudsley, Mauksley). This revision (with the exception of bracketed portions) of this family compiled and furnished by Rev. G. S. DICKERMAN of Amherst, Mass. The earlier spelling of the name was Maudsley. According to the MS. of Miss EMILY MOSELEY, deceased, of Glastonbury, Conn., for which we are indebted for many facts here given, “the latest use of this form in this region is on the monumental table in the old graveyard in Glastonbury, Conn., erected in memory of Capt. Joseph Maudsley, in 1719. On a small slab near it is Mauksley. The next to it is Moseley, and it has been so written since. . . .

“JOHN MOSESLEY, thus the ancient record reads, had two wives, Elizabeth and Cicely. He died in 1661, and his wife Cicely in the same year. They left a son and daughter who are named, in Cicely Moseley’s will, John and Elizabeth. There was a son Thomas, by the first wife, who was the ancestor of a branch which settled in the vicinity of Boston.”

Lieut. [John (s. of John and Cicely above-named), bu’t land in W., 1661, of Aaron Cook, then of Hadley, Mass.—the Cook place second N. of the Palizado—which he sold, 1677, to Joseph Whiting of Hartford, and rem. to Westfield, Mass., but ret. to and owned a mill in Windsor, where he died 18 Aug. Judd of Northampton we learn that “the est. was sett. 1706; four sons, Joseph, Consider, John, Comfort, had land, two eldest not rec. in Westfield; Benjamin ment. in will.” [He m. 11 Dec., 1664, Mary (dau. MUNSELL (Munsel, Mansell, Monsell, Munsall, Moncil, Muncil, Munnell, Munsel).

The first mention of the name in connection with America, is that Sir Robert Munsell, with others, in 1610, signed a "letter of the King's Council for Virginia," for sending out supplies of men and provisions from England to that colony, which then included New England. The next mention is that of Robert Mansell, who emigrated on the ship Richard and Mary for New England, 21 June, 1679. There was a Jno. Munsell at Charlestown, Mass., 1675, who left issue. The Windsor fam. of Munsell descend from Thomas Munsell or Monsell of New London, Conn., 1681, when his name first occurs upon the record there. He was a resident, 1683, of the Great Neck, there. Whether he was related to any of the three above-named is not known, but it is quite possible that both Thomas and Jno. may have been related to Robert, who came from England, 1679. — F. M.

At the time of the Revolution, Jacob Munsell was in the prime of life, and a thrifty farmer, residing in East Windsor. The requisitions of the army called into use every team that could be procured, and very high prices were paid for that service, especially after the communication with Boston harbor was interrupted by the British fleet. He therefore frequently undertook the transportation of provisions to the army lying in the neighborhood of Boston. On one occasion, while thus employed, having arrived within a few miles of the camp at Cambridge, with a heavy load drawn by an ox team, in a part of the road which was particularly rough, and where the traveled path was narrow, he met two carriages, in each of which was an American general officer. The officer in the forward carriage, when near to Munsell, put his head out at the window, and called to him in an authoritative tone, "Damn you, get out of the path." Munsell immediately retorted, "Damn you, I won't get out of the path, get out yourself." After some vain attempts to prevail on him to turn out, the officer's carriage turned out, and Munsell kept the path. The other carriage immediately came up, having been within hearing distance of what had passed; and the officer within it put his head out at the window, and said to Munsell, "My friend, the road is bad, and it is difficult for me to turn out; will you be so good as to turn out, and let me pass?" "With all my heart, sir," said Munsell; "but I won't be damned out of the path by any man." This last officer was Gen. Washington. The writer of this anecdote, having heard the affair related at the time, inquired of Munsell soon after the close of the war as to the truth of it, and was told that it was exactly true.—*Conn. FAM. 27. Joel<sup>6</sup> (Joel,<sup>5</sup> Hz.,<sup>4</sup> Elisha,<sup>3</sup> Jacob,<sup>2</sup> Thos.<sup>1</sup>), was printer, publisher, and antiquarian author at Albany, N. Y. The story of his life has been well given in the N. Y. Gen. and Biog. Rec. for April, 1880. Suffice it to say here that he was a most industrious, genial, and loveable man. He loved his chosen art with a fervor worthy of Aldus, Elzevir, or any of the ancient fathers of printing. His interest and sympathy in all genealogical and historical pursuits has impressed his name indelibly upon that department of American literature, and in his Chronology of the Origin and Progress of Paper and Paper-making, and his Annals of Albany in 10 octavo volumes, and Collections on the Hist. of Albany, 4 vols., as well as the hundreds of elegantly printed historical works from his press, which owed their perfection to his loving superintendence, he has left his mark high upon the roll of American authors and printers. He was a good friend to and the publisher of the first edition of this Hist. of Windsor and its Supplement, being, like its author, a grandson of that town.

NEWBERRY (Newbury, Nuberry)* Family from Devonshire, Eng.; tradition says from Myppen, and that two brothers of Thomas the Emigrant, who remained in Eng., had been members of Cromwell's famous Thousand Dragoons, in 1641/2. Hon. J. Hammond Trumbull of Hartford, Conn., some years since, found some old letters of the family pasted in the cover of an old book, in which mention was made * Compiled by Mrs. J. N. FERRY of Springfield, Mass., for the first edition of this work (1859); corrected and greatly enlarged for this edition by the late EDWARD KING of Indianapolis, Ind., by Mrs. J. M. SMITH of So. W. Conn., and by ARTHUR ST. JOHN NEWBERRY, Esq., of Cleveland, Ohio, and F. H. WINDSOR of Hartford, Conn.

of an "Uncle, or Captain Newberry, living in Morehard" (now Marchard Bishop), "fifteen miles from Exeter, in Devon. A great deal of weaving is said to have been carried on at this place," and it is said that John of Newberry discovered the art. The weavers' flag used in the Trades' processions in the west of England, on festive occasions, bore for its emblem the picture of John of Newberry weaving in a loom. The Wool-combers' flag had as its emblem the picture of Bishop Blaise, in canonicals, with a wool-comb in his left hand and the Bible in his right.—See illustrations of wool-combing, an old family print—Hist. and Pedigree of the House of Gaillard, by Wm. Gaillard, Cincinnati, Ohio.

According to tradition, also, it is related that in an early day one William of Newberry was the Chronicler of his District, i. e., the Recorder of Events for the Government, and that he was a wise and learned man, and that at the date of the adoption of surnames he was granted the distinguished honor (accorded to but one citizen of a town) of taking his name as its own, and he thereupon became William Newberry, and thus established a family, and from it has descended the English and American family of that name.

Arms, sable, three pales argent, on a canton azure a demi-lion or.; crest, an arm proper, vested azure, cuffed or, holding a truncheon gules, tipped, of the third.*

Thomas, says the Hist. Dorchester, Mass., "one of the earliest settlers and largest landed proprietors of D., rec'd from the Gen. Court a grant of 100 acres on Neponset, March, 1634, and many grants from the D. proprietary. He laid out a large farm in Squantum, and built a house there."

Mr. Newberry lived on "the Rock" in 1634, where he became freeman and selectman. In 1635 he was appointed to oversee works at the Castle; was early engaged in the Connecticut enterprise; sold his D. property, and prepared to remove to Windsor, but his death, either in December, 1635, or January, 1636, prevented. His wid. Jane and children removed to Windsor some time before 1639-40. His will (dated 12 Dec.) gave his wife £200, and constituted her his sole executrix, and the rest of his estate to his children. The inventory included land in England, valued at £300. Rev. Mr. Warham and Mr. William Gaylord were made overseers. The record of a Particular Court (Conn.), held March 5, 1639, says: "This present day there was returned into the Court, by Mr. Gaylord, one of the overseers, a copy of the estate of the children of Thomas Newberry, deceased, dated the 10th of Feb., 1639, subscribed by Mr. Ludlow, Mr. Phelps, Mr. Huit, Mr. Hill, George Hull, and Wm. Hosford."

More than thirty years after his death (Feb. 6, 1669) his heirs (represented by his sons-in-law, Mr. Henry Wolcott, Jr., and Mr. Daniel Clark, and by his son, Capt. Benjamin Newberry) presented to the Court "the ancient grant of land to their father, which would have fallen to him [in Windsor] in meadow by [i. e. in proportion to] the estate of his which was brought up [i. e. from England, for the Windsor settlers seem to have received their allotments of ld. in some proportion to the amounts which they had severally expended in this venture of settlement in a new country] which, by account of £700 and his person would have come to 76 acres, and he had but 49 acres in meadow, and it was granted him in Dorchester [i. e. before they left D.] that what was his part in meadow above 40 acres, he should have it made up to him in a farm in outland." In accordance with a previous vote of the town made in 1662, that "Capt. [Benj.] N. and his relations 'should have his father's ancient rights,'" the Court ordered that the petitioners should have "200 acres in West lands of Windsor."

* "HENRY S. NEWBERRY of Cleveland, Ohio, has in his possession an old dress sword which was worn by General ROGER N. on the belt of which is a silver plate, oval, about 4x2 inches, and bearing the Newberry arms.—Sable, three pales argent, on a canton azure a lion rampant, or." My father (Rev. John S. Newberry of N. Y. city) has also a very old water color of these same arms which has come down in the family for several generations. Neither the plate nor the picture show a crest. You will note that these arms differ from those usually given to the name, in one particular, viz.: that the lion is full-shape instead of "a demi-lion." We have always supposed these arms to belong to us, but I know of no positive evidence on the subject beyond these two articles. Whether the change in the lion is accidental, or intended, I do not know. If these are our arms, I suppose the usual crest, "an arm proper, vested azure, cuffed or, holding a truncheon gules, tipped, of the third," belongs to us also.—A. St. John Newberry, Esq., of Cleveland, Ohio.

The children of Mr. Thomas Newberry, being well descended, possessed of ample means, and becoming connected by marriage with some of the first families of Windsor, naturally assumed an honorably prominent position in the Connecticut Colony; and the family from that day on has shown a large preponderance of soldiers, engineers, surveyors, and pioneer merchants. The merchant marine established on the Western Lakes by Oliver Newberry was the most progressive achievement of his day. The high moral character, unobtrusive generosity, and great military spirit, combined with the keen business judgment of the Newberry family, have few parallels in American family history.

Yale College, 1726; settled in W. as a merchant; early rose to prominence; served as deputy to General Assembly at eleven sessions, beginning 1735; commissioned as Lieut. in Militia, 1729; appointed captain on the English establishment, and commanded one of the Conn. companies in the Expedition of 1740 against the Spanish, in the West Indies; was present at the repulse of Admiral Vernon, at Carthagea, Apl., 1741; sickened and died on the return voyage, 6th May. Very reliable family tradition states that on this return from the Carthagea Expedition Capt. Roger Newberry was confined to his berth with dysentery (of which thousands died), when a terrible storm arose in the Carribean Sea, so that the captain and sailors lost all hope and made ready for their impending fate by getting drunk. In this emergency, Captain Newberry went on deck, took command of the ship, put the captain and crew in confinement until they were sober, and then compelled them to navigate the ship. He remained on deck for 48 hours, till the storm abated, then went below and died. See notice of his life and death, page 244, Vol. I.

FAM. 10. Roger (Gen.) (Capt. Roger,<sup>4</sup> Benj.,<sup>5</sup> Benj.,<sup>2</sup> Thos.,<sup>1</sup>), settled and res. until his death on the ancient Newberry homestead in Windsor. He was a lawyer of undoubted ability and also a successful merchant and a prominent and influential citizen. He held commission as Lieutenant and as Captain under the English Crown, and at the commencement of the American Revolution promptly engaged in the service of the Colonies, and, by his tact and energy, won the rank of Major-General under a Connecticut State commission; served four years as a member of the Governor's Council; was Judge of Probate, Judge of County Court, and rendered efficient service in all matters connected with the public interests of Windsor.* He was a member of the Conn. Legislature (upper house), 1790-1809, and received an honorary degree from Yale College. Original portraits of him and his wife, Eunice Ely, are in possession of Widow Anson Loomis of Windsor, and also in that of Prof. John S. Newberry of Columbia College, N. Y. city; and tradition says that he bore a striking resemblance to his maternal grandfather, Gov. Roger Wolcott. He m. (1) Hannah (dau. of Mr. Alex. and Hannah) Allyn, 3d, of Windsor, 9 Jan., 1759, who d. 23 Feb., 1760, without issue; (2) 29 July, 1762, Eunice (dau. John and Eunice) Ely of Springfield, Mass., who was b. 11 Sept., 1741. She was the dau. of that Mrs. Eunice (widow of Mr. John) Ely, who became the second wife of Gen. Roger Wolcott.

Mrs. Eunice (Ely) Newberry's monument (O. W. C.) bears the following epitaph: "Mrs. EUNICE NEWBERRY | wife of | THE HON. ROGER NEWBERRY, | was born | Aug. 29, A. D. 1741 | and died | Aug. 23, A. D. 1813. | She was an Almoner to the poor, | And the good were her friends; | Few have lived more beloved | None have died more regretted. | To the Memory | of the best of | Parents, | Filial Piety | Has erected | This | Monument."

The Hon. Gen. Roger's epitaph (O. W. C.) is as follows: "The Hon. ROGER NEWBERRY, Esq. | Was born June 30, 1735, | and, after having sustained | with honor to himself | and advantage to the public, | many of the most important | Offices | in the gift of the State | Died | on the 13th of February, 1814, | Respected,

* LIST OF COMMISSIONS OF ROGER NEWBERRY of Windsor, Conn., originals now in possession of A. W. J. NEWBERRY, Cleveland, Ohio.

2. Jonathan Trumbull, Captain-General, &c., appointing Roger Newberry a Captain of same company. Dated Hartford, June 1st, 1774.

3. Jonth Trumbull, Governor, &c. "Major of the first regiment of Horse and Foot of said Colony." Dated at New Haven, 4th November, 1775.

4. Jonth Trumbull, Governor and Commander in Chief of The State of Connecticut in America, appointing him Colonel. Dated at Hartford, May 29th, 1777.

5. Jonth Trumbull, appointing him Brigadier General of the First Brigade of Militia. Dated Hartford, March 14th, 1781.

6. The Governor and Company of the State of Connecticut, in New England, America, appointing Roger Newberry Probate Judge, District of Hartford. Dated May 29th, 1782.

7. By Samuel Huntington, Governor. To Oliver Ellsworth, Roger Newberry, and Gideon Granger, Commissioners for Connecticut to meet commissioners from Massachusetts and settle bounds between towns of Sudfield, Granby, Hartland, Colebrook, Norfolk, and Canaan, in this State, and towns adjoining in Mass., as far as western bounds of town of New Marlborough. Dated November 15, 1793.

* There is a discrepancy between the date here given, and that as given above; prob. the former date is of her baptism, which has become confused with that of her birth, in the family record.

GEN. ROGER NEWBERRY

From portrait in possession of Prof. John S. Newberry, of Columbia College, New York City

honored and esteemed | Through life | in death he was an example | of resignation
| and confidence in the merits | of his Redeemer.

“Death is the crown of life
Were death deny'd, poor man would live in vain;
Were death deny'd, to live would not be life;
Were death deny'd, e'en fools would wish to die;
Death wounds to cure; we fall, we rise, we reign;
Spring from our fetters, fasten in the skies;
Where blooming Eden withers in our sight,
Death gives us more than was in Eden lost.”

Oliver served in the army, 1814-15, and, after discharge, settled at Buffalo, N. Y., entering commercial life there in 1817; he was remarkably successful; built and maintained the largest fleet of steam and sailing vessels on the Western lakes; in 1826 he moved his headquarters to Detroit and entered the shipping trade; in 1828 opened a house, Newberry & Dole at Chicago, later, one with the Dou-mans at Milwaukee, and another at Green Bay, as well as a dock at Sheboygan, Wis.; he was the first to open the trade among the islands and peninsulas of the lake-coasts, and his vessels entered every part of the great chain of lakes; being a great admirer of the first Napoleon, he named his sailing vessels after him and his marshals, and ran the

- earliest steamers on those waters—the Illinois, Melippan, Nile, Fashion, etc.; he was well known as the Commodore of the Western Lakes. He enjoyed the personal friendship of the elder Astor, and of Gov. Lewis Cass, and as (for many years) Government Indian agent, and agent for the Hudson Bay Fur Company, he became the friend and counselor of the Michigan and Wisconsin Indians, so winning their confidence that they named him "Open Hand," and were always a satisfied and peaceable people under his management; his life was active, his word better than a bond, his busi-ness methods straightforward and honorable. The West was much aided by his life and example, and his birthplace has reason to be proud of his record.

Given is 7th in Hist. Soc's copy of Chuk Burial Rec., but we have adopted the view of D. W. PATTERSON, who says "the Hist. Soc's copy puts this under Feb. 7th, and makes no mention of Feb. 7; and I think in all of these cases it is wrong, for none of the dates given by it were on Sunday, except Jan. 17, 1796, and that is not given as the right baptism."

S. Military Academy, by Pres. Andrew Jackson, but, because of ill health, abandoned that career, and at sixteen years of age joined his brother, Oliver F., in the dry goods trade in De-trait, in 1826. He was successful, and in 1833 joined a syndicate of five, Lewis Cass and Wm. B. Astor being of the number, in a tour of inspection and for investment in the West. They bought lands in Green Bay, Milwaukee, Calumet, and Chicago; at the latter place he settled in 1833, making investments there in real estate, which became the nucleus of a fortune which was variously estimated, at the time of his death, at from four to ten millions of dollars. His name appears in the first Chicago Directory (1839) as an attorney and real estate dealer. He figured largely in the city's early history in connection with the establishment of banks, insurance companies, schools, and public improvements generally, and especially as a promoter of railroads. He was a projector, and for a time the president of the old Galena & Chicago R. R., the first line of the present great Northwestern system, and lived to see Chicago the greatest railroad center of the world. He was a member of the banking house of Newberry & Burch; twice president of the Chic. School Board, a founder and twice president of the Ohio Historical Society; and, by his will, he endowed a public library, which bears his name, with one-half of his estate. This endowment, now in real estate and securities, is valued at $5,000,000, and is increasing rapidly in value.

Mr. Newberry married, 22 Nov., 1842, Julia Butler (dau. of Judge James and Julia Hugh) Clapp of Oxford, Chenango Co., N. Y. The Clapps were a Windsor family, as well as the Newberrys, and were direct descendants from Capt. Roger Clapp from Devonshire, Eng., in 1630, in the same vessel with the N.'s, with whom there had once before been an intermarriage, viz., that of Eld. Preserve (s. Captain Roger) Clapp, with Sarah Newberry. Mrs. Julia B. (Clapp) Newberry was an active member of the Prot. Epis. Church, known and respected for her liberality and benevolence, as well as for her talents and social acquirements. She d. Dec., 1885, a. 69. FAM. 29. Henry (Benj.,<sup>1</sup> Benj.,<sup>2</sup> Jos.,<sup>3</sup> Thos.,<sup>3</sup> Benj.,<sup>2</sup> Thos.,<sup>1</sup>), when 16 years of age went to Hartford to learn the shoemaker's trade, during the last year of his apprenticeship his employer was confined in jail for debt, and during that year young Newberry provided for the support of his employer's family, by taking orders to the jail to be cut out, and then taking them home to make up and deliver. After completing his apprenticeship, he went to New York city, and a year later engaged at his native place, Wethersfield, and with his father, at last-making. At that time all lasts were made by hand, and he worked at this until he had accumulated a few hundred dollars, and machinery supplanted hand-work in his line of business. He m. 9 Dec., 1824, Nancy Beiden, at Berlin, Conn., and went into the boot and shoe business, he also took the shoemaking department of the Connecticut State Prison, at Wethersfield, paying the State 30 cents each day for each convict employed. He continued in this business until 1848, when he removed to Ohio, thence, in 1851, he removed to Menominee, Mich., U. P., still carrying on his old business. Retiring from business about 1865, he went to live on a farm with his youngest sons, Edw'd and Selah, in the town of Peshtigo, Wis., where he met his death (Oct. 8th) in the forest fire of 1871. Sangertfield, N. Y., 23 Dec., 1835; received an academic education; was raised upon a farm; entered commercial business with his father at seventeen years of age, and at 21 succeeded to his father's business, which then extended all over the Northwest, his father dying in the following spring of 1856. In 1860 he was called to Detroit to take partnership with the house of Oliver Newberry & Co., his uncle, who died shortly after, leaving him joint owner of an immense business and large property, as administrator, which he conducted successfully.

Upon the opening of the Civil War, 1861, without waiting for a commission, he enlisted in the service of the Union with New York troops; was soon made Lieutenant; Captain in 1862; Major in 1863; Lieut.-Col. early in 1864, and Col. of Cavalry in Dec. of same year. In March, 1865, was breveted Brigadier-General by the President, and confirmed by the Senate for distinguished services in the field; commanded a brigade of cavalry in the Army of the Potomac; was mustered out 1 July, 1865, at the close of the war, having been four times wounded, and with a most honorable record. He again entered into business, removing to Chicago in 1876, of which city he has been alderman, commissioner of streets, and mayor; is an ardent democrat; president of the Iroquois Club of Chicago for several years; appointed postmaster of that city under the Cleveland administration, and well known as a wealthy, successful business man, with clear conceptions of duty as a citizen, and marked stability of character. Elected Dem. member to the 52d Congress from 4th Dist., Cook Co., Ill. Gen. Newberry is said by the newspapers to be, in personal appearance, the most striking looking man in the House—tall, white-haired, and very handsome. Gen. JOHN MILTON NILES, an editor, author, politician, and statesman of eminent ability, and long and varied public service, was born in that part of Windsor which retains the Indian name of Pogonock, on the 29th of August, 1787. His father, Moses Niles, was a native of Groton, in the county of New London, who emigrated to Windsor previous to the Revolutionary war, and married into the ancient family of the Marshalls. Both the Niles and the Marshall families were of the old Puritan stock, and each, with some intellectual peculiarities, had marked traits of mental vigor and capacity. Losing his father in early childhood, John Milton's educational advantages were limited to the opportunities afforded by a common district school, such as the schools were at the close of the last century. The family was not affluent, and his youth was one of severe and unremitting manual labor upon the little farm which he and his eldest brother cultivated. Though possessing an ardent thirst for knowledge, he had but slight opportunities for its gratification until after he was twenty years of age, when, prompted and encouraged by others, whose opinions he respected, and who saw and appreciated his talents, he resolved to acquire a more thorough education. Restricted, however, in his means and deeming himself too old for collegiate advantages, he entered at once upon a course of systematic and laborious study, which he followed up with such assiduity as for a time to impair his health. With an inquisitive and keenly discriminating intellect, fond of statistics and a memory that retained every incident and event that came within his reading and observation, his mind became a great storehouse of facts, that were easily at command, and made him always formidable to political or legislative opponents. He was an earnest and close reader, thoroughly mastering the subject of every book he perused. This was of service to him not only while a student, but during his whole after life. Few men associated with him in the public councils were more conversant with history, better understood the science of government, or had more deeply investigated the political and civil institutions of our own and other countries.

The peculiar condition of our governmental and political affairs during the administration of Mr. Madison interested all classes. It was a time of high party excitement, sharpened by the commercial restrictions which the federal administration had deemed necessary to prevent our country from becoming involved in the wars that were then sweeping over almost the whole civilized world. The people were arrayed in opposing parties on these questions. Mr. Niles, while yet a student in the office of John Sargent, was a zealous Republican and supporter of the administration and policy of Mr. Madison. The courts and bar, as well as the State authorities, were almost unanimously of opposite politics.

Diligent and unassuming in his manners, but earnest and firm in his convictions, Mr. Niles was frank in the avowal of his opinions and principles, and the reasons by which he was governed. Professional business did not, however, accumulate on his hands, and he employed his time not only in his legal studies, but general reading. He made himself perfectly familiar with the structure of our political and civil system—State and Federal—and became in consequence what is known in our politics as a strict Constitutionist and uncompromising States-rights man. Then, and forever after, during all the vicissitudes of parties, he maintained for the Federal Government the rightful exercise of all the powers granted by the Constitution, but resisted any and every unauthorized assumption, claiming for the States, respectively, all their reserved rights and sovereignty. A portion of his leisure he devoted to political essays, most of which were published in the American Mercury at Hartford. Being attached, however, to his profession, and his circumscribed means rendering it necessary that he should attend to something else than political controversies for a livelihood, he contemplated emigrating to some other State. With this view he visited Vermont, New York, and Pennsylvania, but returned to Connecticut undecided, and with out any definite plan for the future. It was while at Harrisburg, in 1815, that he formed his first slight acquaintance with James Buchanan, William J. Duane, and Joel B. Southerland, then young men of about his own age, and each of them, for the first time, members of the Pennsylvania legislature. This acquaintance was, twenty years after, renewed with each, under widely different circumstances.

The termination of the war and the retirement of Mr. Madison extinguished the political issues that had been long in controversy, and led to a dissolution of the national party organizations which for years had divided the country. But during the general amnesty on Federal politics that characterized the Monroe Administration, public action became concentrated on local differences within the States. In Connecticut there was a growing discord in regard to the old order of things, and the dynasty in power steadily refused to yield to innovations. The times were auspicious for the reformers to press their views, and radical changes were demanded, the most prominent of which were an extension of the right of suffrage, religious equality, and a written constitution defining and limiting the powers of the government. Mr. Niles embarked in these reformatory measures with zeal, energy, and ability; and more than any other man, perhaps, contributed to the revolution of parties which followed. To forward his views and give them efficiency, he, with the co-operation of others, established the Hartford Times, in January, 1817, a paper that acquired an immediate local position and influence. He was for several years the exclusive editor of that journal, and for thirty years continued to be a liberal contributor to its columns. The revolution was as complete as had been anticipated, but the results were less radical than Mr. Niles and the more earnest reformers desired and expected. After struggling ineffectually for several years to remedy what he deemed defects, and incurring to him some pecuniary sacrifices, he relinquished his position as editor of the Times, though he long remained its principal proprietor.

In 1821 the General Assembly appointed him one of the associate judges of the county court for the county of Hartford, an appointment which he held for eight years, when he declined the office. In 1826 he was elected a representative from the town of Hartford to the General Assembly. The Republicans nominated him as their candidate for the Senate in 1827, but being friendly to the election of Gen. Jackson, a portion of the party refused to sustain him, and he was consequently defeated. This proceeding contributed perhaps to his activity, as it certainly gave him prominence in instituting and organizing what was subsequently known as the Democratic party, which elected and sustained Gen. Jackson. In the spring of 1829 he was appointed postmaster at Hartford, a place he resigned on receiving from Gov. Edwards the executive appointment of Senator in Congress, the post having been made vacant by the death of Nathan Smith. This appointment was confirmed by the Legislature when it assembled, and he represented the State in the Senate until March, 1830. He was the Democratic candidate for Governor in 1829, and again in 1840. In the latter year President Van Buren tendered him the office of Postmaster General, and the Senate unanimously confirmed his nomination. Retiring with Mr. Van Buren in March, 1841, he was again, in 1842, re-elected to represent Connecticut in the Senate of the United States. This place he held until the expiration of the term in 1849, when he relinquished from official life, although he retained to the close of his days an abiding and lively interest on all political subjects.

In the Senate he early took an active part in the proceedings and debates, steadily rising in position and influence during his whole career. Although not a brilliant speaker, he was a ready, interesting, and instructive debater, whose accurate knowledge, acute and just discrimination, and sound common sense were acknowledged and appreciated by men of all parties. There was much political asperity in the Senate during the administrations of Jackson and Van Buren. The financial questions which called into existence the Democratic and Whig parties generated intense animosities, and to some extent affected social intercourse. The unyielding firmness and uncompromising character of Senator Niles, particularly when principles were involved, led in many to misunderstand and misapprehend his general and kindly nature. There was less partisan bitterness in his latter than his first senatorial term, in consequence of the adjustment and final disposition of the exciting financial questions that had agitated and convulsed the country; and he was not one who desired to perpetuate differences when the causes which led to them ceased to exist. No man more fully recognized the utility and necessity of party organization to accomplish and carry into effect important measures based on fundamental principles; but under no circumstances would he abandon or sup-render those principles to the mandates of organization. This was, in his view, a perversion and abuse of party to which he would not submit. It was an axiom with him that party and organization must be subordinate and subsidiary to principles, and that principles should never be secondary or sacrificed to party. Hence, on repeated occasions, when the party with which he acted took a new position, he was brought in conflict with valued friends, eventuating to some extent in a change of associates, but not of principles. This was the case in 1829, when the party which revolutionized the State neglected, as he conceived, to carry out the reforms with which they commenced to their fulfillment. Again, in the election of Gen. Jackson and the Bank controversy, at a future period, he disregarded the old organizations with which he had been connected, because, as he alleged, it was faithless to the principles which originated it. The Bank, and kindred measures of the period, he denounced as centralizing, as an invasion of the reserved rights of the States, and unwarrantable assumptions of power by the federal government.

Though assailed with unsparring violence, he ably vindicated his adherence to principles which he deemed fundamental and essential. The acquisition of large additional territory from Mexico, near the close of his senatorial service, brought the subject of extending and naturalizing slavery prominently before the country. Incidental to, and connected with this subject, was the territorial policy of the government, which it was proposed to change, in order to strengthen the organization on these new issues. Promptly and at the threshold, Senator Niles met the question, and denounced the scheme as a perversion of the objects, purposes, and principles of the Democratic party, whose mission was of a different character. Adhering to the primitive doctrine of strictly constraining the constitution, and limiting the authority of the federal government to the powers granted, he denied that Congress could legislate slavery into the territories, or delegate that power or permission to others. No obligation of party, or allegiance to organization, could swerve him, or induce him to sacrifice his conscientious convictions on this subject, for his opinions were deliberately formed, and essential principles were involved. With all the ardor and sincerity of his earlier years, he opposed what in his view were the centralizing tendencies of the administration. As the controversy progressed, his opinions became more decided and his feelings more interested, until, believing the emergency required extraordinary effort, he, at the age of sixty-eight, projected the establishment of a new daily paper, and the organization of a distinct Republican party, to act in concert with others in the different States who were commencing a similar movement.

While earnestly engaged in the prosecution of these labors of disinterested political duty, a cancerous affection developed itself in his system. Undeterred by this affliction, he persevered in what he considered to be his duty to its consummation. Through his instrumentality the Hartford Press was established and published in February, 1856; a Republican State convention was held in March, and the Republican party was forthwith organized; but his disease, in the meantime, had made such progress, that he felt compelled to abandon further labors, and thenceforth cease from earthly cares. His last public effort, and his last appearance among his fellow citizens, was at the Republican convention in March. He breathed his last on the 31st of the following May, in the sixty-ninth year of his age.

Senator Niles, besides his political labors, employed his pen in other fields as an author. His first undertaking was that of editing the republication of an English work, entitled, "The Independent Whig," a large quarto of nearly five hundred pages, published in 1816. This was followed, in 1819, by a tractlet, at Connecticut and Rhode Island, in the compilation of which he was assisted by his brother in law, Dr. John C. Pease. He also prepared a very useful and serviceable book called The Civil Officer, of which several editions were published. A History of Meriden and the South American Republics, written by him, ran through many editions. He also wrote a Biography of Oliver H. Perry, a quarto volume of about 400 pages. It is not necessary to enumerate the numerous pamphlets, orations, and addresses on political, agricultural, financial, and miscellaneous subjects which, during a period of forty years, emanated from his prolific pen, and which had extensive circulation and influence. His speeches in the Senate were many, and on almost every important question before that body, while he was a member. Some of them were very effective, and distinguished for great research and argumentation. Those on the Bank, the Deposits, the Expunging resolutions, the Independent Treasury, the Tariff, the Mexican War, and the Jefferson Ordinance, as applicable to the newly-acquired territory, may be specified as among his ablest efforts. Mr. Calhoun, with whom he often and widely differed, awarded him the possession of the most ready and accurately-discriminate mind of any member of the Senate. Col. Benton said, that not only were his opinions eminently sound and correct, but that his political and moral courage exceeded that of his associates. Silas Wright declared he always distrusted the acuteness of his own conclusions when they differed from Senator Niles. Such were the estimates of some of the master minds of the Senate, men with whom he was associated in daily social and official intercourse for years. The remark publicly made by Mr. Van Buren, that "Senator Niles spoke as Franklin wrote," conveys a correct impression of the matter and manner of the man. Indeed, his marked traits were good, practical common sense, without peducision, unassumingly but honestly and fearlessly expressed.

President Van Buren showed his high appreciation of the qualities and abilities of Senator Niles by tendering him, unsolicited, a seat in his cabinet, and that, too, when the department was laboring under serious embarrassments. The reforms which he introduced into the department not only contributed to its immediate relief, but constituted the basis of future action in its administration. He promptly discontinued the transportation of the mails on Sundays, except on the principal routes, and advised that great reform which was soon carried into effect, the reduction of the rates of postage as a means of promoting mail facilities, and thereby increasing the revenue, a proposition that was to many a seeming paradox.

A considerable portion of the years 1851 and 1852 he spent in visiting the various countries of Europe.

Unostentatious, plain, and frugal, he acquired by industry and economy a handsome estate. Humane and benevolent, he, living, exercised active charity, and, dying, desired to alleviate suffering humanity. Besides numerous legacies to individuals, he bequeathed seventy thousand dollars in trust to the city of Hartford as a charity fund, the income from which he directed to be annually distributed to the poor. This noble benefaction to the city of his adoption was the crowning act of a useful and well-spent life. Commented on by Hon. GIDEON WELLES of Hartford.

Another Hartford neighbor says of him: "He was of medium stature and of very quiet demeanor, and a stranger might have thought him reserved and unsocial, but in his daily intercourse with his neighbors and acquaintances he was affable and very social, and no man could spend an hour with him without feeling that he had been instructed. Of extensive reading and retentive memory, he could converse upon any subject; but I think he had a better knowledge of the political history of our country than any man I ever knew, except perhaps the late Hon. Gideon Welles."

Dr. Olmsted's ancestors on both sides for several generations were residents of Enfield, and there he received his early education, supplemented by a course of study at the Westfield Academy, after which he was for several years in the office and under the instruction of Dr. Erastus Edgerton Marcy, then of Hartford. His degree of M.D. was conferred by the University of New York, from which he graduated with the highest honors in 1843. He commenced the practice of his profession in Nyack, N. Y., but after a few months rem., Feb., 1814, upon the death of Dr. William Daniels, to Warehouse Point, Conn., where he remained until his death. He was the founder of the "Hartford County North Medical Association," and was elected a Fellow of the Connecticut Medical Society in 1856. In the Legislature of 1853 he represented the second Senatorial district, and was, as a staunch Democrat, always interested in political questions.

W. by a celebrated athlete, who had come all the way from Virginia to test their relative strength; O. was disinclined to the trial, but, finding the Virginian persistent, finally accepted; and, adroitly remarking that a drink of cider would be refreshing before engaging in such a contest, led the way to a cider-press on his farm, and raising one of the filled barrels to his lips with astounding ease, wished good health to his visitor, took a good, long draught from its bung, and politely handed it to the Virginian. The latter, amazed, replied that he would never drink with the devil, for no man could, of his own unaided strength, do what O. had done; and returned home without the combat he had so greatly desired. Ch.:

ELIJAH HUNTER OWEN (firm of Owen, Root & Childs, dry goods), was one of the leading merchants and influential business men of his day in Htfd., taking a large and active part in charitable and business enterprises. His private means and business connection were used by Gov. Buckingham early in 1861, and through the war, for purchases of equipments for the Conn. troops -- and it was mainly due to his energy and skill that the Conn. men were the first to reach the field with tents and field equipments fit for campaigning.

The original subscription for the Kansas rifles, marked "pd" in Mr. Owen's well-known autograph hand, which also signed the second subscription for Day, Owen & Co., is in the possession of the Conn. Historical Soc. The list of names and date prove that something had occurred prior to the so-called "Topeka murders" which led the thinking men, first merchants, good deacons, and leading citizens of Hartford, as well as Boston and New Haven, to furnish John Brown, Owen Brown, and Owen Lovejoy with Sharps' rifles. Mr. Owen probably did not know that John Brown was a distant cousin, but took an interest in Brown's venture as an original abolitionist and stockholder in the Kansas Emigrant Aid Society. Mr. Owen was remarkable for personal uprightness no less than for the generous and wise aid and advice which he extended to young men of his own profession especially. Confidential assignments, business extensions, and compromises with creditors, managed by him for unfortunate fellow-merchants were of frequent occurrence. Children, 2.

4. William Lawrence, b. 11 June, 1761. In April, 1776, a student at Yale Coll., as we learn from a letter from Mr. Neh. Strong, one of the Faculty, which speaks of Rev. Mr. Perry's return from the army, and comments highly on the character and progress in study of this son, then in college. Fragments of a correspondence with Gov. Win. Franklin, the Royalist Governor of New Jersey (one dated 22 Mch., 1781), enables us to pierce our young Perry's history. It came to the Governor's knowledge, about Feb. 24 of that year, that the young man who had been captured on a privateer was then a prisoner on the Hospital Ship, in the Wallabout, Long Island. He found him to be in a very weak and emaciated condition, and, as the facts proved, was just succumbing to the infectious disorder to which the prison-ship inmates were subject. He was at first brought to the Gov.'s house in N. Y. city; but, as he grew worse and needed more constant attention than could there be given him, the Gov. procured for him the attendance of a careful nurse, and provided the best medical advice, diet, etc., which could be obtained, rather than allow him to be sent to the hospital. "I am sorry," writes the Gov. to Mr. Perry, "the expense has been so great, as I imagine you cannot very well afford it in these Times of Difficulty; but I am convinced that he could not have recovered had he continued on board the Hospital Ship, and had he been removed to a Private Lodging House, the Expense would have been enormous and most probably he would not have met with the necessary Attention. One woman, to whom the offer was made, tho' very poor herself, declared she would not take him in for 100 Guineas, having once suffered greatly from nursing a Person in that Disorder." The nurse, also, whom the Gov. procured for him, was a poor fellow whose discharge from prison he had secured and who undertook it as an act of gratitude. Lawrence finally recovered, and the father (Mch. 26th) received a letter from S. Beck S. Silliman at Fairfield, Conn., informing him that his son had arrived at his home, on parole, under a flag which brought him "into the harbor, a little before Night," and went for him and brought him home to E. W. An exchange was afterwards arranged for him, through the influence of Governor Franklin. The expense of going for Lawrence to ship and bringing him to N. Y. and clothing, paid by the Governor, was $5, 15s., 04, N. Y. money. The Governor, it will be seen p. 600, Vol. I, had been a prisoner of war at E. W. in 1776, and had become acquainted with Rev. Mr. Perry, and finally, William Lawrence Perry d. 1 Sept., 1781.

PHELPS. (Phyllypes) — the superfluous letters in the name were dropped during the reign of Edward VI. [This revision prepared by Miss Ruth T. Spry of E. W. Hill, who acknowledges aid received from MS. of A. T. Servin of Lenox, Mass., and MS. prepared by the late OLIVER S. PHILIPS of Portland, Ore.]

The following facts concerning the family in England are gleaned from letters addressed to O. S. Phelps, by Mr. William Phelps Prior, himself a native of Tewkesbury Gloucestershire, Eng., whence the ancestors of the American Phelps emigrated. At his request the church register of Tewkesbury was searched by J. Morgan of T., with the following results:

- William, son of James, bp. 4 Aug., 1560.
 WILLIAM, son of William, bp. 19 Aug., 1599.
 Mary, daughter of William, bp. 1 Sept., 1587.
 Dorothy, daughter of William, bp. 28 Feb., 1595.
 James, son of William, bp. 14 July, 1601.
 Elizabeth, daughter of William, bp. 9 May, 1603.
 [George, b. about 1605.]
 RICHARD, son of William, bp. 26 Dec., 1619.

This being so obviously a Scotch family, we have only given the 2d gen. of the two old sons who in Windsor. The Hampden Family, et cetera, contains much Pettibone matter.

Some of the earliest registers were absolutely mouldy, written in almost illegible old English, with here and there part of a page wanting. A leaf is lost containing records of the yr. 1582 and a part of 1583; the year 1591 is so defaced by damp as not to be legible. It follows, that even at the date of the first records, the Phelps were numerous at T., and that many may have been baptized elsewhere. The first P. name is that of James, b. prob. abt. 1520. In the parish register of T. during Lent, 1590, occurs this entry: "I granted a license to William Phelps, being then extremely sicke, to eat fleshe, which license to endure no longer tyme than during his sickness. R: CURTIS, curate of Tewkesburie."—Bunnett's Hist. Tewkesbury, p. 184.

The first-named William in the above record of baptism, and to whom the Lenten license was granted in 1590, was Mayor, or rather Bailiff of T. in 1607, and prob. the father of the emigrant Phelps bro's. EDWARD PHELPS, Bailiff of T. 1629, appears to have been the eldest son of William. Another EDWARD PHELPS was Bailiff of T. in 1655, 1664, and 1673, at which latter date he had good estates in the neighborhood, including entailed ppy. at Twining and Tewkesbury. JOHN PHELPS who, with Andrew Boughton, was clerk of the court which condemned Charles I. in 1649, is said to have been a desc. of William of T. His likeness is in Hollen's Report of the Trial, a print of 1684. He died in exile.*

Mr. William Phelps Prior, to whose correspondence with Mr. O. S. Phelps (commenced in 1860 and since his death continued by his sons) we are indebted for these facts, resided for over 30 yrs. at Vevay, Canton de Vaud, Switzerland; and in St. Martin's church there is a monument, erected in 1882, bearing this inscription: "In Memoriam | of him who, being with Andrew BROUGHTON, joint Clerk of the Court | which tried and condemned CHARLES the First of ENGLAND, | had such zeal to accept the full responsibility of his act, | that he signed each record with his full name, | JOHN PHELPS. He came to Vevay and died, like the associates whose memorials | are about us, an exile in the cause of human freedom." | "This stone is placed at the request of WM. WALTER PHELPS of New Jersey, | and CHARLES A. PHELPS of Massachusetts, | Descendants from across the sea." Phelps gravestones are found beside the old abbey church of Tewkesbury, in Porlock, Somersetshire, Staffordshire, and other parts of England.

WILLIAM and RICHARD, sons of William on the above baptismal record, together with GEORGE, who (though his baptism is not found on the Tewkesbury parish register) is believed to have been their brother, came to Dorchester, New England, in the Mary and John, in 1630. Of RICHARD, the youngest of the three bro's, we have this record: "Richard Phelps, 17 years old, embarked for the Islands of Barbadoes, 2 May, 1635, in the ship Alexander, Capt. Birch, and Gilbert Grimes, master." And of him we hear no more. WILLIAM, b. 1599, and GEORGE, b. about 1605, became the ancestors of the larger proportion of the American families of Phelps.

DESCENDANTS OF MR. WILLIAM PHELPS, THE EMIGRANT.

- William Phelps (s. of William), b. Tewkesbury Co., Gloucester, Eng., 1599, prob. rem. to Somerset or Dorsetshire, Eng., where he m. (1) Elizabeth ——. In 1630 he came to Dorchester, Mass., with Rev. Mr. Warham, of whose church, formed in Plymouth, England, he was an original member. — O. C. R. He was accompanied hither by his wife and five children and by his younger brothers, George and Richard. He was from the first a prominent and highly respected citizen at D., his name frequently occurring in the Mass. Rec. October 19, 1639, he applied to be made a freeman, Nov. 9, 1630, he was one of the jury empaneled for the trial of Walter Palmer for the murder of Austin Brocthus — the first trial by jury in New England; 27 Sept., 1631, he was appointed Constable of D.; 4 Mch., 1631, Ens. Gibbs and Wm. Ellys were appointed by the Gen. Ct. to go with a committee of three to arrange the bds. between Boston and D., and explain what each town wants, 5 May, 1635, he was a member of the Gen. Ct. of Mass. from D. — In the spring of 1636 he rem. with his children (his wife having d. in D.) to Windsor, whither his brother George is understood to have preceded him, in the first emigration of Mr. Warham's ch. in the fall of 1635.

*The fate from which he fled may be best estimated by the list given in Pres. Stiles's Hist. of the Judges of Charles I., 1600, wherein occurs the name "I. Phelps" among the names of five persons who, after the Restoration, were sentenced to be "degraded, and wha'th'er, to be drawn from Tower to Tribune with ropes, etc., and imprisoned during life."

In Windsor, as in D., he ranked as an honored and active citizen, was a member of the first court held in Conn., 1636, also in 1637, which declared war against the Pequots, was a magistrate from 1638 to the close of 1642; foreman of the first Grand Jury, 1643, deputy to Gen. Ct. 1645, '46, '47, '48, '49, '51, '57; in 1658 was again made magistrate, and held the office for four yrs. after; is frequently named on the petit jury, in 1644, was appointed, together with Mr. Welles of Hartford, a committee on lying. He was an excellent, pious, and upright man in his public and private life, and was truly "a pillar in church and state." His res. in W. was about three-quarters of a mile N.W. of Broad St. on the road to Poquonock, on place owned (1859) by Dea. Roger Phelps.

He m. (2) at W. Mary Dover, b. in England, and who is said to have been a fellow passenger with him the Mary and John. She was a member of orig. ch. of D. and W. — O. C. R.

After a residence of 42 years in New England, of which 36 were passed in W., he d. there 14 July, 1672; his wid. d. 27 Nov., 1675. — O. C. R.

In the Old Ch. Rec., and other W. records, Mr. Phelps was distinguished from his son William as "Ould Mr. Phelps." Ch. (by 1st matr., b. in Eng.):

1. William, b. about 1620, rem. from D. with his father to W., where he was adm. to memb. W. ch. 17 Nov., 1629. — O. C. R. He m. (1) Isabel Wilson, 1 June, 1645, "now since 24 yrs., and has had no child," July 15, '74 (O. C. R.); she adm. to W. ch. 11 Mch., 1654 (O. C. R.); d. s. p. He m. (2) Sarah (dau. Humphrey) Pinney, 20 Dec., 1656 (O. C. R.); she was b. 19 Nov., bp. 3 Dec., 1648, he sett. one third of his ppy. on her before him; no issue by her. He was made a freeman at Hadd. 1661, d. 7 Feb., 1681, contrib. 9s. to Com. Fund for Relief of Poor of other Cols., 1656. His mancipative will, dated 10 Feb., 1681, gives all his land to his bro. Timothy.

He had land near his father's, and his homestead on the N. side of the E. and W. road which ran from Joseph Ellsworth's (late Peter Brown's) house to the Rivulet. It was garrisoned in King Philip's War (1675-6) by details of W. men. William, Jr., was a worthy man, tho' not a conspicuous figure, as compared with his father. He had one of his wife's nephews, Samuel Wilson, res. with him, and poss. (O. C. R.) adopted him. He gave him land on the opp. side of road from his own house. In making Sarah Pinney his second wife he executed a jointure before marriage, giving her much of his property, and a controversy arose, after the death of "William the younger," concerning this land, between her and the adopted son. William Phelps owned the W. part of the Ellison Orton lot, 40 rods on highway, and bought of Sam. Pond 11 rods more, ext'g. from his ho. lot S. 51 rods to present ditch which drained the (once) swamp W. of old highway. J. H. H.

FAM. 2. Samuel: (Mr. Wm.), m. in W., 10 Nov., 1650, Sarah (daughter Edward) Griswold, b. at Kenilworth, Eng., and who came to New Eng. with her father, 1639 — sett. at Poquonock, W., where he d. 15 May, 1669; wid. m. (2) Nathaniel (s. Humphrey) Pinney, 21 July, 1670, by whom she had 2 ch. [Phelps received a grant of land at Poq., still owned and occup. by his desc. in line of his son William. He bo't, 4 Oct., 1657, Thos. Orton's ho. and land S. of road separating the lot from his father and bro. Wm. The ho. stood on the rear of the lot, abt. opp. his father's ho. This lot was of triangular shape, 4 rods on the Rivulet, 60 on E. and W. road, 40 on Mill Road, and 67 on its S. E. line. The rear of this lot and house he sold to his bro. Nathaniel and rem. to Poq., where he bo't John Bartlett's pl. E. of Stony Bank and N. of Thomas Holcomb's, running E. to the Rivulet; here he d. — J. H. H.] Children (b. Poq., W.):

His deposition taken at Hartford 29 May, 1677, is ment. as being abt. threescore yrs. of age — i. e. b. 1617.

1. Samuel (Lieut.), b. 5 Sept., 1652; m. (1) Abigail (daugh. John) Williams, 21 June, 1678; it is conjectural (not proven) that he res. for a time with a part of the Wins. family in Boston; that he ret. to W. after the death of wife Abigail, and that he is the same Samuel Phelps who (acc. to Savage, p. 407) by Wid. Elizabeth —, had 2 ch., viz., Elizabeth, b. in Boston, 5 Sept., 1681, and Grace, b. in B., 5 Apl., 1687; if so, then Sarah Enos, wid. of Benajah Holcomb, whom he m. at W. late in life, must have been his 3d wife; by her he had no issue, and he d. 21 Oct., 1741.
2. Sarah, b. 16 Meh., 1653; 4; O. C. R. says "the latter end of Meh., 1653"; m. (1) Andrew Moore; sett. Simsbury, Conn., where he d. about 1680; 4 ch.; — she m. (2) 13 Dec., 1683, John Mansfield; sett. in W., where he d. 15 May, 1736; she d. 26 Oct., 1732. A copy of the Mansfield coat-of-arms, finely engrossed upon parchment, now carefully treasured in the N. Eas. room of the Griswold Phelps house and erroneously supposed to be the Phelps arms (is a token of this marriage — H. R. S. Issued by Memo. to Simsbury).

➤ FAM. 3. Nathaniel<sup>2</sup> (Dea.) (Mr. Wm.<sup>1</sup>), m. 17 Sept., 1650 (O. C. R.), Elizabeth Copley, "an Englishwoman"; res. in W. on the Orton place, near his father, but rem., 1656 or '7, to Northampton, Mass.; was one of its founders; was regarded as a pious man, of good intellect, and of a sound discriminating judgment; was one of the first deacons of the N. Ch. His homestead was occupied by him for 43 years, and by his descend'ts until 1835; the last owner sold and rem. to Ohio. This homestead "comprised the land which was, over fifty years ago, occupied by Miss Margaret Dwight's school, and which at a later date was the College Instit. of J. H. Dudley, Esq., and what is now Shady Lawn. The old homestead stood a few rods N. of that edifice." — Clark's Northampton Antiquities.

Dea. Nathaniel Phelps d. 27 May, 1702; his wid. d. 6 Dec., 1712. It has been said that she descended from the same family as the celebrated artist, John Copley, father of Lord Lyndhurst; but the statement lacks corroboration. Her will (N. Prob. Rec.) divides her lands equally between her sons Nath'l and Wm.; to her dau. Abigail £50; to ch. of Matthew and Mary Closson, £5 each; to her son-in-law, Matthew Closson, 10s.; to Thomas Copley, £3; to Samuel and John Lankton, 20s. each.

Feb. 8, 1678, Dea. Nathaniel, with his sons Nathaniel and William, took the oath of allegiance before Worshipful Major Pynchon; May 11, 1681, he was made a freeman by Gen. Ct. at Boston. Ch. (the first three b. at W., the rest at N.):

5. Ellen, b. G., 27 Aug., 1802; m. Orson Barnes; of Pompey, N. Y.; he was Co. Supt. of Schools for Onton. Co., N. Y., 1838-52. Issu.:

1. William (Hon.) (Barnes), b. 26 May, 1824, at Pompey, N. Y.; studied at the common schools and at Manlius (N. Y.) Acad.; and at age of 15 began to teach school. The next yr. he commenced the study of law in office of Minard A. Stansbury, Baldwinsville, N. Y., teaching school during the winter to meet his expenses; and, for several yrs., walking, morning and evening between the Village and his father's farm, a distance of three miles. He next entered the law-office of Hillis & Pratt and Gen. Jas. R. Lawrence of Syracuse, N. Y. At length, armed with letters of introduction from leading lawyers of his acquaintance and with the wages he had earned by school teaching, he went, in May, 1845, to Albany, where he effected an arrangement with the firm of Hammond & Weed, where, as clerk, he had the charge of an extensive and increasing legal practice. He was adm. to the bar the next year, and shortly after commenced practice at A., with only a borrowed capital of $7; speedily, however, he became a partner with his old friend, Samuel H. Hammond, Esq., and thus was estab. the firm of Hammond, King & Barnes, which for many yrs., and until its dissolution in 1851, had a large and influential practice. From 1851 to 1860, Mr. Barnes practiced alone; and in 1860 was app. Supt. of the Ins. Dept. of the State of N. Y. Previous to 1855, he had, as Special Agent and Counsel of the Bank Dept., examined the Lewis Co., and Reciprocity Banks, then in an insolvent condition, and the ability then displayed had attracted the attention of the State Comptroller, Hon. James M. Cook, who, in summer of '55, designated him as a Special Commissioner for the examination of several doubtful insurance companies in the State, all of which (7 in number) were reported by him as fraudulent and were dissolved by the Supreme Court of the State. These reports of Mr. Barnes led to the passage of an Act by the Legislature of 1856, creating a State Ins. Dept., which relieved the Comptroller's Office of the control and regulation of all insurance companies in the State; and public opinion, with great unanimity and confidence, pointed to Mr. Barnes as the proper head of the new department. Yielding to the very generally expressed wish, Gov. Morgan, in Jan., 1860, nominated Mr. Barnes as Supt. of Ins.; and the Senate promptly confirmed his election. He was re-appointed, in 1865, by Gov. Fenton, and has ably conducted the interest of the Dept. in a manner which has elicited not only public confidence at home, but the highest encomiums of foreign insurance journals in Great Britain and Europe.

In politics Mr. Barnes, educated as a Democrat, exhibited early in life, decided radical and progressive tendencies. In 1844, although not a voter, he became a member of the "Liberty party," and made speeches in favor of the election of James G. Birney to the Presidency. He was very active in the organizing of that party in the counties of Oneida and Madison, and remained with that organization until 1848, when he supported Mr. Van Buren for the Presidency, and labored for "Free Soil, Free Speech, and Free Men." He was also an enthusiastic supporter of the "Former Slave" principles advocated by the Atlantic Atlas. In 1856 he became an energetic member of the Republican party, having been one of the organizers of the Saratoga and Albany conventions, and a leading man in forming the Republican organization of Albany County in the fall of 1855. He has always emphatically opposed the "Philippian movement," and the policy of President Johnson, believing that the old landmarks of freedom, for which he has labored, should be maintained in the hour of victory as well as defeat. Mr. Barnes was Secretary of the New York State Kansas Committee, the labors of which were very efficient and thorough; and he gently assisted in getting to the State of Kansas the Free Soil constitution which finally was secured at the bayonet's point. He was an early adherent of the temperance reform, and enlisted as a speaker in the Washingtonian movement. He was also an initiator of various educational reforms, and, in connection with his father, the County Superintendent of Common Schools, took charge of one of the first Teachers' Institutes ever held in this State.

In 1849 Mr. Barnes married Miss Emily P. Weed, youngest daughter of Thurlow Weed, Esq., Life Sketches of N. Y. State Officials, 1877.

2. Linden (Barnes), b. Baldwinsville, Oneida Co., N. Y., Dec. 25, 1842; educated in the public schools and at fifteen years of age became a clerk in a dry goods and general store at B. After three years' engage. in a large dry goods store at Syracuse, N. Y. In 1855 he became manager of a large dry goods house in Cleveland, Ohio, where he resided up to July, 1861. His brother, the Hon. William Barnes of Albany, N. Y., then Supt. of the Insurance Dept. of the State of New York, offered him a position as chief clerk and cashier, which he accepted, removed to Albany, and entered upon the duties of the office. His high position of trust he filled to the satisfaction of all, being in charge of the large deposits made by the insurance companies—both the American and foreign, having the "keys" to "several millions" in his pockets for some ten years; at the end of the State's fiscal year, on the 30th September, the cash account always balanced and was found correct. He was also Notary Public for the department.

He was very active in the militia of Albany, being a Lieut. in A. Co., 10th Regt., N. G. S. N. Y., resigning his commission in 1870.

On May 26, 1869, he was married at Albany, N. Y., to Augusta Georgia Trimble, eldest daughter of the late John M. Trimble, the well-known architect and builder of New York City.

In November, 1869, he began the erection of an opera house on South Pearl Street, Albany, N. Y. He completed the building and opened it as a theatre in Wily days, and created quite a sensation at the time; the feat has never been equaled since. A large brick structure, perfect in all its appointments, and at this writing, 1890, is now standing and being used as an opera house. He named the building "Trimble Opera House," in honor of his father in law. He continued as a theatrical manager up to 1883 and in 1884 began to construct patents as an inventor, producing, in company with his nephew, Chas. O. Barnes, their first and complete, containing two other patents on ice coupons. The last one, patented in 1886, has been adopted by the Vanderbilt railroads and many other of the "great" railroads in the United States. He is constantly working on something in the way of an invention, and at the present date, 1890, is a resident of Syracuse, N. Y. He has four sons and one daughter, Livingston, all living, as is, so far as wife.

He is known in business as a very energetic, sober, trustworthy, and steady business man, whose word is never broken, a good friend, good neighbor, and the kindest of fathers.

In his childhood rem. with his parents to the town of Colebrook Litchfield Co., where he d. 1 Sept., 1866. He studied and successfully practiced the profession of medicine in Colebrook and the adjoining towns for many years until his health became so seriously impaired that he was obliged to discontinue it. He many times represented that town in the General Assembly of the State, both before and after the adoption of the State Constitution, and held other local positions of importance. He was for many years prominent and influential in Litchfield County and in the State, and was elected to Congress in 1835, and again in 1837, and was subsequently a candidate for Presidential Elector, after which he retired from active participation in public affairs, although he continued to take a deep interest in them during the remainder of his life.

He was always highly esteemed for his sound judgment and sterling character. Born immediately after the close of the Revolutionary War, and before the adoption of the Federal Constitution, he was one of the strong men of the old school who ardently cherished the principles on which the government was founded, and who by their influence and example, did all in their power to make them a perpetual blessing to posterity. *Ch. Leaving his father's home at the age of 13, he owned and edited (before his majority) in partnership with Geo. D. Prentice (afterwards of the Louisville Courier), the New England Weekly Review at Hild. in 1827 he began the manuf. of glass in Dundaff, Pa., and became acquainted with the coal fields of Lackawanna Valley, with which he was afterwards to be so closely and profitably connected; he became, with his cousin Amos R. Eno, a large wholesale merchant in N. Y. city, the firm (Eno & Phelps) dissolved after ten years, and each member commenced a new firm and each also operated in real estate with great boldness. Before he was 40 years old, he had built a splendid block on the site of old Grace Church, and another on that of the Park Theater. He also initiated that march of trade toward the northward which has continued ever since. And these operations were equaled by that of his partner, Mr. Eno, who finished by building the Fifth Ave. Hotel. As a Director of the Erie Railroad, he received the thanks of the city legislature, by a joint resolution of both its branches, was, for a long while, prominently identified with the Del., Lack. & West. Railroad Co. (of which, in its original forms of the Legett's Gap and the Lack, & W. Railroad Cos., he was President), resigning in 1853, remaining in the Board until Nov., 1863. He was one of the first to use freestone in the architecture of N. Y. city; and his long connection with the direction of the Mercantile, Second National, and City Banks, the Camden & Amboy Railroad Co., the Manhattan Gas Light Co., and Bleecker Street Savings Institution, as well as other public and private trusts, are evidences of the high esteem in which he was held by his fellow citizens. Colebrook, Litchfield Co., 12 Jan., 1822; received his early education in the common schools of his native town, in Winsted Academy, and the Episcopal Academy at Cheshire. He entered Washington (now Trinity) College, but owing to a very severe illness in the first year of his course, was obliged to discontinue his studies for a considerable period. When he was able to resume them he was entered as a law student in the office of Hon. Isaac Toucey of Hartford, and subsequently in the office of Hon. Samuel Ingham of Essex, and was also for a time a student in the Law Department of Yale Coll.; was admitted to the bar in Middlesex County, October, 1845, and has since resided in Essex in that County.

Besides holding the office of Judge of Probate and other local positions, he was a member of the House of Representatives in the State Legislatures in 1853, 1854, and 1856, and of the State Senate in 1858 and 1859. In 1863 he was elected by the Gen'l Assembly a Judge of the Superior Court for the regular term of eight years. He was re-elected in 1871, and in 1873 he was elected a Judge of the Supreme Court of Errors. He resigned in 1875, on his election to the 44th Congress from the Second Congressional district, composed of the Counties of New Haven and Middlesex. He was re-elected to the 45th, 46th, and 47th Congress, and declined farther Congressional service. He was again elected a Judge of the Superior Court in January, 1885, which position he held until disqualified by age, in 1892.

While in Congress he was placed on the Committees of Ways and Means, Foreign Affairs, Reform in the Civil Service, and other important standing committees, and on several special committees, among which was that to investigate alleged frauds in the State of Louisiana in the Presidential election of 1876. In the contest in the special session of the 46th Congress, between the Executive and Legislative departments of the government, with regard to the appointment and service of U. S. Deputy Marshals, and the employment of U. S. soldiers at the polls while elections were being held, he was selected as one of the joint committee of Democratic Senators and Representatives to consider and recommend suitable legislation on that exciting subject. He procured the establishment of the breakwater at the entrance of New Haven harbor, and the extensive permanent work for the improvement of the Connecticut River below Hartford and at its mouth, and secured liberal appropriations for those and other needed improvements in this district. David*,<sup>4</sup> Jos,<sup>3</sup> Jos,<sup>2</sup> Mr. Wm,<sup>1</sup>), b. N. Y. city, 24 Aug., 1839; educ. at Mt. Washington Coll. Institute of N. Y. city, and at private school in Bridgeport, Conn.; ent. Yale Coll. before he had completed his 16th year, and, although youngest in his class, stood among the first when the condition of his eyes forced him to abandon his studies. After a year's foreign travel he ret. to Yale, and, by employing a fellow-student to read to him, was enabled to graduate 1860, taking a high place in the distribution of graduation honors, also taking the Townsend Prize, the Bishop Berkeley Prize for Latin Composition, and the first prizes in Debate and English Composition. On the evening of the day of his graduation he was m. to Ellen Sheffield, dau. of Joseph E. Sheffield, founder of the Sheffield Scientific School of Yale Univ., and after a year or two spent abroad, principally in Germany, ret. to N. Y. and ent. Columbia Coll. Law Sch., where he secured the valedictory honors of his class, upon his grad. in 1863. Before reaching his 25th yr. he had gained a large practice, and was counsel for some of New York's leading merchants and several important corporations, in which he afterward became interested. His conduct of the criminal case connected with the failure of Morris Ketchum & Co., government bankers, and also the famous congressional contested election case of Dodge vs. Brooks, won him great credit; and, soon after, Gov. Fenton offered him a judicial position, which he declined. The death of his father, however, in 1869, obliged him to relinquish his general practice to assume the management of the family estates and certain private trusts which he held.

Mr. Phelps's change of residence to New Jersey brought him soon into politics. In 1872, by an overwhelming majority he was elected to the Forty-third Congress as a Republican. His first speeches in the House (on the "Salary Grab" and upon a banking bill), quickly enlisted the attention of members by their simple, conversational, and witty style; and his third speech, on the Franking Privilege, fully established his reputation throughout the country as a speaker whose humor was blended with judgment and a rare skill in the presentation of political truths. He was offered by Pres. Grant the position of Ass't Sec'y of the Treas. of the U. S., which he declined, as he also did a strong movement among his political friends to make him the successor of the Secretary of the Department, whose removal was already decreed. In the great discussion upon the Civil Rights Bill, however, Mr. Phelps found his courage sorely tested, for he was then the only one of his party who dared to oppose and denounce the measure as improper and unconstitutional. It took years for him to regain the position which he lost among his political friends by the rebellion to party discipline involved in this speech. He opposed the bill on the ground that no one would ever enforce it, and if it was attempted the courts would refuse their aid on account of its unconstitutionality. For fifteen years it remained a dead letter as he had predicted, and when, at last, as a test question, it was brought before the Supreme Court, that body verified and vindicated Mr. Phelps's opinion and prediction in almost the very words used by him on the floor of Congress.

Mr. Phelps's personal service as member of the special congressional committee app. to inquire into the Southern "White League," and the "Ku Klux Klans," and his share in the report of that committee, proved to be a powerful factor in the abolition of the "Carpet-baggers'" rule which had so long terrorized the South. The city of New Orleans tendered Mr. P. a public dinner in recognition of their appreciation of his services in this matter. In 1881 he was app. by Pres. Garfield as American Minister at the Austrian Court, where, during his short term, he won high commendation for his diplomatic ability. Upon Mr. Arthur's accession, however, he resigned office and returned to America, to become, two years later, a Member of Congress for the second time, and was re-elected for several terms, until he declined to serve longer. At this time he acted as one of the regents of the Smithsonian Institution. In 1889 he was app. by Pres. Harrison one of the members of the Samoan Commission, and, by his masterly management of the treaty negotiations and the rare diplomatic tact displayed in dealing with the English and German Commissioners, secured the appointment to the Amer. Legation at Berlin, the President himself handing him his commission upon his return to Washington with the Samoan treaty. His brilliant success as Amer. Minister at Berlin has added to his reputation, and his success in inducing the German Chancellor to raise the embargo so long imposed upon Amer. pork (whereby the French and Italian governments were induced to do likewise), ranks among the achievements of the Harrison administration. His services in the cause of International Copyright have also been of value. The hospitality shown by Mr. Phelps to traveling Americans passing through Berlin is proverbial; and the position he has made for himself in Berlin is an enviable one, socially, diplomatically, and politically.

The old family estate of the Phelps in Simsbury, Conn., is now owned by children of Mr. P.'s only sister (Mrs. Dodge, who d. 1880). It is a charming place, and Mr. P. can trace back his line of seven generations, who have resided on old "Bushy Hill." His own estate in New Jersey is known as "Teaneck Grange," and embraces 1,000 acres, extending from the Hackensack river to the shores of the Hudson, and is justly famed for its extensive and varied arboriculture. The original house, a most picturesque collection of buildings, was destroyed by fire in 1888, and Mr. P. now occupies a large house near its site. Within this estate are several miles of drives, and in one stretch alone a five mile drive of tree lined avenue.

Mr. Phelps was at one time a director of and was interested in a number of the most important banking, trust, and railway corporations of N. Y. city; but of late years, in view of the fact that his career must be that of a public man, he has gradually withdrawn from all official connection with these bodies and institutions, in order that he might more fully and entirely devote himself to these higher public duties. For the same reason, though with regret, he resigned his connection with the corporation of Yale College after a long and honorable course of service to his Alma Mater. Children:

DESCENDANTS OF GEORGE PHELPS, THE EMIGRANT

George Phelps, sixth child of William of Tewksbury, Eng., b. about 1695; emigrated to New England, 1639, with his elder brother William and his younger bro., Richard. From Dorch. Rec. we learn that "Jan., 1632, George Phelps with others is to have the great lot of six acres a piece next to the great lots laid out toward Neponset by Maverick, Warham, Gaylord and Rockwell"; 28 Oct., 1634, George Phelps chosen one of ten men "to order the affairs of the Colony for one year"; 6 May, 1635, George Phelps chosen a freeman. He came to W., prob. with the first emigration from Dorchester, fall of 1635, and located at junction of the Farmington and Conn. rivers, on second lot south of the Loomis property. He m. (1) Phillury (dau. Philip) Randall, at W. in 1637, who was b. Eng. and emig. with her father, "Goodman" R., 1630, and to W. 1635. She was a memb. of Mr. Warham's ch. in Dorch.; she d. W. 29 Apl., 1648.—O. C. R. He m. (2) 16 Nov. [prob. 1648], Wid. Frances Dewey, being her third husband. (She m. (1) Joseph Clark, by whom she had one dau., Mary (Clark), who m. John Strong, Jr. Mr. Clark was the s. of one of 3 bros., William, Thomas, or George, of whom Harris says: "These three bro's were in Dorchester in 1630, where they d. soon and nearly at the same time. A gravestone was erected to their memory with this inscription

"Here lie three Clarks: their accounts are even, Entered on earth and carried up to Heaven."

She m. (2) 1638 or 9, Thomas Dewey, who came from Sandwich, Kent, England, to Dorchester, 1633, and to W. 1638, where he d. 27 Mch., 1618, leaving 5 ch.; his wid. m. (3) Mr. Phelps, as above, and, with him and her own children, rem. to Westfield, Mass., where she d. 27 Sept., 1690.—West. Rec.) His removal from W. to Westfield was probably about 1670.

George Phelps' public services seem to have been performed chiefly on the jury, both in Hartford and in Springfield. I did not find his name among the church records, nor in the Book of Town Acts of Westfield. In the county land records in Springfield, beginning in 1673, I found his name in the index of Vol. A among the grantors, and on page 110 is a deed, from which we give the following extracts:

"This present writing made the second of Aprill one thousand six hundred eighty seven in the third yeare of our Sovereign Lord King James the second Betweene George Phelps of Westfield in the County of Hampshire in the Colony called the Massachusetts with the free will & consent of Francis his beloved wife of the one party & John Gun of the Town County & Colony aforesaid of the other party. Witnesseth that the said George Phelps for & in consideration of a vallyable sum or consideration to him in hand paid and secured by the said John Gun . . . doth fully . . . sell . . . severall par cels of land lying & being within the bounds of Westfield aforesaid which are as followeth

George Phelps died 8 May, 1687, and so on the 6th of June 1687, Francis Phelps Relict of George Phelps came before John Pyncheon "one of his Majesties Counsell," and acknowledged the above Instrument to be her free act, etc. And March 5, 1688, Isaac Phelps and Jerehiah Dewey came before the same "mee" and made oath that they saw George Phelps sign, seal, and deliver the same to John Gun above mentioned and that "hee the said George Phelps had a good consideration in land at Windsor of John Gun for it which made the said Phelps free & well satisfied in doing it." He never removed to Windsor, if that were his purpose—and to our sketch of George Phelps, the Emigrant, it only remains to append his will, found on file at Northampton.—*Prob. FAM. 2. Isaac (Capt.) (George'), rem. to Westfield, Mass.; m. 11 Feb., 1665, Ann (dau. William) Gaylord, Jr. (O. C. R.); according to which "Oscar" P. was adm. a member W. Ch., 27 Jan., 1666, prob. a mispelling for this Isaac. Ch. Records of Westfield give among list of members, 1 Nov., 1679/80, Ann, "wife of brother Phelps." She d. 27 Sept., 1690 (acc., to Wtd. Town Rec.), the same day that is given for the death of Frances, wife of George. Whether this be a mistake or a coincidence I do not know. W. Town Rec. say Mrs. Ann Phelps d. 30 Aug., 1689. The Wtd. Ch. Rec. contain a long relation of the religious experiences of Isaac Phelps.

The Westfield Town Acts are recorded from 18 Dec., 1696. 1 Feb., 1696, Isaac Phelps was chosen selectman, and, until his death, he held varied offices in Westfield. He was town clerk, assessor, surveyor, town treasurer, and school-master. April 9, 1702, "Isaac Phelps agrees with the selectmen to keep school for one year as a school master for the Town and to teach to write and read such children as shall be sent to school . . . and for his satisfaction is to have twenty pounds, at or before the year expires." This duty was considered sufficiently arduous to excuse him from the office of town clerk, which he does not hold again until 1713. He was 64 when, as we judge, he first essayed to teach school, twelve years later he is given the title of Capt., and in 1724, when 86 yrs. old he was chosen town treasurer, and prob. never for one moment felt any temptation to flee to Canada with the funds. The oldest stone, bearing the Phelps name, found in the Westfield cemetery, reads: "CAP<sup>n</sup> | ISAAC PHELPS | DYED | VINE 2 | ANN<sup>n</sup> | 1725 | AGE<sup>n</sup> 87 | YEAR |"

The Town Acts of Westfield contain many pages written by Isaac Phelps. It is a passing observation of ours, though not borne out by much study, that the eldest, of each family was, in the 17th century, taught to write, while his brothers could only sign their name with a mark. Old Mr. Wm. Phelps could write, his brother George leaves one record only, "his marke." Isaac, son of George, is the only one of his family whose penmanship I can recall. It is certain that some of the younger sons used a "marke" as primitive as that of the elder George. Capt. Isaac agreed only to teach the children to write and read; but what stories he could, and probably did, add by way of history, descriptions of the old country and comments on the growth of the new, and the changes that had taken place in Westfield since he first came there? Ch. (b. first in Windsor; the rest in Westfield):

FAM. 3. Abraham (Capt.) (George'), was adopted early in life by his cousin Abraham Randall and inherited his property (£210), except small legacies to Isaac and Joseph Phelps, 26 Sept., 1667. He was one of the six agents of the town of W. to whom lands were decided by the Indians. He was made freeman 1668, and 8 Feb., 1712/13, one of a school committee. He was the third person to make a bequest for the establishment of a school fund in W. In repairing the old Phelps house in W., then owned by Dea. Roger Phelps, the gravestone of Capt. A. was found under the front door step stone. It bore this inscription: "Here lyeth y<sup>e</sup> body of Capt. Abraham Phelps who Died Jan<sup>y</sup> 25 1728, aged 85 years." It is now set in the W. cemetery. He m. Mary Pinney, 6 July, 1663; O. C. R. Ch. (b. W.):

1. Abraham (Lt.), b. 6 Feb., 1695; m. d. Aug., 1733. Will in Windsor Prob. Rec. dated 29 Aug., 1733. Mentions "my Kinsman, Sam<sup>l</sup> Stiles, and Mary, his wife; Jonathan, s. of Humphrey Pinney; to John Phelps, the 2<sup>d</sup> s. of the 3<sup>d</sup> John Phelps my lot wh. was purchased of Joseph Phelps, lying on y<sup>e</sup> East of y<sup>e</sup> Great River; Benj. 2. Isaac, b. 5 Aug., 1673; d. 14 Jan., 1703.
3. Benjamin, b. 1 Oct., 1683; d. 21 July, 1706. (Possibly others.)

FAM. 4. Joseph<sup>2</sup> (George<sup>1</sup>), moved with his father to Westfield, Mass., and after the birth of his first child, or about 1676, he, with his father-in-law, John Porter, Jr., Samuel Grant, Samuel Rockwell, and Thomas Bissell, removed to the E. side of the Great River and were the first settlers of E. W., or what is now So. W. In 1680 he joined his neighbors on the E. side in petitioning the General Assembly for a town organization and church privileges. From the Westfield Rec., indeed, it would appear that John Porter, Jr., Joseph Phelps, and others occupied lands in E. W. previous to this date, but returned to Westfield during the Indian troubles. He was on the E. side 1695. He m. 26 June, 1673, Mary (dau. John, Jr., and Mary Stonely) Porter (O. C. R.), b. W., July, 1653. She d. E. W., 10 Jan., 1682. She prob. rem. to Westfield with her father, about the time that Joseph Phelps rem. thither, as rec. of her b. and d. is found at Westfield; m. (2) Hester (dau. John and Phillury Thrally) Hosford, b. W., 27 May, 1664, and who inherited £100 from her father. He d. abt. 1695. Inv. of his est. taken Feb., 1695-6 (Windsor Prob. Rec., Vol. V, p. 212); his wid. m. Benjamin (?) Kent of Sutfield. — Ibid., Vol. XII, p. 63.

It is prob. this Joseph, to whom ref. is made in Col. Rec., Vol. II, p. 184, 10 Oct., 1672, "propounded for a freeman . . . Joseph Phelps," and Vol. IV, p. 162. "A true copie of the court act as atteste Eleaz<sup>r</sup> Kimberly secreta<sup>r</sup>, Hartford may 19; 1696" is in the possession of Ruth T. Sperry. "At a generall Court May 19; 1696. Whereas Joseph Phelps of Windsor deceased did inguage to a committee for the inhabitants of the s<sup>d</sup> town living on the east side of the river (as appears by the testimony of Job Drake and Tho<sup>s</sup>. Stoughton members of the s<sup>d</sup> committee) that said inhabitants should have some part of his wood land, on the south side of his lot lying by Thomas Stoughton's land, nine rod and a half in breadth, extending eastward from the country rode 40 rod for the accomodation of Mr. Timothy Edwards the minister of the place: this court now impowers the widow of the s<sup>d</sup> Joseph Phelps to confirm the s<sup>d</sup> land to the said inhabitants for y<sup>e</sup> s<sup>d</sup> use." — Children (by 1st wife), #O. FAM. 6. John<sup>2</sup> (Sergt.) (George<sup>1</sup>), m. Sarah (dau. Thomas and Temperance Donslow) Buckland. Sergt. John Phelps resided in Popponoc. His farm is partially described as follows (W. L. Rec., B. 2, p. 261):

Where as John Gun of Westfield had by purchase of Sam<sup>l</sup> Phelps of said Westfield a certain parcel of Land in windfor at a place commonly called Mr. Hills neck near poppannock both of meadow and upland according as it is abuttetted and bounded by said Sam<sup>l</sup> Phelps to said John Gun as appears of Record in fol. 151 of this booke and John Gun hath under his hand and seal, and acknowledged it before John Pynchon one of the Council, assigned, made over and Confirmed unto George Phelps all his Right title and interest to said parcell of Land and to his heirs and assigns for ever as by Instrument doth appear, and the said George Phelps having put his son John Phelps into the possession and improvement of said parcell of Land, as said John Phelps doth affirm, and alsoe it appears by the testimony of Capt. Timothy Thrall and Sergt. John Thrall, That said John Phelps has stood in actual possession of said Land in his own right and not as a tenant as ever they knew of for the full space of twenty years past, and the sd John Phelps having no Record of said Land moved us the subscribers to grant unto him sd. John Phelps a Record of said Land as bounded in this booke of Record folio 151.

There upon a Record is Granted by us the sd subscribers to the said John Phelps sent of windford to his heirs and assigns for ever of that parcell of Land John Gun bought of Sam<sup>l</sup> Phelps and said Gun assigned to George Phelps. . . . . this seventh of April: 1713.

Recs.*, Vol. VII, pp. 274, 369. The Rev. Timothy Edwards, in his Role Book, carefully uses the correct military title due Joseph Phelps from Sergt. to Capt., and once gives the names of his sons who picked apples in the clergyman's orchard, and thus materially lessened the Captain's church rates for that year. Capt. Joseph Phelps d. 3 Sept., 1751 (E. W. C. R.); his will (written by his neighbor, Roger Wolcott—either the Gov., or his son, Judge Roger Wolcott) is dated 1 Aug., 1751. It mentions his five sons, Daniel, Jerijah, Jonathan, Benjamin, and Isaac. To his son Benjamin he gave all his land in Torrington, to Isaac, all in Colbrook; to his daus. Abigail and Mary, each three hundred pounds "old Toner." Daniel and Jerijah were app. ex-cutors.—R. T. S. Children (E. W. C.):

* The will of Daniel Phelps appears of record in E. W. C. R., probated in 1792, legates, wife Damaris (bro's Jerijah and Benjamin, sister Mary Kingsbury, and heirs of sister Abigail Kingsbury, Charissa Burdham, dau. of Sarah Williams, consins Daniel Phelps, and Joseph Phelps. In 1703 Jerijah Phelps and Daniel Phelps, Jr., both of W., sell to Ebenezer Grant a parcel of, and called Hoskins lot. In a few old wills I have seen the term "cousin" used where the common usage of the present day would have employed the word "nephew." Also, the affix "junior" may designate a younger man of the same name, not necessarily a son. Reasoning thus, I conclude that cousin Daniel, Daniel Phelps, Jr., was probably the son of Benjamin Phelps and of his family we have no record. This would also explain that one on the monument, "erected by the son of Jerijah and a Nephew of the Brothers," is a tribute of affectionate veneration for their worthy Ancestors. Owned the covenant 30 June, 1793, Daniel Phelps and his wife. F. W. C. R. The ch. of Daniel (Rev. Capt. Jos. & Jos. & Geo.) are prob. those given in the *F. W. C. FAM. 19. Jerijah<sup>4</sup> (Capt. Jos.<sup>2</sup> Jos., Geo.<sup>1</sup>), m. 19 Feb., 1763, Sarah (daug. John and —) Stoughton, b. 26 June, 1723. She m. (1) 24 Oct., 1743, Roger Bissell, who moved to Litchfield and there d. She had a son bpt. in Windsor 25 July, 1744. In the Bissell Family we have stated this son to be John. Whether the name was entered by mistake, or changed after his father's death, or whether she had another son, Roger, we cannot say, but we find later one Roger Bissell as, apparently, a member of the Phelps family, and we are led to conclude that he was her son. The bros., Daniel, Jerijah, and Isaac formed practically one family, it may judge from business receipts made out to "Daniel Phelps and Brothers," but to settle all points, more time could be well spent on this line. It is prob., too, that the brothers built the Phelps house in 1782, and not Joseph, who was then a boy of 16. We fix the date of erection from the tradition in the Oleott family that three neighboring houses were built within two years, viz., the Asahel Oleott house, the Joseph Phelps, and one of the Newberry houses. The date of the Oleott house is known, and thus of the other two. Jerijah Phelps d. 22 Jan., 1792; his widow, 10 Sept., 1794. Child:

FAM. 23. Thomas<sup>3</sup> (Thos.,? Scrip, John,? George<sup>1</sup>), m. 23 Nov., 1737, Margaret (daur. of John<sup>2</sup> and Sarah Stech) Watson, b. in Hartford (West ?) 7 June, 1715. John<sup>2</sup> was son of John<sup>1</sup> son of John Watson, a juror in Hartford in 1614. James Watson, U. S. Senator from N. Y. from 1798 to 1800, was a son of Margaret Watson's oldest brother, John Watson of New Hartford.

Thomas Phelps resided for a time in Poquonock; he owned land in Torrington, June 6, 1744, Joseph Pettibone of Simsbury, for and in Consideration of the sum Two Hundred pounds in money old Tenour, sold to Thomas Phelps of windfor a certain tract of land lying in Simsbury, "it is the 64th Lot in the west half mile Teer and is lying on the Second Teer of Lots, and is bounded south on a Lot Laid out to the widow mindwell Willecox, & North on the Lot Laid out to Lt. Samuel Pettibone, being in breadth one Hundred and Eighty five Rods, & in Length half a mile & Contains in the whole one Hundred & Eighty five acres be it more or Less." In January, 1752, Thomas Phelps buys another similar piece of land of Timothy Moses, "in the Third half mile Teer of Lots," and pays the same price for it. At a Freeman's meeting [in Simsbury], April 8th, 1754, Thomas Phelps was admitted and had the freeman's oath administered to him.

We have been told by the residents of N. Canton that his house was situated on the hill next south of the old burying ground. This place was afterward owned and occupied by Benjamin Phelps. Dec. 16, 1774, "Thomas Phelps bought of Timothy Moses a Certain Parcel of Land Containing Forty Three Acres, with a Dwelling House standing on the Premises"; here he d. This property was owned in 1892 by Ansel Case. The dates of death in this family were taken from an old book entitled "A Record of the Burials in the North burying Place in west Simsbury. Copied from a Record kept by M<sup>r</sup> Thomas Phelps, By Aaron Moses." This book is owned by Mr. Fred. Case of North Canton. Herein we learn that Mrs. Margaret Phelps d. 9 June, 1777, "aged 60," and Mr. Thomas Phelps d. 25 Sept., 1777; but no stones mark their graves.

The will and inventory of the est. of Thomas Phelps is of file in Simsbury. "Imprimis, I give and bequeath unto my Son Thomas One half of my land at a place called Windsor, in the County of Cumberland & State of New York, together with what I have already given him. Item, I give unto my gr Son Job Phelps, son of my son Job Phelps of said Simsbury Deced<sup>t</sup>, the One half of my lands lying in Windsor aforesaid, which lands I purchased of Israel Curtis, . . . and also my Dwelling house in which I now live with Twenty Acres of Land thereto adjoining . . . I give to my said Grand Son Job, my great bible, account Book and a plain Chest." Dated 7 Aug. 1777. Ch. (dates of birth given by Mr. Serrin):

After his m. Mr. Phelps removed to New York and dealt in hardware, first with Mr. Pickering, and second with William Sheldon as partner. Afterward he carried on business alone. At this time he resided in Brooklyn, going to New York each day on the 7 o'clock boat in the morning, and returning on the 12 o'clock boat at night. He afterward moved to New York, and, with John Jay Phelps, opened an office at 45 Wall Street for banking and brokerage. In 1858 his partner retired and I. N. Phelps continued the business until 1879, when the banking firm of Phelps, Stokes & Co. was formed. At this time his partners were Mr. James Stokes and his son-in-law, Anson Phelps Stokes. After six years Mr. James Stokes died and the firm was dissolved. From that time Mr. Phelps gave his attention only to his personal interests.

"Mr. Phelps was not noted for his connection with popular or great enterprises. He made the reputation simply of a successful business man, and this not by any bold or brilliant strokes of financial genius, but by persistent application, tireless energy, excellent judgment, and careful economy. He had strong convictions, firm decision, and a remarkable memory. He recalled with pleasure his early struggles in the Connecticut village. His valuable judgment in commercial matters was always at the disposal of his friends, who frequently sought even his fire-side for his freely-granted advice. He was regular in his habits, avoided notoriety, was liberal in his charities, and was for many years a member of the Brick Presbyterian Ch. He m. pastors in Simsbury. "Oct. 13th 1796, Personally appear'd, Anson G. Phelps, a Minor over fourteen years of age, and made choice of Thos. Woodbridge Phelps of Simsbury to be his Guardian. . . . May 5, 1799, the two bros. were adm. to the Ch. in N. Canton, the Rev. Jeremiah Hallock being pastor. A little later, the three bros., William, Thomas, and Anson Phelps, with their cousin, Job Phelps, rem. from Simsbury, and it would seem never returned unless for brief visits. Anson G. Phelps settled in Hartford, he joined Center church; succeeded in business; married; and added to the growth of the city by erecting a large brick building on North Main street, known as Phelps's Block. The wife of Mr. Phelps was Olivia (dau. of Elisha and Elizabeth Obcott) Eggleston of Middletown, b. 30 Meh., 1784; m. 26 (?) Oct., 1806; d. in New York, 21 Apl., 1859.

"In 1815 Mr. Phelps rem. to New York city, and commenced that commercial career which so prominently identified him with the history of that city, and with all its higher interests, for half a century. He was the founder of the well known firm of Phelps, Dodge & Co., and his mercantile life was one of remarkable prosperity. More than that; he and his partner, Mr. Dodge, were acknowledged in that great community as the types of the Christian merchant. Both were members and elders in Dr. Spring's Church, and the name of Phelps, Dodge & Co. became everywhere identified with the interests of the Presbyterian Church. Mr. Phelps's high standard of mercantile morality, his deep personal piety and decided interest in all good words and works, rendered him a tower of strength to the cause of Christ; and these qualities of head and heart found their natural and joyous expression in deeds of systematic benevolence and in the promotion of all important philanthropic enterprises. The American Bible Society, the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, the American Home Mission Society, the Colonization Society, the Blind Asylum of New York City of which he was at one time Pres., and many other societies and charitable institutions, were largely aided by him during his life and generously remembered by his will. Among others, his native town of Simsbury received a trust fund of $1,000 for its poor—doubtless in remembrance of the day when he, a poor orphaned boy, was largely dependent upon the kindness of its people. The memorial verses of Mrs. Sigourney thus fitly characterize the secret of Mr. Phelps's life:

"The cares of commerce and the rush of wealth
Swept not away his meekness, nor the time
To cultivate all household charities;
Nor the answering, conscientious zeal
To consecrate a portion of his gains
To Man's relief and the Redeemer's cause."

"We close with a clause from Mr. Phelps's will, which is peculiarly illustrative of the whole tenor of his life:

"I give and bequeath to each of my gr. children, living at my decease, the sum of $5,000, to be paid them as they severally attain the age of 21 years. This latter bequest I direct to be accompanied by my executors with this injunction, that each of my said gr. children shall consider the said bequest as a sacred deposit committed to their trust, to be invested by each gr. child, and the income derived therefrom to be devoted to the spread of the Gospel and to promote the Redeemer's Kingdom on earth, hoping and trusting that the God of Heaven will give to each of them that wisdom which is from above, and incline them to be faithful stewards and transmit the same to their descendants to be sacredly devoted to the same objects. I know that this bequest is absolute, and places the amount so given beyond my control; but my earnest hope is that my wish may be regarded as I leave it, an obligation binding simply on their integrity and honor."—*H. III, p. 143. — Tuesday, Sept. 3, 1746, adm. and sworn freeman [of Sims] Doct. Isaac Phelps. — W. L. Rec., Bk. IX, p. 25. — 1. Isaac Phelps of Sims, to my bros. Cor.

nelius, John, and Timothy." Jan., 1748, 9. — W. L. Rec., Bk. XV, index.—"Doct. Isaac Phelps, p. 229." "1, Isaac Phelps the second," signed "Isaac Phelps, Jr." 6 Feb., 1755. "Then appeared Doct. Isaac Phelps." But we do not believe that the term "Jr." as used in the old records always designated a son of the same name. We have, therefore, assumed that Doct. Isaac Phelps was s. of Cornelius. He was b. 1722; m. Martha Mills; res. in Sims, Hfd., and later (1765-1777), in Poq. Of Isaac (b. 1724), the s. of Joseph, we know little, but believe he never m.

Sims, Local Rec., Bk. V, p. 116 — David Clark of Sims, alias W., grants land in Sims to his son-in-law Isaac Phelps of W., 5 Feb., 1725/6. Who was the father of this Isaac Phelps we cannot learn. Sims, Rec., Bk. III, p. 244, says: "Isaac Phelps had Two Children born that war twins, August 22, 1727, a man Child named Isaac and a woman Child —; y<sup>e</sup> man Child dyed y<sup>e</sup> fame day, y<sup>e</sup> woman Child dyed y<sup>e</sup> twelfth day of September, 1727." We assume that this Isaac moved to Poq., for we find the name in the tax-list for Poq. in 1732.* Many years later, in company with his s. Isaac he owned the Rainbow mills. The will of Isaac Phelps of W. is found on file in Hfd. Prob. Rec. It bears date 6 Dec., 1773, and mentions "my son Isaac," and four daus.—Mary, wife of Timothy Thompson, Bathsheba, wife of Samuel Holcomb, Lucy, wife of Stephen Griffin, Theodosia, wife of Micah Griffin. Isaac Phelps is made ex'r, and we think he was the only son. Ch.:

post, and Gen. Pierson was appointed its commander, with the rank of Major of Volunteers. He continued in command of the post until Jan. 1834. He was made Lieut. Col. in 1833, and at the close of the war was breveted Brig. Gen. in recognition of his services. Shortly after his resignation of his command he returned to the farm homestead in W., which had come into his possession on the death of his mother in the preceding year, and the rest of his life was passed here in very active attention to a wide range of business, both personal and in positions of trust as pres., director, or advisor in various banking, inf., ins., and similar corporations. He died suddenly on the 18th of Apl., 1879, at Keene, N. H., whither he had been called by the death of a relative.

Gen. Pierson was identified with the hist. of Windsor, not more in his own person than as the represent. of his father, Dr. Pierson, whose professional life here of more than forty yrs. ranks him second to none for skill and success as a physician; and in these two lives Windsor adds to the record of names that adorn her history, an other name fit to stand on the roll with the best of her sons born on the soil.

Gen. Pierson was pres. of the Conn. River Co. (water power of W.), director of the Nat. Pine-Ins. Co., the Nat. Exch. Bank, and the Ind. Trust Co., and was noted for strict integrity and sound judgment in business affairs; and was freq. called upon to act as adm. or trustee of large estates; his pastor said of him at his funeral: "He had a quick perception to see opportunities; he was a man of clear mind, and because of this was called upon to manage and administer large trusts; a courteous, gentlemanly man, free from evil speech or habits; a man of reading and intelligence upon religious subjects; a man that honored the house of God. He was very kind to all classes of people. The Lord had not given him any children, but there are many who will bless him as a father, many leaned on him as a child does on its father. Though not a formal professor of religion, yet his life seemed moulded by Christ's spirit. He has been a pillar to this ecclesiastical society, and his means flowed out in various ways."

PINNEY (Pynney, Pinney). [Compiled for the first edition by the late HENRY BRIGG, Esq., of Northampton, Mass. Additions to present edition from various sources. The extracts from the ancient Pinney will are furnished by Mrs. C. H. PINNEY of Derby, Conn., who expresses an earnest desire that the many American descendants of Humphrey Pinney shall place some memorial (window, altar, or tablet) in the little church at Broadway, where their forefathers sleep, and where yet annual payment is duly made on the Pinney tomb in the graveyard of the annuities devised in 1631 for the poor of the name of Pinney or of Standerwicke.]

Humphrey (s. John) came to America in the Maryland John with Rev. Mr. Warham's company; 1630, sett. at Dorchester, where he m. Mary HULL, who had been a fellow passenger.

His immediate ancestors appear to have res. in Broadway, Somersetshire, Eng. Broadway is in Chard Union, in the deanery of Crewkerne, archdeaconry of Taunton, diocese of Bath and Wells, Hundred of Abdick and Bulstone, West Somerset. From the will of Edmund (uncle to Humphrey) Pynney of Broadway, dated 1631, recorded 2 Feb., 1632 (Vol. Andelsy, fol. 16) Humphrey P. being administrator, we learn that said Edmund was buried in the south aisle of Broadway Church, in a tomb called The Pinney Tomb. From his will (on file at Doctor's Commons, London, where a copy was procured by Dr. CHARLES H. PINNEY, in 1886), we give the following extracts:

"Imprimis. I give to the maintenance of the Church at Broadwaie, aforesaid, three shillings and fourpence.

"Item: I give unto the poor people of the same parish of Broadwaie, being none of the almspeople of the Alms house there, twenty shillings to be distributed amongst them according to the direction of mine executor and good friends here after in this mine will named to be mine overseer.

"Item. I give to the poor people being alms-people dwelling in the said Alms house there twenty shillings to be divided unto them presently after my death.

"Item: I do give the same grounds called East Mullyns — Butchers' Close, and Long Kite Meade, and every part and parcel thereof to the said John Pynney after the determin. of the said Richard Pynney upon the condition that he from thenceforth pay twenty-six shillings and eight pence yearly to two poor people, men or women, and wanting relief during the residence of my said term of four thousand years, by quarterly payments, viz. of three shillings and fourpence quarterly to either of the said poor people, and if the said Richard Pynney shall refuse and do not pay the same according to this my will and desire aforesaid then and so often as the same shall not be paid it shall and may be lawful to and for any or every person or persons called or known by the name of Pynney or Standerwick inhabiting or dwelling in Broadwaie aforesaid into the said grounds, so as aforesaid charged with the yearly payment of the said twenty-six shillings and eight pence to enter and distresse [this last word not clearly decipherable] and the distress or distresses there from time to time taken to lead, drive, chase, carry away, or impound and the same impounded to detain and keep until the said yearly payments as aforesaid limited and bequeathed to the said two poor people shall be fully satisfied and paid." (A copy of this will was in keeping of R. Drake Palmer, Vicar of St. Adelheim's Church, Broadway, in 1886.)

In 1859, this annuity of Edmund Pinney's from land situated in Abbots He (or He Abbots) was still paid regularly by the present owner of the property, and its recipients were two poor people of the name of Standerwick—a family which seems to have been intimately related to the testator, appearing in his will as legatees and executors of certain legacies. The will also contains certain legacies ordered to be paid by Humphrey Pinney, viz.: £4 yearly to Nicholas Pinney, and 20s. yearly to William Watts, during their lives, payable quarterly (at the four principal feasts of the year, the birth of our Lord Jesus, the Annunciation of the Blessed Virgin Mary, St. John the Baptist, and St. Michael the Archangel) in the churchyard of Broadway, upon the tomb, or monument called Pinney's Tomb, and with certain penalties imposed for default or delinquencies of regular payments.

Broadway Church is a small, ancient, but beautiful structure, situated in a picturesque churchyard, adorned with yews, located upon a little knoll in an extensive valley, about two miles from the rise of the hill which terminates in the Blackdon Range,—this hill itself being in the adjoining parish of Buckland and St. Mary's, and commanding one of the finest views in Somerset County. Broadway, a long, straggling village of some 400 agricultural inhabitants, an almshouse, etc., is said to have taken its name from a Roman road which lead to Nevocke Forest, and whose breadth made an impression upon the Saxons. The forest long since disappeared, but there are traces of a Roman encampment on Blackdon Hill. The church is quite by itself at the end of the village. Pinney's Ground, from which the aforesaid annuities are payable, is in He Abbots, an adjoining village, boasting of a still more beautiful little church.

Edmund Pynney's will informs us that he had a bro. JOHN the elder, and a bro. JOHN the younger; a sister ALICE, who m. a Way; a sister JOHANNA, who m. Giles Godwin.

JOHN the elder m. Johanna ———, and had children (1) ELIZABETH, (2) EDMOND, (3) RICHARD, (4) ROGER, (5) NICHOLAS, (6) WILLIAM, (7) HUMPHREY (the emigrant to Dorchester and Windsor), (8) JOHN of Exeter, (9) AGNES (prob. m. John House), (10) MARY (prob. m. Thos. Pearce), (11) SARAH (poss. m. John Turberfield), (12) ALICE (poss. m. Wm. Standerwicke).

In the possession of the late Lucretia Stiles of Windsor were several ancient papers, mostly letters addressed to Humphrey Pinney of Windsor (by his nephew, John House of Montague, Eng., and from Geo. Betty of Combe, St. Nicholas Co., Somerset, Eng., relative to certain business which he had entrusted to Mr. Pinney; also concerning Mr. P.'s property in England) and Mr. P.'s will, dated 3 June, 1682. In one of these letters Mr. House (date of 1 Mch., 1668), says: "My Uncle William Pinney, hath buried his wife; she d. about a quarter of a yr since." Among these papers was a lease, executed 20 Feb., 1658, "betw. Humphrey Pinney, now dwelling in Montague, of the one part, and Roger Dunster of Broadway, in the Co. of Somerset, of the other pt.," relating to "four acres of pasture and meadows," "lying and being in the manor of Hiltou."

"Mr" PINNEY was an orig. memb. of Dorch. Ch.; rem. to and sett. at W., 1635; and his res. was on the E. side of the main street, abt. a mile and a quarter N. of the present Cong. Ch. on a lot N. and adjoining Gov. Haynes's lot, which lay bet. Dea. Wm. Gaylor's lot and "Mr." Pinney's lot (see, also, p. 164 Vol. I.). He contr. 2s. to Conn. The 2d son of Elizabeth Pinney and William P. Earle, Gen. FERDINAND P. EARLE, of N. Y. city, was b. at Hartford, Conn., 11 Sept., 1839, and was quite a young man when he engaged in the hotel business with his father, whom he succeeded as proprietor and owner of Earle's Hotel. Subsequently he became proprietor of the magnificent Hotel Normandie, Broadway and 28th street, and also owner and proprietor of the Normandie by the Sea, Seabright, N. J., and the splendid new hotel, the "New Netherlands," 5th avenue and 50th street, in the immediate vicinity of Central Park. When this latter is completed and opened, Gen. Earle will be the proprietor of four of the leading hotels in this country. His military career began Oct. 23, 1862, when he enlisted as a private in Co. B, 7th Reg't. He was honorably discharged on Oct. 29, 1869. On Apl. 5, 1881, Mr. Earle was unanimously elected captain of the second Battery, N. G. S., N. Y. His Excellency, Governor David B. Hill, appointed him on his staff to represent the Artillery Branch in the State Service, with the rank of Brig. Gen., and he was reappointed by Gov. Roswell P. Flower,

Brig. Gen. Earle has been connected with the National Guard for nearly thirty years; is also a member of the Veteran Association, 7th Reg't, N. G. S., N. Y.; a member of the "Old Guard," New York, and has been prominent in urging before the public of New York the idea of a Naval Reserve, or State Naval Militia. He was the founder of "The Earle Guild" for the relief of the poor and needy, and is connected with the following: New York Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, director New York Board of Trade and Transportation, director of the Plaza Bank, member of Chamber of Commerce, member Sixty-ninth Regiment Veteran Club, one of the Governors, Manhattan Club, Manhattan Athletic Club, The Democratic Club of the City of New York, The Colonial Club of New York, Reform Club, United Service Club, Canton Club, memb. In early life he engaged in bus. at Richmond, Va.; then was of the firm of Hitchcock & Pinney of Hartford, Conn.; in comparatively early life retired from bus. to a farm in So. W., and during his long residence there held many offices of honor and trust, in all of which he discharged his duties with fidelity. He was the first rep. from So. W. to the Leg., after town's incorporation; Probate Judge for several years; enjoyed the utmost respect of his fellow townsmen, who will long remember his kind, genial face, his quiet, gentlemanly manner, and his open-handed generosity. He had been (in 1876) a Free Mason for more than 60 years, and his funeral was largely attended by "the craft." He was of studious habits, a great reader, and his remarkably retentive memory enabled him to repeat large extracts from his favorite authors and from the Bible. He was eminently a leading citizen, a helpful friend, an affectionate kinsman. Children:

FAM. 65. John Book<sup>1</sup> (Rev.) (Elison,<sup>2</sup> Lieut. Abm.,<sup>3</sup> Capt. Abm.,<sup>4</sup> Nathl.,<sup>5</sup> Nathl.,<sup>6</sup> Humphrey), after death of his gd. father, Lieut. Abraham, lived with his uncles in Colebrook and Canaan, from spring of 1814 to that of 1817, when (w. 10) he was placed by his father at the academy at Windsor, Conn.; nine years later he was placed at a private school in Lexington, Ga., and soon entered the Georgia University at Athens, Ga., from which he grad. 1825. Having studied law considerably during his senior yr., he was, in 1825, admitted to the bar of that State, but soon quit the law to prepare for the ministry, and, by teaching, procured the means to enter the Theol. Instit. at Princeton, N. J.; grad. there in 1829. Determining to be a missionary to Borneo, and Hausa, Africa, he was ord., together with Rev. Mr. Joseph Barr, and started on their intended work. Mr. Barr, however, being cut off by cholera while awaiting the arrival of the ship which was to convey them to their destination, Mr. Pinney proceeded alone, but the fatigues of the long and arduous journey so broke his health as to compel his return to America in 1833. In the fall of that year, however, with nine missionary companions, he went to Monrovia, which he reached Jan., 1834. On the eve of his leaving the U. S., he was chosen as the agent of the Am. Colonization Soc., and thus became, ex officio, acting Gov. of the Colony of Liberia. At the same time, the early death of certain missionaries so discouraged the Am. Bd. of Foreign Miss., that they consented to accede to the proposal of the A. C. S. to suspend their missions awhile and have Mr. P. commissioned as Governor of the colony. Coincident with this commission, Mr. P. received another from the U. S. Gov't as agent for recaptured Africans. His views were not in accordance with those of the two boards; and, though circumstances obliged him to retain the authority conferred upon him until relieved by a successor, he promptly declined the app't permanently. Finally, the heavy cares and anxieties of his position, as well as repeated attacks of African fever, so undermined his health as to necessitate his return to the U. S. in the fall of 1835. From that time until 1862, with the exception of a little more than a year's settled pastorate over the Pres. Ch. at Washington, Pa., Mr. P.'s energies and labors were spent in the service of the Pa. and N. Y. Col. Societies, as corr. secretary, meantime, however, visiting Liberia again in 1840 and 1855, on special missions. In 1862 he was app. Consul Gen. for the Republic of Liberia for the U. S. This work we have not seen. Mr. A. had previously (1882) pub. a general. of Desc. of Col. John Porter of Salisbury, Conn., from which we have used a few items, bracketed thus [ — — — ].]

"John, Porter, Sr., came from Eng. and settled here in Windsor in 1639." — O. C. R. According to statements furnished by HENRY D. WHITE, Esq., of New Haven, Conn., he came to New England with wife and nine children from Felsted, County Essex, Eng., probably in the ship Susan and Ellen, 17 July, 1638, and in company with his brother-in-law, Joseph Loomis — see Loomis. In the Parish Register of Messing, County Essex, Eng., is the following rec. of mar.: "1620, Oct. 18, John Porter of Felsted & Anna White of Messing." Anna, as we find from the Messing Parish Register, was bp. 13 July, 1600, and was the dau. of Rob't White of M., by his wife, Bridget (dau. of William) Allgar of Shalford, County Essex, and was probably the sister of Mary White of M., who m. Both the Loomis and Goodwin marriages are from the Shalford Parish Register.

He had land grant in Windsor (see p. 164, Vol. I); was appointed constable, 1639-40, juror 1640; grand-juror, 1643, deputy to General Court., 1646 and 47, and a prominent man in the community. He "d. 21 and was bu. 22 April, 1648" (W. R.); left a large est. His will is given in Trumbull's Col. Rec. Conn. "John Porter, Sen'r's, wife" d. 1647. — O. C. R. Ch. (first 2 b. Eng.):

REED. This revision has profited much by the co-operation of three cousins, all of whom have died since the printing of this work began, viz.: HENRY WATSON, Esq., of Northampton, Mass.; his bro., Dr. et Prof. SERENO WATSON of Cambridge, Mass.; and their cousin, Rev. JULIUS A. REED, D.D., of Davenport, Iowa. The genealogy of this fam., as given in our first edition (1859), was reprinted in the Hist. Reed Family, 1861, by J. WHITMORE REED. Mr. FRANK PALMER has also furnished some MS. errata and corrections made from the Norwich (Conn.) Town Rec. and wh. he found inserted in a copy of the above work in the library of the New England Gen. Hist. Soc. at Boston, Mass.

2. Horace (Dr.), b. 15 May, 1770.—FAM. 8.
3. Roswell, d. inf.

* J. A. R. doubts if there were three Josiahs. The memorandum furnished by Dr. Sereno Watson gives three. It is true that the time allowed from John, who came to Dorchester, 1620, rem. to Rehoboth, 1642, when 30 years old, to David, b. 1703, six yrs. after his father's marriage, is rather scant, yet not impossible—for two or three marriages at age of 21 would suffice, and I am disposed to hold on to the three.—H. W.

† The three children of David unnamed, in the Norwich record, were doubtless born after the removal of David to Ellington; some of them are buried there.—H. W.

FAM. 7. Abner (Dan.) (Ethan, <sup>1</sup>David, <sup>2</sup>Josiah, <sup>3</sup>Josiah, <sup>4</sup>John), commenced the saddler's trade with a Mr. May of E. W. Hill, seeing on some saddles which were bro't to the shop for repair plates engraved with the maker's name, he was led to attempt the engraving of similar plates for his master's use, which was the beginning of his artistic life. He never rec'd any instruction in the arts of designing, or of engraving, but soon developed a wonderful aptitude for that class of work, which ultimately determined his career. In 1793, or the early part of 1794, he went to Albany, N. Y., and at Lausburgh, N. Y., he taught school for a while. Here, also, he m. 9 Apl., 1795, Elizabeth (dan. John L. Reed

They ret. to E. (now So.) W., where he taught school for some yrs. He joined the Cong'l Ch. there 19 Aug., 1798, and was elected deacon 22 May, 1799, was clerk of the Soc'y from 1827 (his first record being ent. 28 Jan., 1828) until 1847, when he left So. W. to res. with his dau., Mrs. Charlotte S. Stiles of N. Y. city. Though there is no record, he prob. resigned his deaconship at the same time.

Nov. 1, 1803, he rem. to Htfd., where he carried on the business of engraving, print and plate printing, and sign-painting. A glance through his carefully kept diaries at this period affords an amusing view of the diverse character of his daily occupations, viz.: Engraving and printing "watch-cards" for jewelers; graining chairs; designing, engraving, and printing bank-bills and maps, wood cuts, a "heading" for the Conn. Gazette; lettering cartridge-boxes and collins; making a cheese-press; composing an oration; hewing and turning rollers for his printing press; ornamenting "Capt. Watson's drums"; gilding and painting a carriage; engraving music-plates for S. Jinks; cutting types and making type punches "for Wing & White"; fixing bookbinders' rollers for Hosmer & Goodwin; engraving a "clock-plate for Eli Terry"; lettering on glass; making bookbinders' stamps; mending umbrellas; painting signs; engraving "hat-card for G. Cleveland, hatter"; cutting, sizing, and gilding "cap-fronts" (military) for Capt. Watson; engraving ornaments, etc., on Freemasons' instruments; cutting "an urn and willow" for Hosmer & Goodwin, publishers; cutting seals, and moulds for beads, etc., etc.

In 1811 he ret. to E. W. and purchased a house (erected about 1750), now standing and (until lately) since his occupancy known at the So. W. Ch. parsonage. His first shop was the second story of an L building running east from the house, afterwards he added (abt. 1817 or '18) an L extension on the north side for a shop, which, in 1830, his son Abner L. moved to the south side and fitted up with a bar and a hall overhead, and there kept tavern until his rem. to Ohio in 1831. In 1837 the Deacon reoccupied the house, and the bar was closed; though the hall, for many years thereafter, was used as a resort for lectures, exhibitions, fairs, and dances.

Here, as one of his "specimen plates" describes it, "Engraving, Painting, and Copper-Plate Printing" was "performed to the satisfaction of Customers by ABNER REED, 40 rods South of the South Meeting-House." Both here and while at Htfd. he executed several very excellent engravings for the time, among which may be named portraits of Rev. Drs. Samuel Buell, Gardner Thurston, Eleazer Wheelock; and the earlier volumes of the Am. Antiq. Soc. Transactions contain some specimens of his skill. He was largely engaged in the designing and engraving of bank-note plates, for which he received orders from many banks in the U. S. and Canada, and he also executed wood-cuts, as well as copper-plate engravings and etchings. He possessed great mechanical skill, and had a large and well fitted workshop, wherein he executed all kinds of jobs in wood and metal, with rare and even tedious accuracy. In his family at E. W. were always dwelling several apprentices, whose names and work have since been intimately associated with the history of engraving (especially bank note) in this country. Among these we may mention William Mason, afterwards a wood-engraver in Philadelphia; Asaph Wilson, afterwards of Htfd.; Ralph Rawden, head of the once famous firm of Rawden, Wright & Co. of N. Y. city; Oliver Pelton, Frederick Bissell, Ebenezer F. Reed, Alfred Daggett, Lewis Fairchild, wood engraver, Vistus Balch, William Phelps, plate printer, afterwards of Albany, N. Y., and others. In fact, when the history of bank-note engraving in the United States comes to be written up, the widespread influence of this little East Windsor School of Art cannot fail to be recognized and honored. In these days the means and instrumentalities now employed in this great business were unknown. Laborious hand work was not relieved, as at present, by curious mechanism; the old "pull" hand-press alone was used, and the printed sheets of bank notes were sun-dried on clothes lines in the Deacon's back yard.

Of the family, and of the Deacon as an employer, as well as of his active, son sible wife, JOHN WARNER BARBER, the well-known Connecticut historical writer and engraver, of New Haven, says, in speaking of his apprentice days at E. W., that he "considered it a favorable circumstance that he had been a member of the family of Dea. Abner Reed, where Christian rules were adopted and where its heads felt an interest in the religious welfare of those under their charge."

In 1821, Dea. Reed formed a partnership with one of his former apprentices, SAMUEL STILES (who afterwards became his son-in-law), under the title of Reed & Stiles, at Hartford, "over the store of Mr. R. Landon, a few doors S. of Messrs. Geo. Goodwin & Sons' bookstore, Main street," and at Dea. Reed's res. E. W., where, until 1824, they carried on the business of "portrait, historical, landscape, map" engraving; also "engr. on wood and copper plate printing." Mr. Reed amassed, for that period, quite a handsome fortune from his business, which, however, he lost, about 1830, by unwise endorsements for others.

In early life he had some literary aspirations, and published (1794) a novel, entitled Love Triumphant, or Constancy Rewarded, an 18mo vol. of 122 pp., of which 28 pp. form a "Poetical Appendix." The volume was illustrated with frontispiece of his own designing and engraving, and was prefaced with a commendatory note by his pastor, Rev. David McClure, who approved of his "purpose of printing it for the instruction of youth." Of the novel it must be said that it is written in the severely stilted style of the last century, which is provocative of unutterable meriment to the reader of the present day; and of the poems that they possess scant merit as to rhythm, and are dismally religious in tone.

In 1800 he pubat E. W. The | FIRST STEP TO LEARNING; | or | Little Children's | Spelling and Reading Book | Designed to render the first | Rudiments of Learning | Easy and familiar to | Young Beginners | By ABNER REED, S. M. | :East Windsor: | Connecticut. | Printed for the Author | By Luther Pratt | Albee. — 18 mo, 60 pp.

This little work is illustrated by some "rudimentary" wood-cuts (said to have been engr. by him on apple-tree wood), which must have been among his first efforts in that direction. This passed thro' at least two editions, and, in Dec., 1801, we find in his Diary, "Pratt [prob. Luther, the printer] bro't home my colt, bo't of him for 600 Spelling Books, in the sheets."

We have it, on the authority of John Warner Barber, that Mr. Reed engr. the cuts for the early editions of Webster's Spelling Book, and that the first job of importance done by him in wood was a series of wood cuts for a line of Toy Books, issued by Messrs. Lincoln & Gleason of Hartford.

A little paper covered book, of which one or two copies seem to be yet extant, and entitled Four Aquatinta Sketches, published 1809, by Abner Reed, Engraver, Hartford, Conn., gives a very pleasing idea of his ability, both in designing and engraving. These sketches were 4 by 5 inches in size.

After his removal to New York city, in 1847, he still continued engraving, a little every day, in his rooms, mostly on a set of copy books for penmanship, upon which he had been long engaged, and which he finally completed in 1851. This work, 8 by 3 inches in size, is entitled REED'S GUIDE TO THE ART OF PENMANSHIP. The Scholar's Plain and Easy Guide to the | Art of Penmanship | Containing the true Principles of Writing. | And Rules for forming every letter: | Analytically, Systematically | and | Mathematically delineated | and Illustrated in a Variety of plain | Round Hand copies. — Designed principally as a Standard Work for the use of Primary Schools. | Written and Engraved by A. REED. — New York, 1851 | — 12 plates." These, tho' to our present view of an antiquated style, were very beautiful examples of engraving and of the really excellent system of penmanship upon which Dea. Reed always insisted, and which he himself maintained until the day of his death, his letters, even to the latest, always looking more like engraved than written ones. A few years later, after he had rem. to res. with his eldest dau., Mrs. Edward Bissell of Toledo, Ohio, he gained the first prize for penmanship at a county fair, he being then about 63 years old.

Yours affectionately
J. A. Reed

Rev. James A. Rains died 27 August, 1890. His wife died same year.

In person he was tall and quite erect, even to the day of his death, and he must have been in youth and the prime of manhood eminently handsome. He was grave and deliberate in manner, slow of speech, of tenacious memory, and a great reader, of an amiable, phlegmatic temperament. He d. at Toledo, Ohio, 25 Feb., 1866.

Mrs. Elizabeth (Loring) Reed, who was at the age of 14 a "county belle" retained much of her beauty and elegant dignity of manner, to the day of her death. FAM. 11. Julius Alexander<sup>7</sup> (Rev. of D.D.) (Dr. Elijah F.,<sup>6</sup> Eben,<sup>5</sup> David,<sup>4</sup> Josiah,<sup>3</sup> Josiah,<sup>2</sup> John<sup>1</sup>), was a student for two years at Trinity Coll., Hartford, then out, Yale, from which he grad., 1829, was a year a tutor in family of Hon. Wm. Jay of Bedford, N. Y.; 1830-31, was teacher in Hon. James Hall's private High School for Boys at Ell.; then two years a private tutor at Natchez, Miss. He then ret'd. North and completed the theological course at Yale, after which he was licensed to preach in Aug., 1835. A pioneer to the West as early as 1832, few men have done more towards its advancement in religion and education; his interest in both being manifested even to the last weeks of his life. He joined the Illinois band from Yale, which preceded him by a few years; and in 1836 he was ordained at Quincy, Ill. Four years were spent in the State of Illinois, when he returned East, owing to the health of his wife, and from 1839 to 1840 he served as chaplain in the Insane Asylum in Worcester, Mass. The pioneer spirit of his Pilgrim ancestors would not allow him to forget the Christian needs of the "far West," and he again turned his face to the setting sun, Iowa being the land of his adoption. He was one of the first Cong'l ministers in the State; assisted in organizing the first Congregational church, also the first Congregational association, and preached the first sermon in Keokuk. He next removed to Fairfield, Iowa, being the second Congregational minister in the State; and, in October, 1845, rem. with his family to Davenport, then a village of 700 inhabitants, his appointment by the American Home Missionary Society, as its superintendent, making a change of residence necessary. This position he held from 1845 to 1869, save six years, performing most faithful and acceptable labor. Nothing was too difficult for him to undertake, nothing too arduous for him to accomplish when in the line of duty. He was one of the first to select a site for Iowa College, being one of its founders and charter trustees, with which he was officially connected for nearly twenty years, and in which he always felt a deep interest. A cherished desire of his was to attend the fortieth commencement, an account of which was read to him during his last illness. In 1855 he received from this college the degree of D.D.

In 1881, accompanied by a daughter, he made an extended trip through Europe, and afterward visited every point of interest in this country.

Always intellectually active, he had much literary work under way, which no one without his mine of facts and recollections can ever complete. His last work was the preparation of a paper giving the history of Congregationalism in Iowa for the past fifty years.

Rev. Mr. Reed m. 1 Dec., 1835, Caroline (dau. Reuben Foster and Relief Whiting) Blood, b. 4 Dec., 1805, at Concord, Mass. Her father's family were of the earliest settlers of the town of Carlisle, afterward called Concord. On her mother's side her ancestry embraced a goodly number of those who are said to have "shone as lights in the Christian community throughout New England." These include Rev. John Cotton, Rev. Samuel Whiting, first pastor of Lynn, Mass. Her great-gt. grandfather was for twenty-six years pastor of the church in Concord, Mass. Mrs. Reed's father died when she was very young, and, as the eldest of six children, she early evinced great strength of character in her personal efforts to secure an education. Two of her brothers became clergymen, one in Illinois, Rev. Charles Emerson Blood; the other, Rev. Lorenzo W. Blood, a prominent Methodist divine.

After completing her course of study at Ipswich Seminary, she became a successful teacher. She organized, and for several years had charge of, the first infant school in Boston—a movement which resulted in similar organizations in other cities and an innovation which was soon adopted in the Sabbath-schools.

During her residence in Boston she was a member of Lowell Mason's choir, and the old tunes first sung from the original scores were ever a delight and comfort, and to her latest days awakened pleasant memories.

Inbibing the Western enthusiasm of her friend, Rev. Edward Beecher, then settled in Boston, she, with her brother Charles, went to Jacksonville, Ill., in 1832. There she was engaged in teaching until her marriage.

She was a person of marked refinement of character and manners, given to hospitality; and, in loyalty to her convictions of duty, a worthy descendant of her many Puritan ancestors. So long as strength permitted she was active in church and society, and especially helpful to young women seeking to obtain an education. She d. at Davenport, Iowa, 2 Oct., 1890. Ch.

JOHN,<sup>1</sup> the earliest known progenitor of the family, is first found in Simsbury, Conn., 21 May, 1688, when that town granted him ten acres of land for a home lot, that was followed by grants of other lands for pasturage, etc. These lands, located in the westerly part of the town near the Granby line, he sold in 1691, and in February, 1696-7, bought eight acres "on the east side of the mountain to ward Simsbury east bounds, eastward of Mr. Moore's Marsh," and a second piece of 29 acres. These lands were in that part of the town afterward annexed to Blfd., and known as Duncester district, and on the smaller piece he resided till his death, about 1734. He m. Patience (daug. of Richard and Sarah Cook) Saxton of Windsor, Conn., b. 28 June, 1658. Richard came to New England in the ship Blessing, and was in W. as early as 1643. Ch.:

FAM. 7. Lemuel (Lem.; John's), b. 2 Oct., 1742; d. 19 Dec., 1789; m. Ruth Wood- ford of Northington, now Avon, Conn. He was variously known as "Esquire," "Judge," and "Captain." In the State Library, Hfd., in Rev. War Regis. Rolls, Vol. II, No. 56, there is a note of "such as marched with Capt. Lemuel Roberts in the Lexington Alarm, April, 1775," headed with, "Capt. Lemuel Roberts, 3 days out, 1 horse, 14 m. and ten others." This is attested by Capt. Lemuel Roberts and the account approved by the selectmen. During the Rev. War he seems to have received some injury, and afterwards served mostly in the commissary dep't. To pay for provisions for the army he raised money by mortgaging land on Talcott mountain, where the tower now stands. Government paid him in Continental money, and the property was sacrificed. His stern patriotism made him some enemies, and in 1787 a protest by them was made to the Gen'l Assembly against his reappointment as Justice of the Peace, but without avail (see Vol. III, Misc. Papers, in State Libr., Hfd., Conn.). The correspondence referred to in the printed note
(Vol. III, Misc. Pap., State Libr.) is very voluminous. The gist of it is that Lemuel Roberts had been appointed Justice of the Peace for Simsbury in 1786, contrary to the wishes of some of the residents of that town and Granby. The aggrieved parties to the number of 48 petitioned the Gen'l Assembly in 1787 to remove him, alleging his character not to be good; that he neglected "Family Duty" (prayers); was the cause of great contention and difficulty; that he did great injustice to many inhabitants, that they suspected that he sometimes swore falsely, and did other things not commendable, etc. Remonstrances against his removal signed by 274 persons showed that they who asked for his appointment were well acquainted with him and acted understandingly, that said L. Roberts, Esq., has ever been firm and unshaken in the cause of his country, being very officious at all times in suppression of and search after the common enemies of our country; and that in consequence of his being so firm in and friendly to the American cause he has caused many disaffected persons to rise up against him and vent their malice at him in such a manner as will tend to destroy his reputation and honor; that he has been much applauded by most people in Simsbury and adjacent towns for his skill and judgment in matters of law, and his impartial administration of his said office of J. P.; that his character is good and unimpeached among all the principal men and inhabitants of said town, and that he is chosen to judge of most of the causes of a difficult nature in said town, either as a judge at law or an arbitrator in matters of equity, also that he is most approved of in drawing of draughts of a difficult nature in said town and places adjacent, that he was born in this society and was brought up in the same, and has ever sustained a good character, that of a man of truth and integrity, and a supporter of religion; was early in life put into public business and office in the town and society, as well as in military office; has ever discharged his duties to the general satisfaction, and has been intrusted with the most important offices in this society, and has been faithful, stable, and unshaken, and has also taken a very active part in the defense of his country in the late unnatural and cruel war, in which service he has brought upon him an infirmity and lameness in one of his limbs that much threatens his life, and has caused him great costs and the most exquisite pains at times; as to giving uneasiness on account of injustice is not a fact, for his administration is greatly approved; as to swearing falsely from time to time, it originated from his supporting the public worship of God and of suppressing disorders done upon the Sabbath in opposing that part of worship, singing, which he generously supported, and upon some difficulties which arose from that he was accused of swearing falsely—he prosecuted the accused and recovered damages upon a fair and candid trial; as to his neglect of family duty we cannot say, but thus far we can assert that some of us have been to sundry weddings and have been both eye and ear witnesses to his performance of that part of solemn worship called prayer, and that he is a supporter of God's worship, and perhaps we can say with propriety that he has done as much as any one man in the society for the support of the Gospel. John Wilson of Sims, made affidavit that he lived with L. R. three years, in which time he was very careful to attend upon family duty. John Smith of Farmington also lived with him nearly two years and says he (L. R.) was very regular and attentive to the duties of his family when the situation of his house would admit of it—he keeping a tavern—having a great deal of company and others people coming in to do business, etc.

The circumstances of his death were these: He as Justice of the Peace held court in the house that stood north of the house in which Wm. Latimer now lives in Bloomfield (1885 or earlier). One evening he rendered judgment against one Burr, who was heard to say that he would get even with Judge Roberts. There was quite a crowd, and, as the Judge was lame, he was one of the last to leave, and was found dead at the foot of the steps, next morning. Whether he fell or was thrown down, was never fully known. One of his near neighbors, Michael Seagur, awoke his wife that morning saying, "Judge Roberts is dead; that ugly Burr pushed him off the steps at Griswold's last night, and he is there now. I have seen it in a dream three times this night." Before they had done breakfast Seagur was called to the inquest. Burr fell dead in the road not long after, and this (the narrator said), was considered a very just judgment. Judge R. lay where he fell all night; his cane went through his hat and entered his temple. On his gravestone in the B.F.E.L. burial ground, under the usual inscription, are the following lines:

"No Cardinal to revive his heart,
No one to hold his head,
No friend to close his dying eyes,
The ground was his death bed."

There is some corroborative testimony to this incident. The house where court was held was kept as a tavern by Solomon Griswold. My informant adds with regard to Roberts being a commissary, that he many years ago saw a letter written to him by Gov. Jonathan Trumbull regarding the purchase of army stores. This letter cannot now be found.—Letter of Jas. J. Goodwin of N. Y. City, Ch.

ROCKWELL.* This family is said to trace its origin to Sir Ralph De Rocheville, one of the Norman knights accompanying the Empress Maud to England, when she laid claim to that kingdom, and who finally joined Henry II, and received three knights of land in Co. York, upon which the family have since resided, their seat being at Rockwell Hall, near Borough Bridge, in that county. Sir JOHN ROCK-WELL, of this family, is mentioned in Eng. history as the rescuer of the Earl of Northumberland, and Lord Percy (the celebrated "Hotspur"), from the Earl Douglas's party, at the Battle of Halidon Hill, in the reign of Henry IV. Arms: argent [white], upon a chief sable [black]; three boars' heads couped [cut off], or [gold] langued [tongued], gules [red]. Crest, upon a wreath of the colors of the shield, or a boar's head as in the arms. Motto: "Tout pour mon Dieu et mon roi."

Abraham, m. Mary —, 4 Dec., 1640, he d. 8 July, 1677, no issue.

John, land gr. at W., 1640 (see p. 165, Vol. I); had no children. He at W., d. 10 May, 1662; will (Old Bk., p. 42, Rec. of Court of Prob. of Conn., Col.), dated 4 Apl., 1661, constitutes his son Simon as his executor, and to have the estate after his mother's death. The ho., land, one cow, etc., are devised to his wife; Simon was to have a cow, and himself and sisters, Mary and Hannah (wife Zachary Sanford) and their children, were to have £1 apiece, est. val. £244.05. Wilmet (Wilmoth, Wilmarth)

 she gives "to my dau, Mary, one Bed, that which Simon lies on, with two Blankets, two sheets, one pillow," and "to my dau, Hannah, one little Bed, which my husband died on, with two blankets, two sheets, one pillow," and "all my wearing clothes to my two daus, to be equally divided to them. And all y<sup>e</sup> rest of my estate I give to my son Simon." Children:

William (Dea.). The Parish Register of Holy Trinity, Dorchester, Eng., has this record: "14 Apl., 1621, William Rockwell and Susan Capen married." The Hist.
D. (p. 79) gives this name as Susanna Chapin; doubtless Capen is correct, and she was prob. another dau. of Bernard Capen, for, according to his family Bible, he had a dau. of this name (one of his daus. m. Robert Clifford, and another Nich. Apsall, and another Thos. Swiften. Hist. D. (p. 42) gives Susanna Capen's birth as 11 Apl., 1602, the Rockwell Rec., 5 Apl., the R. Rec. gives her death as the 14th, and the C. Rec. the 13th Nov., 1666. Hist. D. (p. 17) speaks of William R. in a list of "several gentlemen, past middle life, with adult families and good estates. He was a deacon in the church formed by Rev. Mr. Warham and his friends in the New

* Since the appearance of our first edition (1859), which contained the only published genealogy of the family then extant, there has been issued a history of the Rockwell Family in America, by John to 1873. By Henry Estlin Rockwell, Boston, 1872, 257 p.

Hospital at Plymouth, and which came over to Dorchester, 1630; was one of the first three selectmen of D.; was, with Reys Warham and Mayerick, and his fellow deacon, William Gaylord, app. to lay out the first land grants at D.; one of the 21 freemen who took the oath of fidelity, 18 May, 1631; 9 Nov., 1630, was on jury in first manslaughter case in the colony, he and Dea. Gaylord were app. adm'rs on estate of John Russell, in Sept., 1633, and as one of the deacons of the D. church, signed all acts and orders of the plantation prior to 1635; had land gr. him at D., near Savin Hill, 25 June, 1636, by which it appears that he did not go to W. with the first company. In printed Town Rec. of D. (pub. 1880), p. 18, under date of 17 Dec., 1635, he is granted "half an acre of ground next Mr. Stoughton's, neere the fish house, to build him a house, with condition that if he goe away and leave the Plantation, he leave the sayd house and ground to the Plant<sup>n</sup> in paying him the charge." In 1636, 22 June, his house is referred to (pp. 22, 23, Hist. D.) as "where Goodman Rockwell now dwells", and 5 July, 1636, has 8 acres given him on Indian Hill, also (pp. 24, 30), allusion is made to his "lott in the common." The Hist. D. states that "emigration [to Conn.] did not entirely cease until 1637; many were detained a year or two in disposing of their property." The fact that Mr. R. had a home-lot assigned to him at D., 17 Dec., 1635; that, 27 June, 1636, he was occupying it, that his lot on the common is referred to 5 July, same year, and that 8 acres of upland additional was gr. him at same time; and that, 2 Jan., 1637, another act was passed as to where his 8 acres should be taken up, all go to show that he did not go with the Watham party from D. in the spring of 1636. It is prob. that he went in the spring of 1637, since no mention of him occurs after 2 Jan., 1637, in the D. Town Rec.; nor does his name occur in the division of lands "in the Neck and Cowes Pasture," 18 Mch., 1637. Saragp., also, says that he was at W. "in its second year," 1637. His early death, 15 May, 1640, leaves no record at W., designating him as a deacon of the Ch. there.* His wid. m. (2) Matthew Grant, 29 May, 1645 and d. 14 Nov., 1666. *Ch. * In a note to an original Rockwell pedigree, furnished by D. WILLIAMS PATTERSON, Esq., to the A. Y. Geneal. Soc. of Bosn. Rec., iii, pp. 102, he says: "The Rockwell pamphlet (referring to a sermon preached at the funeral of Mary Rockwell of Colebrook, Conn., 1851, which has an outline genealogy of the Rockwell Fam. without dates, as an appendix, p. 24, calls Mary's husband Jeffrey Hoban, which is followed by Siles, Hist. W., p. 62, while Savage, Geneal. Dict., iii, 568, discredits the whole name, and thinks that the baptismal name was borrowed from the husband of Joan, whom he calls Jeffrey Baker, who is shown by Stiles, p. 524, to have m. Jane R., 15 Nov., 1642, and by V. F. G. Gen. Hist. Register, v, 64, to have m. on same date, Jane R. As William and Susanna Rockwell had a dau. Joan, b. 25 Apl., 1625, whom the author of this pedigree has not named, it would seem that she has erroneously called her husband the husband of Mary, and left us no clue as to the real name of Mary's husband, if she had one." The MS. Rockwell pedigree, referred to above, was copied by "Doctor and Rev. Matthew Rockwell of E. W., in 1731, and, although without dates, is valuable for the correctness and additions which it makes to our previous knowledge.

Hartford, and became the founder of the Colebrook (Conn.) Rockwells; m. at age of 28; inherited a small farm in E. W., upon which he lived until 1767, when, his family having increased to four sons, he foresaw that his place would soon be too straight for him, and, being the owner of a hundred acres of wild land in Colebrook, he rem. there in Feby., 1767, being the fifth settler in that town, and erected a building which now forms the back or kitchen part of the late Reuben Rockwell house, and two miles distant from the other settlers. This house of one story, with a stone chimney and a ball room under the roof, was with for many years the house of entertainment for all the town and religious meeting of the settlement. Reared under the ministry of Rev. Timothy Edwards; frequently a listener to Jonathan Edwards and to Whittfield, he was a professor of religion, punctual in family duties, and, to a good degree, faithful in the religious instruction of his children. He commanded the Colebrook military company during most of the Revolutionary War, served as an officer of the army on a short tour of duty, and was a decided patriot, and a prominent man in town affairs. He had a remarkable faculty of stimulating and directing men and in securing united action among them—an outgoing to others of his own vigorous personality, and in his prime was endowed with great physical strength. He d. 24 Sept., 1794, in his 66th year.

His wife was well calculated to be the helper of such a man: "her wool and her flax were always spun and woven in season. Her geese were picked at the proper time of the moon, and everything thoroughly done. Her large Indian pudding was on the table precisely at noon and the conch shell blown in proper season. Her large brass kettle was over the fire for brewing beer every Tuesday morning. Her family, always large, required her constant exertions, and her energy and foresight were always equal to the emergency. Ever kind and attentive to her children, their heads must be combed when she could best attend to it; and if they were cross and restive, she would box their ears; and if that failed, she would promise them bread and butter; and, at any rate, when undertaken, it must be done and thoroughly done. She was a great lover of peace, and took no part in neighborhood quarrels or tea-table scandals. Ever attentive to the claims of religion, she gave evidence, in the latter part of her life, of sincere and fervent piety. She survived her husband twenty years."* Ch. :

1. Samuel (D.), b. E. W., 18 Feb., 1759, resided at home on farm, until age of 17, when he served in 1776, for 6 or 8 mos., in the army at New London; his health being impaired, he commenced in the following year his preparatory studies, studying in summer and teaching school in winter, until Y. C., 1779, at the end of one term took a dismission and pursued for the usual time the study of med. with Dr. Lemuel Hopkins, then of Litchfield, traveled for some time in search of a location; sett., finally, 1781, as a practitioner at Sharon, Conn.; soon obtained a handsome practice; in 1788, Embee (dan. Deacon Robert) McEwen of Winsted, Conn.; as a business man, possessed an uncommon share of energy, perseverance, prudence, and sound discretion. He was liberal, cheerful, active in devising and aiding all objects of public improvement and benevolence, and was a liberal donor to the A. B. C. F. M., and the Western Reserve College, as well as to other literary institutions. 5. Reuben (D.), b. 1, bp. 6 Oct., 1765, at E. W.; was carried in his mother's arms, on horseback, to Colebrook, in Feb., 1767; he was the son who remained in the old homestead, and his whole life and character were in beautiful keeping with the firm foundations, unvarnished plainness, and substantial comforts of the good old dwelling; with severely any opportunities of education, and constantly engaged in the hard labor incident to the first settlement of a rough New Eng. town, his strong, far-reaching mind was not satisfied without improvement; and, by judicious reading and hard thinking, he acquired an amount and variety of knowledge which enabled him, honorably and usefully, to discharge, not only the ordinary duties of life, but all public trusts and responsibilities which were committed to him. With a large amt. of information, constantly increasing, combined with ready wit, and clearness that seldom failed, and a kindness shown in actions rather than words, he was eminently useful and dearly beloved in his own family; his sincerity and plainness of speech might sometimes seem unkind of the feelings of others, yet he meant it not so, and was as ready to commend the right as to reprove the wrong; he shunned responsibility, and, where principle was at stake, was fearless in the expression of his opinions; his habit of commenting upon what he read or heard gave him the pen of a ready writer; in 1799, under the ministry of Doct. Edwards, a marked change came over his religious views and feelings; his piety became, like himself, earnest, sincere, and practical. After enjoying uninterrupted health for more than 74 years, he was prostrated by disease, and, in full possession of his mental faculties, with calmness and resignation, he set his house in order, and was "gathered as a

RODIMORE, Hendrick, the town shepherd. In olden times there were more sheep raised in Windsor than at present. These sheep were all turned into one large flock and herded by a shepherd, either in some large field, or in the streets. In June, 1733, the people of W. voted "that the sheep in this town shall be put in three flocks, that is to say, on the north side of the Rivulet to be one flock, and on the East side of the Great River to be one flock, and on the South side of the Rivulet to be one flock." It was also decided that each flock could be divided if it was deemed best. In 1735 the East side Windsor people voted that there should be but one flock on that side of the Great River, and Messrs. Lieut. Joseph Loomis, Mr. Joseph Rockwell, and Mr. Abiel Abbott should be a committee "for ordering the prudentials of the flock this present year, or summer." By the term "ordering the prudentials" was meant the hiring of a shepherd and folding the sheep. After the Revolution, one "Old Hendricks" (Rodimore), as he was called, was the shepherd. He was one of the Hessians captured with Burgoyne's army, who had been billeted in E. W., or W., and who (like some others) found himself better suited with the place and people than with army life, or a return to his home across the seas. He married a Windsor negro wench, as black as a stovepipe, and afterwards became quite disgusted with his bargain, offering that he would cheerfully give "all of forty shillings" if he could get quit of her. He once, in a crazy mood, tried to hang himself with a nice cord which he used for ditching, but was cut down in time to save his life. He became very indignant, not because his life was saved, but because they had cut his nice ditching cord! Polly, wife of Hendrick Rodimore, d. 25 Dec., 1790, æ, abt. 40. — W. C. R.

Azel S Roe

life was to do good to the needy and ignorant. With his religion (afterwards his partner in business), he soon started the first Young People's Meeting in the church to which they belonged. These meetings comprised readings from the Bible, sermons, and tracts, with prayers, but no original remarks were allowed, unless by some theological student who might happen to be present. From this meeting was organized a band of young men and women who went about visiting the poor and the sick, and in 1817 a Sunday-school was begun for the poor children collected from the streets on Sabbath morning. Mr. Roe's religious activity continued after he removed to East Windsor. There he became interested in the improvement of young people and formed a literary society by means of which, and also of a Bible class which he conducted for thirty years, he did much to counteract the growth of infidelity, the seeds of which had been sown before he came into the town. Until he was over 80 years old he conducted a neighborhood prayer-meeting, which kept up a religious interest in a part of the parish remote from the church. He was a diligent reader, an earnest thinker, a warm and constant friend. He had that rare quality of content which made every day complete, doing the duty of the day and receiving whatever came to him as from a wise and loving Providence. After his deafness so increased upon him that he was greatly debarred from hearing conversation he was content to read or think, never murmuring, but committing to memory many poems and hymns even up to the time of his last illness. As he drew near the end of his life and strength and heart began to fail, all who heard him felt the value of a mind stored with high and noble thoughts, of a heart enriched and a character matured by the love and service of his Lord.

His literary life began in an attempt to prepare for his family a sketch of the scenes and incidents of his early life, which he was persuaded to publish, and from this he gradually began to write for recreation. His books came to the American public just at a time before the rush of stories which has since flooded the country, and, while their moral tone was high and helpful, there was about them a vein of humor and of acquaintance with American life which entertained both young and old. He kept pace with all the great movements of the times with enthusiasm, and was a delightful and instructive conversationalist. His house was ever a pleasant resort for the young; and there are many now living (among them the author of this history) who can testify to the delightful charm of hospitality which the Roc mansion presented to all who came within its influence. Dea. Roc's published works are as follows:

*James Mountjoy, or, Ye Been Thinking; Time and Tide; A Long Look Ahead; To Love and to be Loved; Woman, our Angel; How Could He Help Us? ROSSITER (Rochester?), Dr. Bray (or Brian), s. of Mr. Edward R., one of the Assistants of the Mass. Colony, came from Eng. to Dorchester, Mass., on the Mary and John, 1630; was a physician (see pp. 453, 454, Vol. I); was first town clerk and register of W., also a surveyor; rem. to Guilford, 1651; his home lot at W. sold to Sam'l Marshall, 1657, and by him to Anthony Hoskins, 1660. O. Ch. Rec. credits him with 6 children b. at W.; if so, they prob. all d. in inf., as the same record notes the death of (1) Samuel, d. 10 June, 1640; (2) Timothy, d. 1647; (3) Abigail, d. 1648; (4) Esther, d. 1649; (5) Peter, d. 1651; (6) Elizabeth, d. 1651. Dr. Charles J. Hoadly says of him in connection with his rem. to Guilford (in Some Early Post-Mortem Examinations in New England—a Paper read before the Conn. Med. Society, etc., 1892) that "Rossiter seems not to have lost his affection for the Connecticut colony, and suffered some inconveniences on that account after Winthrop had procured the charter. He was a Royalist also, and interested himself in the search for the regicides, Goffe and Whalley. His medical education it is likely he had received before he came from England. Records show that he was held in esteem as a physician; indeed, he was probably in higher repute as such than any other then living in the colony. . . . One book known to have been in his library is now in the library of Trinity College in Hartford, it is a commentary on the aphorisms of Hippocrates by Vallesius, a folio in Latin, printed in 1588. On the title page he wrote his name with Ex dono Dom. Hopkinds, whom we may reasonably suppose to have been Governor Edward Hopkins, to whom the grammar schools of Hartford, New Haven, and Hadley owe the greater part of their endowment. Rossiter's wife, Elizabeth, was a sister of the Rev. Josiah Alsop of London, who left her a legacy. She died in Aug., 1669, and he followed her Sept. 30, 1672. Descendants of the name still remain in Guilford."

In regard to the post mortem of Kelley's child, referred to on p. 454, Vol. I (and which was made 31 Mch., not 14th, as there given), Dr. Hoadly, in the erudite Paper above quoted from, says that "There was at this time no physician or surgeon residing in Hartford, and Rossiter seems to have been sent for to come up from Guilford and aid in the investigation. With him was joined William Pitkin, then schoolmaster in Hartford, who apparently acted as a kind of prosecuting attorney. . . . The original report of the autopsy is in Rossiter's handwriting. In it is filed Mr. Rossiter's and Mr. Pitkin's observations about Kelley's child, and is attested by Daniel Clark, secretary of the colony, as having been testified upon oath before the magistrates by Mr. Rossiter and Mr. Pitkin, March 31, 1662."

Rosseter evidently was predisposed to attribute the death of Elizabeth Kelley to pre-natural causes. Had he been skeptical on the subject of witchcraft he might have attributed some of the appearances in his report to incipient decomposition. The child died Wednesday, March 26, and the dissection was made on Monday, the 31st. . . . This is the earliest post mortem in New England of which we have an official account, but there have been in New England earlier post mortem examinations. A little more than a year later, that is to say in July, 1663, there was held in Hartford another autopsy, this time on the body of the Rev. Samuel Stone, who died on the 20th of that month. I think we are safe in saying that this examination was also made by Rosseter. Mr. Stone had been much out of health for several years, and that Rosseter had prescribed for him has already been mentioned." Dr. Hoadly's Paper is a most valuable contribution to our knowledge of the Medical Science of that day, as well as to Conn. witchcraft literature. Dr. Rossiter is one of W.'s settlers of whom we would fain learn more.

FAM. 8. Henry Augustus<sup>6</sup> (Rev., A. M., S. T. D.) (Rev. Henry, Rev. David S.,<sup>4</sup> Henry,<sup>3</sup> Joseph,<sup>2</sup> Henry<sup>1</sup>), was prepared for college at Springfield and Hartford, entered Yale Coll. at age of 15, where he grad. 1823, one of the youngest in a class of 72. In 1827 he grad. from Andover Theol. Sem., and the same year at New York he undertook an agency for the Am. Bible Soc'y, and is described by the secretary of the Soc'y at this time, as "young, ardent, active, full of cheerful, and at times mirthful, conversation, yet blended with frankness and good nature, and all so obviously devoted to the interests of religion as to render him an agreeable companion and a promising minister." He was in the employ of the Soc'y until 1830 in the autumn of which year he was ordained as a Presb. minister, and for three and a half years ministered to the Presb. Ch. in Fayetteville, N. C. In 1834 he was installed as pastor of the Pearl Street Ch., N. Y. city, where he labored with great diligence until May, 1843, when he commenced a ministry at Honesdale, Pa., where he remained for over twelve yrs., and this place was the scene of most of his literary labors. In 1850 he pub. an 8vo vol. of about 300 pp., On the Common Meinings of Infidelity; in 1851 a duodecimo vol. of 180 pp., entitled The Path of Life, of which a second revised edition was soon issued, in 1851 another 12mo vol., Life in a Dark Alley; in 1854, a larger work, The Way of Peace. Only two of his sermons were published while in New York, viz.: a Fourth of July sermon in 1840, and the funeral sermon of Rev. David R. Downer, 1841. While resident at Honesdale, Pa., sermons of Dr. Rowland were issued in pamphlet form on the following topics: The Distinctive Features of Presbyterism, as Exhibited in the Confession of Faith, 1844; The Characteristics of a Pious Woman's Heart—a sermon preached at the dedication of the lecture room of the Presb. ch. at H., 1848; The Murderer and his Fate, 1848; Christian Liberty, 1850; The True Principle of Christian Unity, 1850; The Excellency of a Christian Policy, 1851; An Essay (which had previously been pub. in the newspapers) on the Church and Slavery, 1851. He was a frequent contributor to the newspaper press, which he considered too powerful an influence to be neglected. A fellow-clergyman says of him, after a visit to him at Homesdale: "I could not but admire the many marks of his activity and usefulness, both in his congregation and among the people generally. He seems to be acquainted with everybody, rich and poor, old and young, on terms of cordial friendship with all, and ready to promote their best interests in every way." In July, 1851, Union Coll. conferred upon him the degree of D.D., and 23 Jan., 1856, he was installed pastor of the Park Church, Newark, N. J., where he remained until his death, 14 Sept., 1859.* Dr. R. m. 1833, Harriet (da. Isaac) Hyer of N. Y. city, who still (1892) survives. Children:

1. Henry A. (Prof.), b. at Homesdale, Pa., 37 Nov., 1848; grad. Rensselaer Polytechnic Inst., 1850, as a civ. eng'r; the next year found him R.R. surveying in Western New York, but his ability as a teacher was already recognized and his services were called into requisition at Wooster University. In 1852 he returned to Rensselaer as instructor in physics; assist. prof. in same, 1852-'5; studied in Germany, 1855-'6; Prof. of Physics, Johns Hopkins Univ., Baltimore, Md., 1856; made Associate Fellow of Amer. Acad. of Sciences, 1876; the well-earned deg. of Ph.D. was conferred upon Prof. Rowland by Johns Hopkins Univ. in 1880. As member of the Electrical Congress at Paris, in 1881, and of the jury at the Electrical Exhibition at the same time and place, he received the Order of a Chevalier of the Legion of Honor; rec'd grand prize of Venice Acad. Sciences, 1881; U. S. Commissioner to International Electrical Congress, Paris, 1881; was elected a member of the Nat'l Acad. Sciences, same yr. In 1883 he presided over the Physics Section of the Amer. Ass'n for the Advancement of Science, at Minneapolis, and read a memorable address, entitled, "A Plea for Pure Science." Was one of the 12 hon. memb. London Physical Soc'y, 1884; honorary member Cambridge (Eng.) Philosophical Soc., 1884; corresponding member of British Association. In 1884, being appointed by government on the commission specially formed for the purpose, he presided over the deliberations of the Nat'l Conference of Electricians at Philadelphia, and delivered an address of decided scientific interest and value. During the same yr. he rec'd from the American Acad. of Arts and Sciences, of which he is an associate, the Rumford medal for researches in light and heat; foreign member Royal Society of Gr. Britain, 1886; received the grand prize and gold medal at Paris Exposition, 1889, for gratings, and a photographic map of the solar spectrum; Draper medal, 1890.

The Electrical World says that "when he had completed his now widely known experiments on magnetic permeability, at first he was unable to get them published. Scientific journals in America rejected his work, but, confident of its value, he sent his results to Clerk Maxwell, who at once had them published in the Philosophical Magazine, and wrote kindly and encouraging letters to the young investigator. He was now becoming known, and when the authorities of the newly-founded Johns Hopkins University, at Baltimore, cast about them for some one to fill the chair of physics and become director of the physical laboratory, Rowland, with his already-recognized ability, and with the commendance which Maxwell's recognition of his talents gave, was chosen for the place. Prof. Rowland accepted the chair, which he still holds with credit to himself and with great honor to a university that he has since then done so much toward making the great seat of American learning, and the true home and sanctuary of science that we all know it to be. This was a year before the University actually opened, and the interval he spent in Europe, working in Berlin with Helmholtz. Here he investigated the effect of static electricity in motion, and proved that a moving charge has the effect of a current. While the energies of Prof. Rowland have been largely devoted to exhaustive researches into the nature and phenomena of electricity and magnetism, his work takes a broad sweep through pretty well the whole range of physics. His original work has been extensive, and many of the investigations made under his direction at Johns Hopkins are of world-wide celebrity, such, for example, as his determination, for the government, of the exact value of the ohm as the standard unit of resistance. To the public his name is probably even more familiar in connection with his large diffraction gratings, which are ruled by a method of his own directly on concave mirrors, the image of the solar spectrum being thus produced without the aid of lenses. In fact, the photographs of the spectrum obtained with the aid of these gratings far exceed anything else of the kind, and their exhibition before the National Academy of Sciences, in 1883, was one of the leading scientific events of the year.

In addition to developing the resources of the physical and electrical laboratories at Johns Hopkins, where an electrical testing bureau of great promise has also been lately established, Prof. Rowland, in some manner, continues to devote time to many other matters of importance. He is corresponding member for the British Association for the Advancement of Science, and of the Cambridge Philosophical Society, is one of the twelve foreign members of the Physical Society of London, foreign member of the Royal Society of Great Britain, and is a permanent member of the International Commission for Establishing Electrical Units. It is possibly by way of recreation that he has entered the ranks of "amateur" photographer, and has produced such exquisite specimens as those which have been published in Hopper's Magazine as illustrative of American skill in the use of the camera.

He married 14 June, 1890, Henrietta Harrison of Baltimore, Md.

[Revision of Sexton Family by EDWIN HUBBARD of West Meads, Conn.]

SEXTON (Saxton). This name is common in England, especially in Yorkshire. Rev. Peter Saxton (same person called Sexton, also) emigrated to Mass. Colony as early as 1630, and was the first minister of Scituate. Cotton Mather says he was from Yorkshire, and that he ret. to Eng. in his old age. A Thomas Sexton was at Boston early, and had son Thomas, b. 1647; Samuel, b. 1633, Joseph, b. 1656.

THOMAS B. SEXTON, Esq., now res. in Mexico, who has spent much time and money in collecting the records of his ancestry both in England and America, and to whose MS. we are much indebted for the following genealogy of the Windsor Sextons, says: "I have the date of embarkation of George and Richard from England, and have traced back in England to the man who fought in the celebrated siege of Limerick, receiving the grant of the town from Henry for his services, and who is buried in Limerick Cathedral, which earldom exists to-day. I have the engravings of the memorial brasses in the church which bear his name, coat-of-arms, etc. The records show a George and Richard who went to America, but with a discrepancy of ten years."

The Sextons of the Conn. Colony. On the 17th of July, 1635, RICHARD SEXTON embarked at London on the ship Blessing, Capt. John Lester, bound for New England. He was, as appears from the official register of persons allowed by the Government to embark for New England (Mass. Hist. Soc. Coll., viii, 3d Series, 270), only 14 years of age. Hinman says he was in Windsor as early as 1643. He m. 15 Apl., 1647, Sara COOK (16 Apl., 1646, O. C. R., and whom Stragg thinks was a sister of Nathaniel Cook). Richard Sexton d. 3 May, 1662; she d. 13 June, 1674. Children (O. C. R.):

FAM. 2. John<sup>2</sup> (Richard<sup>1</sup>), m. 30 July, 1677 (O. C. R.) Mary (dau. Luke HILL); contributed 1s. 3d. to Conn. Relief Fund for Poor of other Colonies, 1676 (O. C. R.); had (1) Mary, b. 4 May, 1678.

George, of Windsor and Westfield, was a contemporary of RICHARD of Windsor, and probably his brother. That he was not a son, appears from the settlement of the wid. of Richard.—Gen. Ct. Rec. The earliest mention thus far found of him is in Rec. of Deeds (i. 33) at Springfield, Mass., in a deed from Thomas Cowper to George Sexton, "now resident at Windsor," of lands at Warramoke river, 10 June, 1663. On the Windsor Records is the following: "John, the son of George Sexton, was born at Windsor, 26 May, 1673." The date of George Sexton's removal to Westfield, Mass., appears from the following entry in Springfield Records: "Jonathan Alford, aged 70, and John Fowler, aged 67, say that Ambrose Fowler and George Sexton, formerly of Westfield, now deceased, were possessed of land there above 16 years ago," etc., dated 10 Jan., 1717, which places the date of his removal at about 1671.

By a deed recorded at Springfield (Vol. 11, 73), George and Catherine Sexton convey land in Westfield to their sons Joseph and Benjamin, in consideration of the sum of £160, dated 25 Jan., 1687/8, and, by an instrument signed by George Sexton, Jr., "sometime of Westfield, but now of Newtown, on Long Island, son and heire to George Sexton of Westfield, lately deceased, consenting to the before mentioned writing made by my honored father" to my brothers Joseph and Benjamin, and dated 31 Oct., 1690, it appears that George Sexton, Sen'r, died between 1688 and 1690. Children:

FAM. 3. William Raymond<sup>1</sup> (Henry,<sup>6</sup> John,<sup>5</sup> John,<sup>4</sup> Jos.,<sup>3</sup> Capt. Jos.,<sup>2</sup> John,<sup>1</sup>), has had an unusually successful career, and it may be truthfully said of him that he never made an enemy nor committed an act inconsistent with his exalted ideas of manly honor and business integrity. He is known as one of the best engineers of the West, and prominently identified with the development and progress of Wisconsin, his adopted State, and, in fact, with that of the entire Northwest. He was educ. in W., and his first experience as a civil engineer was in 1814, as one of the Eng. Corps of the N. Y. & N. Haven R. R.; shortly after he was engaged on the Cheshire (N. H.) R. R., and from 1847-50 he was div. eng'r of the Rutland & Burlington R. R., in Vt.; from 1850-52 in the same position on the West. Vt. R. R., and chief engineer of the La Crosse & Milwaukee (Wis.) R. R. from 1853-66. The construction of this road (now part of the main line of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul R. R.) was entirely in Mr. Sill's hands, and involved several seemingly impossible engineering feats, which, however, were successfully accomplished. At the close of this work, Mr. S. retired from engineering and engaged in real estate, lumber, and log operations; but, 1881-83, he again took up his old profession, taking the entire charge of the Chippewa Valley & Lake Superior R. R. From 1880-'81 he was receiver for the closing up of the Black River Lumber Co.'s affairs, with assets of $250,000, and later acted as adm'r of a lumber estate of over half a million of dollars. He also settled a number of other large estates. From 1877-1881 he traveled, by carriage, many hundred miles in Dakota, locating for R. R. routes for the C., M. & St. Paul R. R., and over several of the routes of his selection railroads are now running. Since 1856 Mr. S. has sold for himself, and others interested with him, the lots now dwelt upon by the 5,000 laborers in La Crosse. He m. Mary Grace Edgar of St. Louis, Mo., 24 May, 1858, res. Yale Coll. 1852, attended lectures for a year in Yale Law School, and afterwards became a student in the law office of the late Gov. Rich. D. Hubbard at Hartford, was adm. to the bar, 1854, and has ever since continued in the active practice of his profession. For 36 yrs. he has been a Justice of the Peace; was for many yrs. a prosecuting Grand Juror and a side-judge of the Hartford City Court; and, from 1871-73, Recorder, or Judge of the same Ct.; has also served 3 yrs. in the H. Common Council, part of the time as an Alderman. During the Civil War, Mr. Sill was especially active in the Union cause, and it was in his office that the First Company of Conn. Vols. was formed. Until 1872 he had been an active and prominent Republican; but, in that year, under the lead of Horace Greeley, he became a Liberal Republican, believing that a more conciliatory policy should be pursued towards the South. In 1873 he was nominated for Lieut. Governor on the ticket headed by Chas. R. Ingersoll of New Haven, and was elected by a handsome majority; and re-elected to the same office in 1874-75-76. In 1882 Gov. Sill was elected to the Gen. Assembly as representative from Hartford, and was the Democratic nominee for Speaker of the House. In March, 1888, he was nominated by Pres. Cleveland as U. S. Dist. Atty. for the Dist. of Conn., and was confirmed by the Senate, and is still (Mch., 1892) serving as such. In commercial and financial circles he has always been prominent, and is identified with some of the most important financial and commercial concerns of Hartford and vicinity. He is noted for his success as a public speaker, not only upon the platform but also upon special occasions. Gov. Sill m. 18 Dec., 1861, at Rockville, Conn., Mary J. Preston, wid. of DeWitt C. SPERRY. [Data of early Sperry families (to 1750) furnished by Prof. DANIEL CADY EATON of Yale College, New Haven, Conn.]

Richard, of New Haven, 1643, sworn freeman, 1644, m. Dennis (—). It is a tradition in the fam. that Rich'd Sperry came to N. Haven as gardener or caretaker for the Earl of Warwick. It is certain that to him was granted a large tract of land known as "the farms," and still called Sperry's Farms, located on the W. side of West Rock, in what is now the town of Woodbridge. His descendants are still there and owning and occupying the land in this vicinity.

"At A Courte held the 2th of May 1648 N. H. Hist. Coll. Rec., p. 378, Richard Sperry was complained of for not coming to watch, but Mr. Goodier answered for him that when he was neare coming from the farms they wanted an oxe, the neeger said he was sicke & left in the woods, so he was faine to goe forth to seeke him least hee should be lost."

Richard Sperry's claim to history is that he was the courageous and faithful friend and protector of the Regicides, and their story is too well known to be repeated here. He died between 1693 and 1698. His will, dated 18 Apl., 1693, is to be found in N. H. Prob. Rec., Vol. II, pp. 230-1. His widow, Dennis Sperry, died prob. Feb. or Mch., 1707. Ch. :

6. Edla Elizabeth (M. D.), b. 5 June, 1843; d. at E. W. Hill, 5 Oct., 1880, attended boarding school at the Conn. Literary Institute at Southfield, Conn., studied medicine for three years in Philadelphia, receiving the degree of M. D. from the Woman's Medical College in that city with the Class of 1874. She spent the summer of '71 in the Woman's Hospital in Phila., and in the fall went to Paris to continue her preparation for the practice of medicine. In Jan., 1872, she succeeded in obtaining permission to enter Le Maternite, being the second American to enter where Dr. Emily Blackwell was the first. In a letter dated Paris, Jan. 14, 1872, she writes: "We are to enter the Maternity the 20th of this month. Our epistles for the next six months will be of the shortest. We anticipate a tough time dormitory chambers, onion soup, and on duty from 6 1/2 o'clock in the morning until 9 at night. The hospital has 1000 cases, more or less, per year. The Maternity is a city of itself. It has the appearance of a prison without having high stone walls, broken only by an occasional door. You enter through the porter's alley and find yourself in a great paved enclosure surrounded on all sides by the hospital buildings, which have an ancient, sleepy look, with their little sunken windows and 2188 gawking between the stones. The French doctors, clean old fellows, have a weakness for Americans, and especially for American feminine M.D.s; else we should have been obliged to wait until the beginning of the scholastic year.

July 1st. We happened to apply through the kindness of our good little teacher, Miss Bowden, to the very man who was surgeon in chief at the time Miss Blackwell was studying there; he had a lively remembrance of her abilities and handiwork. "Paris, France," she lost an eye; the best talent in Paris couldn't save it; she was obliged to leave the Maternity, but that did not prevent her studying. She applied to the College of Fine Arts for their unused subjects and dissected all winter with her son's eye. "Oh, but she was a woman with a head!" So he gave us a letter to the present surgeon in chief, who sent us to the director, whom he promised to see before us. We happened to get there first and found Monsieur le Directeur exceedingly obligate. The surgeon came while we were pleading, and by much gaining of the superiority of American students in general, and of Miss Blackwell in particular, succeeded in overcoming the difficulties. After this little lion in the path had sufficiently illustrated the dignity of his office, he gave us a most laughable proof that he was really pleased to book our names. He says, "You must submit to half an hour's examination—a detestation!" Miss Bowden says, "They write French very well at you will dictate slowly." "Oh, the most slow possible!" drawing out his syllables, (and with a wink) perhaps you had better accompany the ladies. Oh, yes, I think you had better come, too." I regard this as a sort of good bye letter before taking the veil. Students are allowed to go out six times a year, though we are anchored outside the wall to Miss Bowden, who promises to visit us and answer to any cry of distress. . . . Hospital living will be cheap—the actual figures of the circular put it at $140 a year. They all tell us that it will be very hard. Agreements are not used to such fare." The Director gives us the privilege of ordering anything we please, at extra cost, of course." After spending a year in Paris, Doctor Sperry returned home and immediately settled for practice in Pitts-burgh, Pa. She had surmounted many obstacles in her preparation for her life's work, and here again in the practice of her profession acceptance of the woman as a physician came slowly. Still, success came in full measure, and with it the knowledge that she must yield at last—a victim to the disease epithelioma. Of what our sister was, daughter and friend to us at home, I cannot trust myself to speak, but quote from the letter of one who knew her well after she began life as a physician. "She was the most remarkable woman I ever had the opportunity to meet. While she doubtless knew something of the difficulties that attended and overcame her in Pitts-burgh, she could be heartily wishing her success, kept her mind ever conversative, 'old tosy' region. Her conversation would be irresistible. No woman could be so good a medicine here, therefore no woman could do so. Many who met your sister in Massachusetts were surprised that any woman could have such a position and still be a lady—a person of taste and refinement. By their wise, prudent conduct, by their downright earnestness, and by the force of personal character, they commanded the respect of all and built up a practice that had it not been for Edith's illness, would have made them both wealthy. They were pioneers, and opened paths others have found easy to follow. Had not Edith come here and labored as she did, and had she not the noble woman that she was, women physicians would not have had the position they now have here. Rest assured that her life was not fruitless; it was rich in results for good. But, while this is so, it is but little consolation to you, her relatives, or to me, her friend. I am selfish enough to feel careless of the good of the public, if I could only have my friend."

STILES (Stalles, Stilles). The name is one of those surnames "which describe the nature or situation of the original bearer's residence" (Loose's English Surnames, p. 84), in this case designating a certain person living near a stile (steps or rising path). Thus, by use and in course of time, "William at [or near] the stile" became William Stile, etc.

The word stile is a modernized form of "stighle," the old Saxon word; and the Stiles family is of Anglo-Saxon origin, tracing back to that peninsula, now known as Jutland, which divides the North Sea, or German Ocean, from the Baltic Sea. In the northern part of this peninsula lived the warrior Jutes, probably akin to the Scandinavian tribes; in the southern part (which we now know as Holstein) dwelt the Sarons; and between these two tribes, in the very heart of the peninsula (the Sleswick of to-day) were the Engles, the most powerful of the three, and giving to the inhabitants of the whole country the name of Englismen. It was by successive invasions of these three closely related tribes (Jutes, Saxons, and Engles) that the eastern and southeastern parts of Britain were first permanently occupied and made England, commencing with the raid made about 449-450 A. D. by the Jutes under Hengest and Horsa upon what is now known as the County of Kent. And somewhere between this and 570 A. D., in some of the invasions by Saxons and Engles, which finally gave them the absolute control of Britain, came the ancestors of the Stiles race. The early seats of the family seem to have been in the southeastern corner of England, viz.: in the counties of Norfolk, Suffolk, Kent, Essex, Sussex, and Northampton. No well-defined proof of connection has yet been discovered between the English and the Connecticut families of the name.

As President Stiles was searching, in 1762, for some memoirs of the family, among others, he applied to one JOSYRNAX STILES of Windsor, Conn., born in 1687, son of HENRY STILES, born in 1629, who was brought from England by his father JOHN STILES, one of the four brothers who emigrated to New England in 1635.

This genealogy, which is confined almost exclusively to the Windsor Stiles families proper, is prepared by the historian of Old Windsor, Conn., and is condensed by him from an exhaustive Genealogy of the Stiles Family in England and America, which is now (1890) in press, in which work all these lines are fully carried down to the present day.

Stiles.

In Pres. Stiles' MS Itinerary (xii, 151-5), in Yale College Library, is a rude sketch of the above arms, with this memorandum, dated 4 Oct., 1785. "At My request Mrs. Grant procured from the Heraldry Office, London, my coat of arms emblazoned. I had, indeed, the same in 1751 [procured at the Heraldry Office by Mr. Elisha Lyman — H. R. S.], but I doubted my right to it, but informed Mrs. G. that my ancestors came from Millbrook, from Bedfordshire, 1635. She got a friend to trace it at the Heraldry Office to this coat of arms, and gave assurance that I need not think myself deceived, for they had ascertained my title to it."

An emblazoned copy of the same arms (differing only in the crest), presented to Pres. Stiles in 1789, by Copeland Stiles, Esq., of the Bermuda Family of Stiles, is also in possession of the President's gr.-gd.-daur., Mrs. KATE GANNETT WELLS of Boston, Mass.

In his hands he found several original papers, which I have transcribed. One of these documents appears to be an extract from the parish records of baptisms in Milbroke, Bedfordshire, England, procured by THOMAS STILES and sent to his brother HENRY in London, just before the embarkation of the family for America, and is as follows:

"HENRIE STILES was baptized the seven and twentie of November One Thousand, Five Hundred nintie three.

JOHN STILES was baptized the five and twentie of December One Thousand Five Hundred nintie five.

CHRISTOPHER STILES was baptized the eight and twentie of March, One Thousand Six Hundred.

FRANCIS STILES was baptized the first of Auguste one Thousand Six hundred and tow.

THOMAS STILES was baptized the seven day of Februarie One Thousand Six hundred and xii.

MARIE STILES was baptized xiii of Januarie One Thousand Six hundred and four.

ELIZABETH STILES was baptized the viii and twentie of December One Thousand Six hundred and seven.

"Brother, my hearty love remembered unto you all hoping to God you are in good health as I am at the wrighting hereof, and I would entreat you to send me Worde the next Returne of the Carrier when I shall come up and I am in Worke and I would stay as long as may be and I did ask Goodman Goddie for your cow but he will not deliver it me and so with my love to you all I rest your loving brother

THOMAS STILES And your Loving friend
William Hawkins.

Februarie the xv, 1634.

Probably this William Hawkins was the clerk of the parish, and that THOMAS STILES who signed with his mark, applied to him for the record of baptisms, and to write this letter for him. The letter is superscribed "To my Loving Friend HENRIE STILES at London give this with speed." This record was subsequently confirmed by the late James Savage in his Observings for New England Histories Mass. Hist. Soc. Coll., 3d Series, viii, 366, again by the author of this history, personally, in 1881, and again in 1884, under his direction, by an experienced genealogical searcher, whose examination added a few items of information, and enables us to state, that,

(1) The family above given were not of Bedfordshire origin — appearing upon the Milbroke registry in 1581 and disappearing therefrom with their emigration in 1635, a period of 54 years only.

(2) That the parents of this family were THOMAS STILES, a carpenter, and Maria, his wife, both of whom died in Milbroke, 1611, well in years.

(3) This Milbroke family of eight, of whom four sons and one daughter emigrated to America, was — at the time when our knowledge of it begins, Feb., 1635 — pretty well broken up. The parents had been dead some twenty years, and the sons, most of whom had followed their father's trade of carpentering, had sought their fortunes in London, where HENRY and FRANCIS had already become reputationally established as master carpenters and builders, and were freemen of that city. JOHN and CHRISTOPHER were also away from Milbroke, very possibly also at London. THOMAS, the youngest, and apparently an husbandman by occupation, was the only one left in Milbroke, as appears by the above letter and record to his brother Henry.

In London, MR. FRANCIS STILES, who, though the third in order of birth, seems to have been by far the most enterprising and energetic of the four brothers, had in some way attracted the attention of Sir Richard Saltoustaill, one of the most prominent of the new Patentees of Connecticut, and was selected by him as his steward or manager to precede him hither and to prepare the necessary houses, grounds, etc., against his arrival. In his own good fortune, he forgot not the interests of his family. His elder brother HENRY, then established in London, and JOHN, and THOMAS, who was "in worke" at Milbroke, and their sister JOYCE, were all included in his plans for a new home. The other brother, CHRISTOPHER, remained behind, and is not again heard of, except by a reference in the distribution of Henry Stiles's estate, 1651, to "he in England."

By 15 Feb., 1634/5, the preparations of the Saltoustaill party, under Mr. Francis Stiles's direction, were evidently very nearly completed, and they were awaiting orders to sail, for at this juncture Henry wrote up from London to his younger brother Thomas at Milbroke, asking him to procure from the parish registers the dates of births, etc., before given (p. 701, this vol.), prob. for the purposes of registration then required by the authorities of all who were allowed to leave the kingdom. [For other documentary evidence concerning their departure and arrival at Windsor, see pp. 43-47 and 736-740, Vol. I.] As the eldest and youngest brothers of this Milbroke Windsor family are not represented by any descendants, we dispose of their history first.

Henry, b. Milbroke, Eng., and bp. 27 Nov., 1593, adm. citizen of London, 2d Tuesday, Apl., 1632, carpenter; a. 42 at emigration; was the first person tried in Col. of Conn. for fault of selling a gun to the Indians, 26 Apl., 1636, was killed 3 Oct., 1651, a. 58, by the accidental discharge of a gun in the hands of Thomas (son of Matthew) Allyn of Windsor, and as trad. says, "on a training day" at Hartford. The Records of Particular Court (Vol. II, fol. 29), Dec., 1651, contain the proceedings of the "Grand Inquest," which bro't a verdict against Allyn, of "homicide by misadventure," and Allyn was fined £20 for his sinful neglect and careless carriages in the premises," and bound over for his good behavior for twelve months, and debarred from bearing arms for the same time. His father, Matthew Allyn, stood bail for him in sum of £10. Subsequently, as we learn from (fol. 57, same Vol.) the records of a Part. Ct., held Mch., 1653/4, an attempt was made to fasten the blame of this accidental death of Henry Stiles upon Witchcraft, and one Lydia Gilbert of W. was indicted, tried, condemned to death, and probably executed for the crime (see chapter on Witches, p. 444-459, Vol. I). Henry Stiles's estate, inventoried Dec., 1651, was £127, 17s. 6d.

Thomas, b. Milbroke, Eng., bp. 7 Feb., 1612; husbandman; indentured himself, 6 Mch., 1631, only ten days before sailing for America, as an apprentice to his brother Francis; received a lot in the earliest distribution of lands at W.; was one of the men certainly known to have formed a part of W.'s quota (30) for the Pequot expedition; was shot by an Indian arrow in the knot of his neckhandkerchief, without hurt, at the Fort Mystic fight, rem. some time before 1648 to Flushing, Long Island, then a colony of New Amsterdam, where, in January of that year, he seems to have joined some of the English settlers of that place in resisting the authorities in the matter of the settling of a new minister and the election of a new sheriff; and again in April, 1648, he pleads guilty to the charge of having personally assaulted the sheriff and resisted him in the exercise of his authority; and in 1664 he was found guilty of adultery. In 1673, when the Dutch re-took the country, he was one of the inhabitants of F. who took the oath of allegiance to the States General of New Netherland, and in 1685 the name of Margaret Stiles (one of his two daughters) is found among the patentees named in the new or confirmatory patent granted to the town of Flushing by the English Governor, Dongan. Of Thomas Stiles we have no further trace.

8. Joseph (Lieut.), d. unm. 4, 28 Aug., 1759, having lived always single under the shadow of an early bereavement. He had on 1714 an engagement of marriage with Dorothy Stoughton, the dau. of a near neighbor. The day of the wedding was fixed, his house fitted up in an expensive style unusual in those days, and all things betokened happiness ahead. Being invited to attend a gay party in E. W., he was very desirous that his affianced should go with him, to win his mother strenuously demurred, as they would have to cross the river in the night. He urged, and she consented. On their return from the party the boat sank in the river, and he attempted to swim ashore with her, and did support her until he lost consciousness. They were both taken up unconscious from the water, but her life had indeed fled. He never married, but kept house while he lived in very liberal style; he was hospitable and generous, making everything pleasant to his friends, especially to his young relations and neighbors, and when he died he gave part of his property for the use of schools in the town of Windsor, one of the earliest beginnings of the town's present school fund. His house stood a few rods north of the Chief Justice, Ellsworth place, and its foundation stones were plowed up in the Spring of 1838. On these premises stood the old cedar tree referred to on p. 421, Vol. I.

FAM. 6. Isaac<sup>4</sup> (Rev.) (John; John; John<sup>1</sup>), brought up in trade of a weaver until age of 20, "when he applied to learning, and under the tuition of the Rev. Timothy Edwards, the minister of [E.] Windsor, he made such proficiency as to enter Yale College at six weeks before the commencement of the year 1719." He grad. A B in 1722; M. A. in 1725, being the first of the name and blood that had a liberal education in America. He was a good classical scholar, especially in Latin; much addicted to the study of Oratory and the Bible all his life. His valedictory oration at the Examination of 1722 was a piece of elegant Latin. His son, the President, says of him: "He had a taste for polite writings, in prose and poetry, especially the latter. He delighted in the Spectator, Guardian, in Pope and Swift's works. He was sublimely fired with Dr. Watt's Lyricks, but, above all, with Milton and Young." After graduation he read some Divinity and preached awhile to a destitute church in Jersey; then kept school at Westfield, Mass., wh. he preached on probation and had a call to settle in the ministry, the Rev. Edw'd Taylor being superannuated, which he declined, as he also did a call to the ch. at Bolton, Conn., in May, 1723. January, 1724, he began to preach to the North Parish of New Haven (now North Haven), Conn., over which, 11 Nov., 1724, he was settled "with absolute unanimity."

His published works are: 1. A Prospect of the City of Jerusalem, in its Spiritual Building, Beauty, and Glory; the Election Sermon [from Ps. cxlvii, 2], 1742. New London, 1742; 16mo, pp. iii, 59. 2. A Looking Glass for Changelings; a reasonable caveat against meddling with them that are given to change, in a sermon preached at the Freeman's Meeting at New Haven, Apl. 11, 1743, by Isaac Stiles, A. M., pastor of the Church of Christ in North Haven; published at the desire and cost of a number of the hearers.—Job, xxxiv, 30: "That the hypocrite reign not, lest the people be ensnared." His *primum fortuna fidei mutata novavit. Nathan Whiting, to the Military Company under his Command in the Present Expedition for the Defence of the British Dominions in America. N. Haven, 1755, 16mo, pp. iii, 28.

Rev. Isaac Stiles was a plain, out-spoken preacher; if we may judge from the following: "Once on a time," during intermission on Sunday, he saw one of his congregation stealing his melons. In his afternoon sermon he referred to the taking in a manner somewhat personal. After treating of that particular sin (theft), said he, "no longer than this Lord's day noon (pointing to a person in the gallery), I saw you, John Johnson, thou son of Belial, thou child of the devil, enter my garden and steal my melons." Rather close preaching that, but characteristic of the times, I suppose. This anecdote has been handed down in the family from my boyhood.—Letter of Ezra Stiles, Esq. of N. Haven, Conn., 1856. His epitaph, written by his son, the President, gives a summary view of his history and character:

"This Monument is erected To the Memory of [The Rev. Isaac Stiles, A. M., who was born in Windsor, July 30, 1697. Received a liberal education at Yale College; Ordained to the Pastoral office in the Church of North Haven, November 11, 1724. Where he served in the ministry 36 years. And died May 14, 1769, aet. 63. Having a mind ennobled with Sublime & venerable conceptions] of the glories of the Most High, and the perfect order & Happiness of the Universe; Illuminated with Divine Views of the Economy of that part of it Under the Mediatorial Dominion of JESUS CHRIST Also Being intimately Acquainted with the Sacred Oracles: And having a natural gift of Eloquence. He preached the Gospel with Favour and Fidelity: A Friend to pure and undefiled Religion with a charitable benevolence to ALL MANKIND. Mors ubi vita est.

The sermon published at his death was entitled, The Righteous Perishing, and no Man laying it to Heart, illustrated; two occasional sermons, delivered at North Haven, June 1, 1769, soon after the death of the Rev. Isaac Stiles, late pastor of the church there; and in a time of mortality among them. Published at the desire of the bereaved family, and a number of hearers, to whom they are humbly dedicated. C., and was for a time tutor there; licensed to preach by the Windham County Assoc'n of Ministers, 12 Oct., 1736, and was ord. 27 July, 1737, pastor of the ch. in Woodstock, Conn. (then Mass.). Of this parish, the North or Muddy Brook Parish, now known as East Woodstock, he was pastor until his death, 25 July, 1783, a period of 46 yrs.; tho' after the installation of a colleague in 1780, rendered necessary by his failing health, he voluntarily relinquished the maintenance due from his people, and for which he felt that he was unable to render them an equivalent service. Yet, strange to say, this long period of pastoral service was — owing to differences of theological views between him and his parishioners, as well as to the difficulties arising from the fluctuating values of money and consequent trouble about his salary — an almost unintermitted warfare, terminating at last (1766) in a free fight in the meeting-house, in which Mr. Stiles was ejected from the pulpit and his adherents compelled to ask for a division of the original society, which was granted by the Assembly in the setting off of the North Parish, in October of that year, as a separate society, retaining the church edifice, while the new (or South) Society kept the church records, and both retained the title of the "First Church" of Woodstock. Rev. Abel Stiles is freely sketched by his nephew, Pres. Stiles, as "a man of little stature, a most passionate, impatient, and unhappy temper, full of fire, sarcasm, and satire, which he dealt unmercifully to all around him, especially to those who excited his resentment. He was a man of integrity, learning, and good sense and would have done much good if he could have governed his temper. He gathered an estate of above a thousand pounds sterling [£1,748], which was greater than ever a Stiles possessed."

Yet, notwithstanding the long strife between him and his people, which had so signally emphasized these defects in his character, it is evident that he largely enjoyed their respect. The following tribute paid to him, at his death, in the New London Gazette, 22 Aug., 1783, would probably have been accepted as correct and truthful, even by his late parochial antagonists: "In him uncommon strength of genius and superior capacity were refined and brightened by a learned education, by application his classic knowledge became extensive, his acquirements in natural and moral philosophy considerable, in divinity eminent. Diligent and critical in his researches into the holy scriptures, he was hereby furnished for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness, and singularly for prayer, in which he became wiser than all his teachers. As a preacher, his descriptions were clear, his admonitions weighty, his exhortations solemn, and both his prayers and discourses strikingly adapted to unexpected and incidental occasions. He proved himself the scribe well instructed unto the kingdom, apt to teach, instructive in conversation, the sincere, steady friend, parent, and husband; and although hasty in his natural temper, yet sensible of this constitutional defect, and frequently reflecting on himself with penitence and prayer, he showed the tender, compassionate, benevolent, good man."

A number of letters still preserved in Y. C. Library give ample evidence of the mingled sprightliness and pathos of his nature, his strong family affection, sincere piety, and sterling sense. He loved classical literature and all curious lore, and many of his letters are largely written in Latin, which he wrote freely, although not with the elegance of his brother, the Rev. Isaac, or his nephew, the Rev. Pres. Stiles. His only published works were, 1. A Sermon, preached at Rehoboth (in the Province of Massachusetts Bay), 14 May, 1766, at the ordination of the Rev. Mr. Ephraim Hyde, pastor of the First church in that town. By Abel Stiles, M.

A., and pastor of the First church in Woodstock. Providence, in New England; printed by Sarah Goddard & Co., 1767 (24 pp.). 2. Death God's Monitor to the Living; illustrated and improved, in a sermon [from Ihb. xi. 4] occasioned by the sudden death of Mr. Elisha Lyon, and delivered the Sabbath next after his death, 18 Oct., 1767. D. D. (Dart. & Nassau Hall); S. T. D. (Edinb. Univ.); LL. D. (Nassau-Hall); Counsellor of the Am. Philosophical Soc.; Fellow of the Am. Acad. of Arts and Sciences, Corres. Memb. Conn. Acad. Arts and Sciences; Corres. Memb. Mass. Hist. Soc.; Prof. of Eccl. Hist. and President of Yale College from 1772 to 1795.

The biography of this learned and useful man—justly esteemed as the most profound and accomplished scholar of his day in America—has been so frequently written * that, as it is not especially pertinent to this history, we shall not give it in extenso.† Suffice it to say that he began to study Latin at nine years, and at twelve was prepared to enter college, but, on account of his youth, was not admitted to Yale until in his fifteenth year, 1742; at the conclusion of his course, he delivered by appointment of the President (17 July, 1746), the Orosiopic Oration, received degree of A. B. same year, at age

* And especially from original sources, etc., in the Genealogy of the Stiles Family, to which reference has been made.

† The usual portraits of this illustrious grandson of Old Windsor represent him in his official wig and gown. The portraits given above have the merit of showing the real phenological development of the man, unadorned. The first, signed and dated in autograph, as above; and the second (date 1786), representing him in his ordinary study or home attire, are two similes of original pen and ink sketches executed by Mr. St. John of 19; in 1748 was appointed Butler to the College, and Feb. 1749, licensed to preach 30 May, 1749, by the New Haven Association, in Dec. 1750, pronounced a Latin Funeral Oration upon Gov. Law; and in 1752, also by appointment of the Faculty, delivered a Half-Century Oration (in Latin) at the College Commencement; in Nov., 1753, was adm. to the New Haven Bar and practiced until 1755, preaching occasionally also. His mind, at this time, was divided greatly between Law and Theology, and his health was far from strong. He had many calls to settle in the ministry, among them a strong one (1755) from the Episcopal Ch. at Stratford, Conn., urging him to take orders and become their rector, in place of the Rev. Dr. Samuel Johnson, who had recently taken the presidency of Kings (now Columbia) College in N. Y. city. This, however, he declined, the fact being that he was then struggling in his own mind with skepticism, and would not commit himself to the ministerial office until he had solved the doubts which were tormenting him. Meanwhile, he delivered at Y. C., in 1755, a Latin Oration in presence of and compliment to Doctor Benjamin Franklin, then on a visit to New Haven, received the same year a call from the Second Cong. Ch. in Newport, R. I., which he finally accepted; resigned the tutorship in Y. C. which he had held for five yrs., and was ord. at N. 22 Oct., 1755, at the age of 28. Here he found a new and wider field for all his mental activities, and his character and fame, both as a scholar, a divine, and a public-spirited earnest citizen, broadened out into a fame which was acknowledged in both hemispheres, and which brought him into communication with many illustrious men. When nearly 41 yrs. of age he commenced the study of Hebrew, and that was followed rapidly by the acquisition of Arabic, Syriac, and Armenian — all of which languages he read and wrote easily. His literary labors were immense; his activity for all sorts of knowledge insatiable, his industry unintermitting.* When difficulties arose between the colonies and the Mother Country, he threw himself with fervor into the advocacy of the patriot cause, with such fervor, indeed, that he became an object of suspicion and accusation to the British government. His foresight predicted the Am. Revolution and the union of the colonies into a republic. Obligated by the exigencies of the times to leave Newport, he removed, May, 1777, to Portsmouth, N. H., where he ministered for over a year to the First Cong. Church, and while there received from the Corporation of Yale College an election to the Presidency of Yale College, then vacant by the death of Pres. Daggett. This he finally accepted, and relinquishing his pastoral charge at Newport, 19 Mch., 1778, and setting forth with his family to New Haven, he was there inducted, 8 July, 1778, into the presidency of his revered Alma Mater. He took the position at an exceedingly critical time in its history, when, between the hostility aroused by the religious test act of 1753, the general want of confidence in the management of the college existing among the leading men in the State and Stiles' autograph endorsement. * Profile of Ezra Stiles, ac. 49, bare-headed. Taken by Henry Marchant, Esq., Jan'y 25, 1767. These are selected from a considerable number of Honeywood's sketches of the members of the Pres. Ch. as truly now in possession of Mrs. KATE GANNETT WELLS of Boston, Mass.

* Though Pres. Stiles' literary MS. are very voluminous and form a treasury of great value to subsequent historians and students, his published works were comparatively few, consisting of nine sermons and addresses in pamphlet form, and one vol. of 257 pp. 12mo. The History of the Free-Will Baptists, King Charles I.

legislature, and the jealousies which even then threatened the establishment of a rival institution, the usefulness and even the existence of Yale was seriously menaced. And in the words of Yale's historian, "the special claim of President Stiles on the gratitude of its alumni, is his success in bringing the college back into the line of its traditions, and to its historic place in harmony with the legislature and with all classes of people in the State. His character as a scholar gave the college reputation and dignity at home and abroad. He was an ardent patriot and devotedly attached to the college. He was a truly academic man, thoroughly imbued with the spirit of the place, and disposed to maintain all its traditions. No officer of the institution ever labored with more zeal for its prosperity." He died in office, 12 May, 1795. Pres. Stiles m. (1) 10 Feb., 1757, Elizabeth (dau. Col. - [These four aged ladies, Lucretia, Mrs. Julia Hale, Elizabeth, and Mary, formed a sisterly quartette rarely to be matched. Their quaint dwelling (the old Fyler house) at the southern end of Palizado Green was ever a Mecca to the pilgrim feet of any of the Stiles name, or kin; and, m.

deed, to all who loved to talk of Windsor's past. Louisa, the eldest, delighted in all that related to the genealogies and history of her native town. Mary, active, sarcastic, and humorous, though she always derided her sister's fondness for antiquities, was yet really as deeply imbued with the love of the past. John & Mrs. Hale were totally blind for many years before her death, yet always interested in these subjects, while Elihu, the youngest, was strong, alert, healthy, and cheerful, and so respected by all their neighbors, they were "Aunts" to all the children roundabout, who ran in and out with perfect confidence of a kindly welcome. Though they strayed not often or far from their own threshold, yet to them came all the news of the place, the courtesies of both old and young; and many who were comparatively strangers to the place sought their acquaintance and valued it exceedingly when found. Stiles' History and Genealogies of Ancient Windsor owed much of its inspiration and value to these old ladies; and the copy which constantly laid upon their "sitting-room" table beside the Bible was a much-thumbed volume, frequently consulted by strangers from afar who came to W. to trace their lineage, or to renew the associations of early youth. Blessed in the hearts of many who were thus indebted to them for hospitality and for information given, will ever be the memory of these sisters.]

In a journal kept by the Rev. Mr. Sharp, an Episcopalian clergyman in the State of New York, in Lord Cornbury's administration, dated 27 Jan., 1710, is this entry: "Baptized Isaac Stiles, the first male child born in the Colony of Connecticut, a man of 80 years." Hazard's Hist. Coll., Lord Cornbury's admin. (stratford) ended in 1709. Governor Hunter succeeded June, 1710, and in 1711 visited Connecticut and passed through Stratford. His chaplain preached and baptized there, and this was probably the occasion of Isaac Stiles' baptism. The date given above in Rev. Mr. Sharp's journal must be read 27 Jan., 1710-11, and if Isaac Stiles was the first born male child in the Colony, he must have been born in 1635, which would have made him 76 and not 80 years old at the time of his baptism. Hon. James Savage, the eminent genealogist of New England, takes this view in a MS. note entered in his copy of the first edition of the Stiles Genealogy, and adds: "Perhaps his [Isaac Stiles'] mental faculties in Jan., 1710-11, were infirm, so that he might not judge rightly of his own age, and the Rev. officiating priest was perhaps too ignorant of the history to correct his venerable catechumen's error."

[The FRANCIS STILES (the elder, Stratford, Conn.) line.]

"Mr." Francis, the ancestor of the most of the Woodbury and Stratford families of that name, was one of four brothers (children of Thomas and Maria Stiles, born in Milbroke, Bedfordshire, England, who emigrated to America and settled in Windsor, Conn., in 1635. He was baptized in Milbroke, 1 Aug., 1622, and for some time previous to his coming to America had been a master carpenter and citizen of London. Though the third in order of birth of the four brethren, he was by far the most enterprising and energetic in character; and it was through his influence and means, undoubtedly, that the family removed thither. In the stir of emigration which about this time pervaded all England he found his opportunity, in some way, to the notice of Sir Richard Saltonstall and the other gentlemen who were associated with him in a contemplated settlement upon the Connecticut River, under a patent recently obtained by them; and he was selected as steward, or manager, to precede them and prepare the necessary houses, grounds, etc., against their arrival. He sailed in a pinnace belonging to Sir Richard Saltonstall, on or about March 16, 1634-[5], in charge of a party of twenty two male adults, three adult females, and two children (three of the men being his brothers, Henry, John, and Thomas; one of the women being his own wife, and another the wife of his brother John, with her two children); and arrived in Boston harbor on the 16th of June. See p. 43, Vol. I, of this history.

In the first laying out and allotment of lands among the settlers of Windsor, the Stiles brothers, as was natural, seem to have been located near to one another: Francis Stiles upon the "Chief Justice Ellsworth place," which, indeed, seems to have been the first landing place of the Saltonstall party under his charge, and his brothers (see page 166, Vol. I; also Note to same in the Appendix of this volume) along the upland road, their lands extending from this road straight east to the river, and including both upland and meadow. It is probable that while the question of Sir Richard Saltonstall's rights as a proprietor were still in abeyance and awaiting the result of discussion between him and the Massachusetts Bay people, that "his servants" (as Francis Stiles' party were called) were allowed to locate where they had first landed, and that, as it gradually became evident that there was little chance of a satisfactory adjustment being arrived at, he sold to Francis Stiles a portion of the property, and that this sale, or transfer, was virtually "winked at" by the authorities in the apportionment of land and home lots at Windsor, — the Stiles party gradually becoming assimilated with and incorporated in the new community formed by the emigration from Dorchester. A portion of this land passed to Saltonstall, or his son Robert, and in his deed, dated Sept. 12, 1647, Francis Stiles is named as "late of Windsor, but now of Saybrook." Saltonstall was to pay him in installments, and a part of it in "a butt of sack at the [Connecticut] River's mouth." This transfer left Stiles not poor, but reduced in circumstances.

He was the only one of the four Stiles brothers to whom the title of "Mr." was ever given, and was undoubtedly, as Gov. Wolecott informed President Stiles, "a Man of great business." Such items as have come down in court records, etc., would seem to indicate that he was a man of quick, passionate nature (known to be somewhat of a family trait), stout in asserting his rights, and consequently a frequent figure in lawsuits, etc.*

* Court held at Hartford, March 28, 1637, "ordered that Mr. Francis Stiles shall teach Geo. Chapple, Thomas Coop and Thomas Barber, his servants, in the trade of a carpenter, according to his promise for there service of their terme behinde 4 days in a weeke onlie to sawe & slit their owne worke," &c. Coll. Records of Ct.

"Sept. 5th, 1639, Edward Hopkins comp't in behalfe of Mr. Jno. Woodcocke against Fr. Stiles, for breach of Covenants, in 500*l.* Mr. Stiles desires respite till the next Court in regard of witness in the Bay. Granted." Trumbull, Col. R. of Ct., Vol. I, p. 33

"Fr. Stiles, Contra Jno. Woodcocke in an action of debt for 2 hhd. malt and a hhd. of meale." Ibid., Vol. I, p. 33

These two Woodcock items probably connect with the following interesting matter from Lechford's MS. Note-Book, Trans. Am. Antiq. Soc., Vol. VII, 367, entitled "Answered petition and account of Barnabas Davis of Charlestown, Mass. about two years before Pequot War, was retained by Mr. William Woodcocke to come over into New England to look at his affairs, and went from Boston to Conn., where Francis Stiles was to build a house for Mr. Woodcock and impale 400 acres of land; "this was in the beginning of the plantation." When he arrived there, Stiles had gone to England, "having before built himself a sufficient house

Though we find him in 1647, "of Saybrook" and "of Stratford," apparently, in March, 1654, when he was complained of to the Court for peppering Nanauquante, an Indian of that place, "in his body, with swann shott, upon a Sabbath day," yet we cannot fix the exact date of his first removal from Windsor. Cuthren thinks that as "he is not named in any Stratford record, there seems to be no reason for thinking he ever came to that town," and, again, that he may "very likely have been an original patentee," though, "like others, he came not himself to dwell there." But Matthew Grant's Old Church Record gives, under date of Aug. 17, 1677, "what children have been born in Windsor from our beginning hitherto, so far as I am able to find out;" then, "being gone yet had children born here." Among these latter he names "Francis Stiles, 4 [children]." The probable birth-date of his fourth child, Benjamin, 1651, might show that he still resided in Windsor at that date. And Savage (N. E. Gen. Diet.) thinks that Francis Stiles died at Windsor not later than 1653. In the seating of the meeting-house at Windsor, also (as given in Stiles' Hist. and Genol. of Ancient Windsor, p. 178, Vol. I, Revised ed.), in January, 1659-60, among those "that have paid, and were placed in the long seats when they paid," we find the name of "Mr. Stiles, 3s.," and his brother John Stiles. (These were two rows of long seats, accommodating five persons to a seat, at 3s. apiece, or 6s. for a man and his wife.) And, as Francis was the only one of the in Connecticut." Davis returned to England by Mr. Hooker's advice, with letters from Mr. H. to Lord Say and to Mr. Woodcock, about Mr. Woodcock's affairs, "to the intent Stiles might be dealt withall in England," and as soon as he could get shipping he sailed for England, landed at Plymouth and delivered his letters. "Whereupon Francis Stiles was again dealt with to go on with Mr. Woodstock's plantation there, and sold him his said house, bearing him in hand that the Towne would accommodate Mr. W. with 400 acres of land thereunto. The said Stiles, within a month after, came away again for New England, and Mr. Woodcock retained Davis still to go in the next ship after him to see the said Stiles to perform the work." Davis embarked, reached Boston in the second year of the Pequot War (1637), and within ten days after his arrival went to Connecticut in a pinnace to follow out Mr. W.'s instructions, and delivered Mr. W.'s and Lord Say's letter to Mr. Hooker, "who was pleased to go with him from Mr. H.'s house [at Hartford] to the said Stiles' house [at Windsor], being six miles, about treating with the said Stiles, when it was dangerous traveling in regard of the Pequids," and "Mr. Warham and divers others, with Mr. Hooker, treating the cause, determined that Stiles had dealt ill with Mr. Woodcock, in not procuring the 400 acres of land to be laid to the said house and impaling it as he undertook." Davis was directed by Mr. Hooker to return to England and report to Lord Say and Mr. W. about Stiles's miscarriage of the business; but, meanwhile, while waiting for a chance to sail, was impressed as a soldier against the Pequots and could not get back to England until about a year after. About one and three-quarter years after he was sent over again to N. Eng. by Mr. John Woodcock to look after his (then deceased) brother William's estate there, "landed at Boston in June, 1639, and thereupon went to Conn., and there did recover of the said Stiles, a judgment of £300, which lies in Mr. Hopkins's hand in Connecticut, and took into custody the cattle and sold them," to the amount of £150. Lechford's legal opinion on this case is to be found, pages 396-401, in the volume referred to.

Stileses to whom the title of "Mr" was accorded, this identifies him as then living in Windsor; or, at least, as still having a right to a seat in the meeting-house there, which seat was prob. sold with the house which he sold in 1647 to Gilbert but it cannot be held as proof positive that Stiles was res. in W. in 1659-60. Mr Hayden gives him no standing in W. after 1647—See Appendix. Mr. Orent (Hist. Stratford, Conn.) suggests that he removed to Stratford about 1660, in corroboration of which he cites the following from the Stratford Records: "Caleb Nichols purchased of Mr Stills [Stiles evidently, since there were none of the name of Still in town] one house lot, one acre and a quarter, bounded with Mr. Fayrechild on the south, Isaac Nichols on the west, my own lot that was Francis Nichols' on the north, and the street on the East."* No date is given to this record of purchase, but being in the handwriting of Joseph Hawley, it must have been before 1666; and, from its relation to other records, was probably made about 1660. Mr Stiles' purchase of this property is not recorded, as far as can be ascertained. Besides this we have the fact that Robert Clark who married Francis Stiles' wid. gave to her three sons by Stiles, about fifty acres of land, which there is no record of his having purchased when he had several children of his own, indicating that he had received it from his wife (Stiles' widow), and that Stiles had resided in Stratford for several years and was the owner of considerable property at Oronoke, and a home lot.

Mr. Francis Stiles m. in Eng., his wife prob. being the "Joan Stiles, [aged] 35 years" who appears in the passenger list of the vessel which conveyed the Saltonstall party over. The exact date of Mr Stiles' death is unknown. His wid., in 1665, petitioned the General Court in regard to his est., afterwards m. Rob't Clark of Stratford Conn., made her will 5 June, 1677, and d. 1682, leaving her ppy. to her children by Stiles. (Ch. first four b. in Windsor);

STOUGHTON. A family of remote antiquity in County Surrey, Eng. In the reign of King Stephen (1135-54) Godwin de Stocton res. at Stocton in that Co. In the 8th yr. of King Edward I, Henry de Stocton received the royal license to enclose park 160 acres of land there. In the early part of the 16th century a younger branch of the family became seated at St. Johns, Co. Warwick, occupying a large and ancient mansion, originally the Hospital of St. John the Baptist. The elder branch continued at Stoughton, County Surrey, at Stoughton Place, the mansion being delightfully located in the centre of the manor. Its site, now a plowed field, is still known as "Stoughton Garden."

In the neighboring Church of Stoke, and at the east end of its northern aisle is Stoughton Chapel, containing many ancient monuments of the family, with quaint inscriptions, etc. When, in 1692, the chief line of Stoughtons of Stoughton became extinct by the death of Sir Lawrence, second Baronet of Stoughton, the succession was preserved by the younger branch at St. John's, Co. Warwick, until the death of Sir George Stoughton. The fortunes of the family appear to have been, at one time, identified with those of the Earl of Warwick, upon whose estates the Stoughton Manor was standing, as late as 1846. The arms of the Stoughton Family are: "Field, azure, a cross engrailed ermine; crest, a robin redbreast, ppr." These arms are pictured in Drake's Hist. Boston, Mass. For interesting items as to origin, etc., of, see A. Eng. Co. Hist. Reg.

isher, iii; also, Hist. Dorchester, Mass. There is extant a large folding pedigree of this English family of Stoughton, from the lithograph press of J. H. Bufford, Boston, Mass., and authenticated by the following endorsement: "The above-written Pedigree is extracted from the Records of the College of Arms, London, and examined therewith, this third day of May, 1856, by me, GEORGE HARRISON, Windsor Herald." This Pedigree was procured and published, as far as we can ascertain, by Mr. William Stoughton, referred to on p. 123 as compiler of a MS. S. General.

The first of the name in America were two brothers, Thomas and Israel Stoughton, who came to Dorchester, Mass., in the first voyage of the ship Mary and John, 1630. Judge JOHN A. STOUTON, in his work entitled Windsor Families (p. 117, note) is inclined to think that they were the sons of the Rev. JOHN STOUTON, D. D., curate of Aldermanbury parish,<sup>2</sup> London; and the fact that this reverend gentleman's widow, in 1619, published a volume of his sermons, dedicated to Robert, Earl of Warwick, would give some color to the supposition that he was of the Warwick branch of Stoughtons, and that, considering dates, etc., he might have been the father of the emigrant brothers. This, however, seems to me to be open to some doubt, since:

(1) We learn from tradition that the brothers, THOMAS and ISRAEL, were accompanied to New England by their father, THOMAS, SENIOR.

(2) In the English Pedigree, above referred to, we find a THOMAS (third son of Anthony of County Dorset) who married a Montpason of County Wilts, and who was about the right generation to be the father of our two emigrants, Thomas and Israel.

"Thomas the Elder," as he is designated on the Land Rec. of W., in a deed dated 11 July, 1645, makes over to "Thomas, my son," all his ppy. in W., except his "home, Lott, well Court and Court before the house, and the orchard," evidently reserved for his own use. Afterward T. S. the elder sold to T. S. the younger his dwelling-house and outhouses, orchard and courts, formerly exempted, "provided the said Thomas, the younger, shall afford convenient maintenance to the said Thomas, his father, and [ ] his mother in Law [that is the former wid. Huntington] during the time of their lives, and in case Mr. Stoughton dyes first, then to all [ ] his mother-in-law, the third part of a hundred pounds, which the said particulars were prized at, or to allow the said convenient maintenance with himself, During her Life, the Last being her Choyce provided she Live with the said Thomas, otherwise not," etc.

<sup>4</sup> Thomas Stoughton whom we are inclined to claim as the father of the Emigrant brothers, Thomas and Israel, had before him, as connecting link between the Eng. and Am. Stoughton families, had another brother, Thomas, who may have been (and very prob. was) this Rev. John Stoughton, D.D.

We come, thus, to the consideration of The American Family of Stoughtons. Our authorities for the following genealogies are (1) the Windsor Records, from which the 2-page genealogy was made up, which was published in the 2d edition of 1859, and which was, and is up to the date of the present edition, the only published genealogy of Stoughtons, in America, (2) a MS. volume of Stoughton genealogy, compiled by the late WILLIAM STOURGTON, Junior, Third of the Name, Thomas' Thomas' Son's Son, STOURGTON of Brockport, N. Y., this manuscript contains intrinsic evidences of having been based upon the printed genealogy above referred to in the first edition of Windsor; it was, however, much enlarged by Mr. S.'s correspondence, and having passed into the hands of another branch of the family, has received various additions from various hands, this volume belongs to Mr. JOHN P. STOUGHTON of Perkinsville, Vt., and contains the only copy of the English Pedigree (referred to, p. 722) which we have ever seen, (3) examinations of Probate Records, Land Records, etc., and especially the family papers and documents known as the Thomas Stoughton Papers and the John Stoughton Papers, by Miss RUTH T. SPERRY of East Windsor Hill, and also her extensive correspondence among the Stoughton kith and kin. The arrangement of the Stoughton Genealogy has been by the author of this history.

The founders of this family in the United States were, as we have already seen, two brothers, THOMAS and ISRAEL, who came over in 1630 or 1633 with their father, THOMAS, the Elder.

Israel (whose history deserves more space in our volume than we can well spare for it) quickly became a man of mark in the Massachusetts Colony. Evidently he was a man of superior intelligence and large property, he rec'd a grant of land at Dorchester, Apl., 1631, was adm. freeman in Nov., 1633, and chosen ensign of the Dorchester train band, then under command of Capt. John Mason, afterwards of Windsor. In the division of town lands, his share and that of Mr. Rossiter indicate that they were the largest adventures in the Dorchester plantation, in Nov., 1633, he was gr. permission by the town to erect a mill on the Neponset Falls to cut timber near by with which to erect it, and also to erect a fish weir near it. At the first Gen. Court of the Mass. Bay colonies, May, 1634, he sat as Deputy from Dorchester, and at that time obtained from the court a confirmation of all these grants from D., upon condition of supporting a horse bridge over the river, and of selling alewives at 5s. per 1,000, and at the mill which he then erected was ground the first corn ever ground by water in New England. At the same court he, with Mr. Henry Wolcott, were permitted to look out farms for themselves, probably without the limits of the D. plantation. In 1634 he was gr. 150 acres 8 or 9 miles up the Neponset, and (same year) was appointed, with Mr. Ludlow, a committee of audit on Gov. Winthrop's accounts. In Jan., 1635, having offended the Gov. and Assistants by publishing a pamphlet denying some of the powers which they claimed, he was disqualified from holding office for three years, and the D. people petitioned the Gen. Ct., but without success, for a remission of this sentence. It is evident that in 1635-6 he was much engaged in the proposed emigration to Conn., with some of those who did go thither, on account of their dissatisfaction with the then ruling powers of the Mass. Colony. But the Court, perhaps in consideration of his pronounced opposition to the Antinomian heresy, became more friendly to him, and in 1636 he was again a member. At the election of May, 1637, when the Vane party was defeated, Stoughton was chosen an Assistant, and so great was his popularity that he was elected by the General Court, over two other candidates, to command (as captain) the Mass. troops in the Expedition against the Pequots. His command did not arrive in time to participate with the Conn. troops, under his old commander, Capt. Mason, in the attack upon Mystic Fort, but by his pursuit of the flying foe, nearly extinguished the Pequot tribes. His triumphal return was dignified by the Mass. Colony by the proclamation of a day of special thanks-giving, and his town-rates were remitted for one year. In 1639 he served with Gov. Endicott in running the Old Colony line, and assisted in the same year in preparing a code of laws for the colony. In 1641 he served as commissioner to administer the government of New Hampshire, and being called, by his private affairs, to go to Eng., in 1643, became intimate with some of the Revolution, and determined to offer his services to the Revolutionary cause. Returning home for this purpose, he induced others to join in the undertaking, and was again in London in July, 1644, where he made his will, and served as Lieut. Col. under Rainsboro until his death at Lincoln, Eng., in 1645.

Col. Stoughton was a Puritan of the most rigid school, and with his wife were among the first signers of the Covenant of the D. Ch., 1636, perhaps occasionally officiated as an officer of the Church, for Litchford's Votes* mention him as assisting, in 1637, in administering a ch. censure at Dorchester. He was also a member of the Synod which tried Mrs. Ann Hutchinson in that year. He left a very large estate, comprising some 5,000 acres of land, besides other property, and by will left £300 to Harvard College, then in its infancy. He may be considered as the founder of Dorchester, "a lawmaker for the people, a champion of liberty, an opposer of usurpation, the victim of Power the idol of the people, a soldier in the wilds of America and in the army of Cromwell, a patron of literature, and an inveterate opponent of Popery."

He left three sons, of whom only one lived to manhood, viz. WILLIAM STOUGHTON, who was never married, but who was a most remarkable figure in the early history of Massachusetts, combining as he did the highest qualities of civilian, scholar, lawyer, and divine; attaining the highest distinction in all, being Lieut.-Governor, then Governor, also Chief Justice of the Superior Court of Massachusetts, who, dying July 7, 1701, at 70 yrs., gave generous gifts for the poor and for education to the towns and churches of D. and Milton, and, in addition to other generous gifts to Harvard College, established "Stoughton Hall" at that seat of learning.

Col. Israel Stoughton's will mentions three sons and two daughters, viz.: (1) Israel, who d. y. g.; (2) John, b. about 1638, lost at sea, 1647; (3) William, the Governor of Massachusetts, alluded to above; (4) Hannah, who m. James Minot in 1653; (5) Rebecca, b. Aug., 1641, m. a Taylor of Boston, and was the mother of Lieut. Gov. William Taylor.

Thomas, Sr. (Mr.), came from England to Dorchester, 1630 or '33, with his brother; emig. from D. to Windsor, prob. about 1640, where he rec'd grant of land from the town, which he deeded 17 July, 1645, to his s. Thomas. He m. (1) a Montpeson, who d. in Eng. (see reference to English Pedigree, p. 722, line 24); he m. (2) in Dorchester, Margaret Barrat (widow of Simon Huntington, who d. in 1633), on the passage over from Eng., and with whom Mr. Thomas Stoughton was a fellow passenger.†

Close examination (by L. H. STOUTON, in 1891), of Roxbury, Dorchester, and Cambridge Town, Land, and Prob. Rec., gives no items relative to THOMAS (the nu-

In Land Rec. in Secy of State's office, Hartford, Conn., is a letter (as copied by Miss R. F. Sperry), addressed by one Peter Bate, from Norwich, Eng., 29 Apl., 1650, to "Cazen Christopher Huntington," concerning family money affairs. In this mention is made of the death (in Aug. last) of the writer's father; of "my brother Huntington," of "my brother Stoughton." "The money is divided between" yourself, Simon, Thomas, and Ann, "the four children, as we believe, of Simon and Margaret Huntington." He also says "the parliament hath taken all the king's officers' places away from the main Eng. over, that I have hereupon lost 200 pounds a yr. by this Act, that now I am removing myself towards London, & so cannot by reason of these distractions think of sending you any Merchandizing Commodities."

merous rec. relative to Israel except that, in a "Map of the Meadows beyond the Neponset river and how y<sup>e</sup> is allotted out" (D. Town Acts) we find "St. Ancient Stoughton 6 a. this runs up between the highland & ne Rosier . . . Also, '85 El; Pomery 6 a.," and "M. Stoughton 16 a." This map probably made not later than 1637 (Frisk, N. Eng. Gen. Hist. Rev., June, 1881). Boundaries of lots, in a few instances, are fixed by the boundary of a Thomas Stoughton's lot, but no deed is recorded by him. Savage gives date of Thomas's admission as freeman, as found in D. Church Rec. In D. 1st Ch. Rec. is but one reference to a Thomas, apparently referring to a baptism, tho' this not clear from the context, viz.:

[175].

"Abigail Flower was baptised in Dorchester 30 of 5 mo 41, w<sup>ch</sup> daye m<sup>r</sup> mather Teacher of the church of christ there did predicate & cleare up the doctrine of pedo Baptisme against the Calumnious error of the AnaBaptists. Thomas Stoughton, Hill, Topley, Pears, Cornelius Willeyes.

"Anna Holman, John Dickerman, 29 7 mo 44; Anna Bellindge 20 8 mo 44, (to m<sup>r</sup> Penniman) Samuel Farnsworth 27 8 mo 44."

The three latter items are evidently records of marriages.

"Thomas Stoughton, Sen<sup>r</sup> died at W. 25 March, 1661." — W. Rec. et O. C. R.

Some of his descendants call Mr. Stoughton "Rev.," and say that he was a deposed minister, and there is a record in Mass. Col. Rec. of a Thomas S. being fined for solemnizing a marriage without proper authority, and we learn from researches made (1891) by Mr. FRANK FARNSWORTH SCARR the genealogist, that a Thomas Stoughton was presented with the living of Coggeshall Church, 12 Dec., 1600, and was deprived of the same, probably for non-conformity, in 1606.

Whether this Thomas, Sr., was the Rev. Thomas above referred to, and whether he and Rev. John (see p. 722), were brothers; or whether the Rev. JOHN of London, and "Ancient" Thomas of Dorchester and Windsor, and Col. ISRAEL of Dorchester, were sons of Thomas, Sr., we confess ourselves unable to decide. But our opinion is in favor of the latter; and we have accordingly so arranged our statement of his children — Ch. (b) in English:

the following record taken by Mr. F. F. STARR from the parish record of Coggeshall Church, prob. approx. 1602, February 18. — "Israel Stoughton, son of Thomas, then pastor of the parish, baptized."

THOMAS STOUGHTON [Senior] had gr. him, 11 Jan., 1610, from the Plantation, "his home lot, with meadow adjoining 52 acres, more or less, his meadow 25 acres in breadth next the River 39 Rod, next the upland 53 rod and a half, by vertue of exch. with Thos. Thomas, 17 July, 1645, and which we have erroneously attributed (p. 166, Vol. 1), to the latter as a grant to him from the town.

FAM. 2. THOMAS (Ancient, or Ensign) (Mr. Thos. / Rev. Thos. of Coggeshall), b. Eng.; came to D., 1630-33, and to Windsor, 1640, with his father; rec'd there by deed from his father, in 1645, the ppy. gr. to the latter by the town, except a home lot, etc.,

I see no reason why the term "Ensign," like any other title, may not have been used to designate more than one Thomas Stoughton. The man who was Ensign in Mass. may not have held that rank in a train band in Conn., but his son may, and in my opinion did. I do not hold that Ensign Thomas Stoughton was always one and the same man, any more than Thomas S. without a prefix. The Thomas S. whom Mary Farnsworth was, I believe, son of Mr. or Ens. Thos. S. of Dorchester in 1630, Windsor 1645, and gr'd s.

reserved. In consideration of this, he maintained his father and his step-mother until their deaths (see pp. 722, 725.) The following letter, written by his bro. Nathl., who was residing with him at the time of his death, and addressed to Lemuel Stoughton, his bro. at E. W., gives the details of this event:

LANSING, NEAR TROUSDALE, Dec. 6, 1767.

Dear Brother:

I must inform you of the melancholy death of my Brother John; he was crossing from Fort George, the 25th of November, with Hill. They set out from Fort George at 12 o'clock, and encountered a fierce wind until they got above the Narrows when they perceived a squall arising; my Brother ordered Hill to down sail, when he dnd, and then turned for an Island which was at a short distance, but before they could reach it, the boat filled with water, and perceiving they were sinking, they endeavored to make their escape, but my brother was entangled with a rope about his body with the sheets, as we suppose, and was drowned. Hill made his escape to the Island. We set out after them Saturday night, and found them on Sunday and brought them to the Landing. He was interred on Monday at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Hill had been upon the Island three days and four nights. One horse, six cows, and five sheep were saved. He had three waggon loads of goods on board, which he had brought from Albany which are the most of them lost, so far as we can find; he had likewise 15 bushels of corn and thirty bushels of turnips, which are all lost. Joseph, with his family, has returned to the Rock house. I should be glad if you would pay as a visit, if possible. My Sister desires the favour of one of our Sisters to come up and carry with her this winter. For further particulars enquire of Hill. My duty to Parents, love to Brothers and Sisters, and proper regards to all Friends. So I remain your loving Brother,

NATHAN STOUGHTON.

Capt. John Stoughton's study repose in the burying ground at Crown Pt. His silver-hilted sword and pistol are now in possession of JOHN A. STOUGHTON of East Hartford, who has also reproduced in his work on Wethersfield, a military map of Fort William Henry on Lake George, which (by comparison with the well preserved remains of this fortification and the vicinity) proves the capt. to have been an excellent surveyor. ch,—total, 198. Her gd.-s., Mr. JONAS P. STOURGTON of Perkinsville, Vt., resides (1892) in the house wh. her husband Nathaniel built, and of which he writes, "and he built better than he knew. The clapboards are shaved and put on with hand-wrought nails, the ground timbers are black ash and still sound. I had it leveled up and the S. end new clapboarded and painted—the original color—red. Some of the original windows are still good. The barn, which was built before the house and while they were living in the log-house, I have, in still good repair. There is a majestic elm, over 100 years old, near the house, which was saved from the original forest for a shade tree." The log house referred to was one built by Mr. S. when he located on his farm, and in which they lived for eight years before he erected the more substantial house now standing. Ch.

| 2. Edwin W. (Howe), b. Springfield, Vt., 1 May, 1838; at age of 18 went to New York City, and although he had scarcely had dining, his youth even the advantages of the ordinary New Eng. common school, he rapidly attained a place in the front rank of the legal profession in the metropolis. He devoted himself closely to the practice of law, and avoided politics, for which he had little taste. But, in 1857, he yielded to | the claims of the Administration and accepted the Russian Mission, remaining at St. Peter-burg nearly two years, when his health failed, and he was ordered by his physicians to try the Italian climate. His course as Minister to Russia received the endorsement of the Administration and the approval of the country at large. He continued in the practice of his profession until his death, 7 Jan., 1882. He was an acknowledged leader of the N. Y. City Bar, a man of fine physique, impressive and commanding manners and agreeable presence, and was noted in the Senior Bar for the princely entertainments which he gave to the judges or distinguished lawyers visiting the city. His genial disposition and lovely character drew to him a warm and devoted circle of friends. He m. 3 Mehl., 1855, Mary Fisk, who survives him; s. p.

- Dwell Morgan (Capt. Col.), b. 4 Feb., 1832; rem. to Findlay, Ohio, about 1850, was at first a mechanic; afterwards studied law; adm. to the bar and began practice; then the Civil War opened, and Mr. S. was among the first to volunteer; was chosen 1st Lieut. of a Co. in the 21st, and served three mos.; when the Reg't was reorganized for 3 years, he was Capt.; promoted Major, and after the battle of Stone River Lieut. Col., and was in com. of the Reg't at Chancellorsville. His Reg't was out of danger; he had no orders to advance, but, hearing firing on his left, and fearing that our forces at that point were being hard pressed, without orders he moved to the scene of conflict. He came in time; a few men under Col. Walker were holding an immense body of the enemy in check, and the arrival of Col. Stoughton with the invincible 21st contributed no little to the salvation of the army. Regardless of danger, he threw himself into the thickest of the fight, and in the afternoon he received the wound which resulted in his death. He was a splendid soldier; he knew not fear, lightedness, chivalrous, kind and considerate; he was the pride of his regiment. * John Stoughton of Lenox, Mass., 1 June, 1783, bought 60 acres, part of Timon's Wood lot, on east side of East street, and 28 Nov., 1786, 3 acres adjoining. On 11 March, 1792, he mortgaged 91.83 acres called "farm whereon I now live," and 24 Feb., 1796, quitclaimed to mortgagees. On 11 Jan., 1790, he bought 10 acres, east side of County Road, about 50 rods north of meeting house. This he mortgaged 5 Nov., 1792, and 22 Feb., 1796, quitclaimed to mortgagees. Dower is released in both mortgages by Act of Anne Stoughton. On 14 Feb., 1792, and after, he is described as "Esq." Gustavus Stoughton of Lenox, being part of Stoddard farm on East street, 6 June, 1787, and 26 Nov., 1787. He sold part of his 15 Dec., 1792, and another part 10 Jan., 1793, the latter deed being also signed by Polly Stoughton. See p. 177, *Ho. commendable industry and energy, secured an education at the common schools of E. W., and of Vernon, Conn.; fitted for college at East Hartford Acad. in 1831-5, ent. Yale Coll., 1836, grad. 1839. For two years after grad. he had charge of the E. H. Acad.; in 1841 ent. the Yale Divinity School, and while pursuing his theo. studies, also held the position of tutor in Y. C. with great fidelity and acceptance, in the autumn of 1841 was ord. over the Hollis Evang. (now Plymouth) Ch., Framingham, Mass.; and, in 1849, while holding this pastorate, became, with Dr. Edward Beecher and Rev. Joseph Haven, Jr., one of the three eds. of the Christian Register. In July, 1851, resigned both pastoral and editorial duties to become the Sec. of the Am. Education Soc.; in 1862 ren. his res. to West Newton, Mass.; he continued to hold this position through the union of the Soc. with the Soc. for Aiding Coll. Education at the West, until Aug., 1884, when he resigned and devoted himself mostly to literary work, as health permitted. He was a contrib. to the first and subseq. Nos. of the New Englander, to the Bibliotheca Sacra, and especially to the Cong. Quarterly. He was for many years the historiographer of the N. E. Gen. Hist. Society, and the author of seven elaborate biogs. for its Register, and of four in the four volumes of "Memorial Biographies" pub. by that Soc., as well as of a Geo. of the Desc. of Thos. Tarbox of Lynn, in Vol. XLII of the Register. In addition to these and numerous other contributions to periodical literature, he published the following vols., viz.: Winnic and Walter Stories, 1 vols. (Boston, 1860); When I was a Boy (1862); The Course, or the Position occupied in History by the Race of Adam (1864); Nineveh, or the Ruined City (1864); Typic and Alexandria, Chief Commercial Cities of the Early World (1865); Missionary Patriots, James H. and Edward M. D. (1886-7), 2 volumes, royal 8vo; he was the author, also, of the hist. sketches of E. and So. W., and of several other chapters in the Memorial Hist. of Hartford County Conn., 1881. He received the degree of D. D. in 1869, from Iowa College, and that of S. T. D., 1869, from Yale. He possessed a gentle, though finely strung and perhaps over-sensitive nature; was a man of convictions, firm, but not unbending, thoroughly independent in matters of religion and politics, his peculiarly benign countenance was the true index of a real benignity of character. He m. 4 June, 1845, Delia A. (daughter Asa and Susan Hobman) Waters of Millbury, Mass., who d. 7 Oct., 1883. Dr. T. died at W. Newton, Mass., 3 May, 1888, and is buried at Framingham, Mass.

THOMPSON. (Arranged by H. R. S. from materials collected by Miss Ruth Thompson Sperry of East Windsor Hill, Conn.)

Family traditions inform us that WILLIAM and MARGARET Thompson, with seven sons and two daughters, left Scotland for America about 1716, but, for some reason, tarried for a year in the Co. Derry, Ireland, where William, the father, died, enjoining his family, in his dying hours, to carry out their original plan of settling in America. Prob., abt. 1718, the widow and her children sailed in a vessel, one of a fleet of five, under command of Captain Temple, and bound for New England.* It is said that the voyage was so long that starvation seemed imminent, and a prayer-meeting was held on deck to pray for divine help. As the company arose from their knees, the dead body of a sheep, or some domestic animal, was seen floating upon the sea, was secured, and its flesh averted the danger until land was reached.

Closely connected with the Thompson family were the families of Harper and Spier; their farms and their graves adjoined, and it is believed that they came to America in the same ship and from the same part of Ireland. The family Bible brought by Margaret the Emigrant was accidentally burned; nor are many records of the family to be found either in town or church records, except in deeds and on tax-lists. On the Windsor Land Rec. the earliest mention of the Thompson name is in a deed describing a certain parcel of land sold by Captain Job Ellsworth to William, Samuel, and James Thompson, for the sum of £300 already paid in hand; said piece, or parcel, contained about 200 or 250 acres, in the town of Windsor, etc., bd. N. on Enf., E. on Jonathan Day's, S. on highway, West on John Wolcutt; deed recorded 8 Mch., 1730/1. The Rate-Book of Rev. Timothy Edwards, first pastor of 2d church of W., contains, in its index, the names of William, Samuel, and James Thompson. James paid a high rate, viz., 1727-1732, 11, 16, and 17 sh. "in Ric," and his brother Hugh is also referred to in these pages.

In an old account book mention is found of William, Samuel, Hugh, James, John, and Job Thompson, earliest date, 1724; also, of Joseph Harper; also of James Harper. We have referred to the close proximity of the Thompson and Spier graves. From W. Rec. we learn of "David, son of David Spier, now of Windsor, formerly of Coldrear [Coldrairie?] in the Co. of Londonderry." This may give us a clue to the place of the Thompson family's temporary residence in Ireland. There is also mention in an old account book (owned by Judge John A. Stoughton) of William Campbell, who appears to have been in some way connected with the Thompsons.

These Scotch emigrants (Thompsons, Harpers, Scotts, etc.) were called proud and exclusive. Certain it is that they married mostly among themselves, and prob. lived much among themselves during the earlier generations. The Americans, also, looked rather askance upon the new comers, calling them "Irish," a term they bitterly resented. The graves of the Thompsons are to be found mostly in Ellington and in East Windsor, on "Irish Row" (Melrose, Prior street, and Seantie).

The brave pioneer mother of the race is buried in Ellington; her tombstone bears the following: "Here lyes the | Body of M<sup>rs</sup> | MARGARET TOMSON | Who Died Jan<sup>y</sup> | the 20th A.D. 1752 | In the 87th Year | of Her Age." Ch. of Scotland;

That she was prob. the second and unmarried dau. of Margaret is proved from signatures in distribution of prop. of Joseph T., who d. 1740. Windsor P. & B. In account books, wills, and agreements, we find it distinctly stated that these men and women were brothers and sisters, with the exception of John, but there can be no doubt that he was a son to the rest; not has any (he been found to Wm. Thompson's heirs, who are listed in W. Ell. list. Poss. they ran to Stafford. R. T. S.)

Goshen, Conn.; a man of wealth and great public spirit and benevolence, owned slaves in his earlier life, whom he set free and gave them farms on his ppy. in what was then known as Connecticut Farms, Ohio; built houses for them and annually visited them to see after their welfare; s. Gibson, who rem. from New Haven about 1738, to Goshen, Conn., where he held many town offices and rep. the town five times in Gen. Assemb.; d. Hfd., May, 1759, and is buried in Centre Ch. burial yard; b. at Goshen, 17 Feb., 1806; fitted for college with Dr. Joseph Harvey, the minister of the parish; entered Union Coll., Sept., 1824, a. 18; grad. 1826 with honor; passed 1828-9 as principal of Amherst Acad.; ent. And. Theol. Sem., 1830, remaining, after the regular course, for an additional year of study, making a specialty of German and preparing some translations from that language which were noticed with special commendation; Sept., 1833, he was ord. pastor Cong. Ch., No. Bridgewater (now Brockton), Mass., and so won the esteem and affection of his large parish, that when (1834) he was invited to the recently-founded Theol. Institute of Conn., at E. W., the people were a unit against his leaving them; but, yielding to a strong sense of duty, he accepted the Chair of Biblical Literature; married, and his parents having also preceded him to E. W., was soon engaged in what proved to be his life-work of 55 years — the longest term of service in an institution of this kind on record in this country. Until the removal of the Instit. to Hartford (1865), his life was one of peculiar sacrifice and difficulty. The seminary lacked funds, students, and friends, so that his position implied not only scanty pecuniary support, but — what was more to a man of his sensibility — he was especially cut off from a natural and hearty sympathy with his former associates in study; and, most of all, the excessive and multifarious work thrown upon him ruined his scholarly ambitions and blighted the promise in that direction which, in his college and seminary days, his friends had considered quite unusual, and his native chivalry, as well as his high religious devotion, made him decline the urgent proposals which came to him to accept other more promising and congenial fields of labor.

During the last years of his life he had the satisfaction of seeing the seminary firmly estab., well endowed, filled with students, with fine buildings, numerous friends, and good prospects. Before his death he was unanimously recognized as the father of the institution, who, by his extraordinary sagacity, self-sacrifice, and weight of personal character, had carried it through a long and perilous struggle and placed it, at last, on a secure basis. He d. 27 Feb., 1889, at the age of 83, in full mental vigor and unimpaired bodily faculties, universally beloved and revered by his fellow-citizens, and by the numerous generations of students who had come under the influence of his rare character and experienced his singular sympathy and generous kindness. In person he was of medium height, with heavy dark hair tinged (very early) with gray; deep set, hazel eyes, with heavy brows; a high forehead; delicate mouth; and he was considered a man of decided beauty of feature and coloring. His manners were courtly and gracious. He had a keen sense of humor; was a very graceful and entertaining conversationalist; had quick perception and facile adaptation combined with transparent sincerity and the most perfect integrity. His disposition was ardent, impulsive, and impetuous; he was nervously and very highly strung, his imagination vivid, and his nature affectionate and tender. So unbounded was his generosity that it was a saying among his friends that his only regret, when he gave away his coat, was that he could not give his cloak also. The somewhat severe Puritan training of his youth, and his long habit of self-discipline resulted, during his later years, in a saintly calmness and an even, cheerful manner which concealed the depth of his nature from all but the very few who really understood him, and the great victory of his life. He habitually concealed his own trials and sorrows, and was ready to advise and sympathize with every one who came to him. He m. 25 Sept., 1831, Elizabeth W. Coll. 1880, Sept., 1858, to Nov., 1864, Principal of Peacham Acad., Vt.; 1864 until early in 1868 Principal of Cotting High School at Arlington, Mass.; Feb., 1868, elected Principal of Worcester (Mass.) Free Instit. of Industrial Science, which (after 8 mos. in Europe) he assisted in opening in Nov. of same yr. — Apl., 1882, he became Pres. of the Rose Polytechnic Instit. at Terre Haute, Ind., which position he held at time of his death, 17 Feb., 1885. — When he accepted the charge of the Worcester Free Institute he became a pioneer in a new form of education, viz: Technical Education, or, as he expressed it, "a system of training boys for the duties of an active life which is broader and brighter than the popular method of 'learning a trade,' and more simple and direct than the so-called 'liberal education.'" His investigations in Russian and German methods of technical training were most valuable and were admirably embodied not only in the schools which he moulded that at Worcester, but at the Rose Instit. and at the Miller School in Virginia, but in his published monographs.

In all his work he struck a key note which never afterwards sounded below the pitch. His ideas were well defined, clear, clean-cut, and positive; his manner executive and electric. He was born to direct, control, organize. His death was a serious loss to the cause of American education, but the foundations which he laid so broadly and solidly will ever remain to perpetuate his memory. His private and Christian character were what might have been expected from such a son of such parents.<sup>3</sup> He m. at E. W. Hill, 14 May, 1862, Maria (dau. VERSTILLE. [Contributed by Miss RUTH T. SPERRY of E. W. Hill.] "PETER VERSTILLE was Born 11 July, 1734, in y<sup>e</sup> Parish St. Luke, County of Middlesex, London, son to William Verstille, of said Parish, &c., &c."

The earliest date found among his papers is that of July 29, 1752, at which time begins a short acc't betw. Peter Verstille and John Head, both of whom appear to be then resident in Boston, Mass. There is no evidence extant that any other of the name of Verstille was in New England at this time, or that young Peter had any relative in this country. From a memorandum book containing the record of a visit to London, 1768-69, it would seem that his only relatives then living in England were (1) a sister, Ann, married to one John Olds, hosier, at No. 55 Shoreditch; (2) "Uncle William Ginger, Attorney, residing in Hemstead, or Bark Hemstead, and who had 3 sons, viz., William, Jr., Wittshir, and Richard"; (3) a "Cousin," Robert Field, cardmaker, at No. 33 Tooley St., below London Bridge, Southwark. In a letter addressed to William Henry Verstille, dated August, 1803, Ann Olds speaks of hearing once more the "Dear name of Verstille," and advises her nephew to make every inquiry for one Robert Field of Philadelphia, "a relation of mine and yours."

After the account of July, 1752, we find this minute: "Mr. John Bowdoin gave me his Desk, 27th Sept, 1752, which day he set out for Va." In 1753, Peter Verstille was in the employment of Mr. Samuel Hughes of Boston. In 1754 he was sent by that gentleman as a factor, or agent, to Portsmouth, N. H., where he exchanged almost every kind of manufactured article for the produce of the country, noticeably fish, barrel staves, and wool. He disposed of his goods much too readily, and, in consequence, was sharply reprimanded by Mr. H., who repeated his order that he should sell for cash and cash only. Whereupon Peter closed up his accounts with Mr. Hughes, not, however, until the latter had reminded him that he (H.) had been Verstille's "best friend and greatest benefactor." Mr. V. then traveled along the coast of Maine, selling goods on commission for a number of Boston merchants, especially for Benjamin Carnes.

November 30, 1756, he married Naomi Gedney (wid of Bartholomew Gedney, who d. Apl. or May, 1754), dau. of Samuel Ridgeway, a tailor in Boston. She was a woman of business talent and training. In those days, shops were generally connected with the dwellings of the tradesmen, and woman's duties were by no means confined to the kitchen. Mrs. Verstille was not, then, the only woman in Boston who tended shop, bought goods, paid bills, and even traveled to distant cities, on business rather than pleasure bent. As Mrs. Gedney, Mrs. Verstille, and Mrs. Perry—as wife and widow—Samuel Ridgeway's daughter kept her shop, and, in due course, served as administratrix on the estates of each of her three consorts.*

* We have said that she was the daughter of Samuel Ridgeway, and Naomi, his wife. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Marston of Boston are referred to in family letters as uncle and aunt. Her brothers were Samuel, Ebenezer, and Philip, and her sisters, Ann, who m. Nath'l Warner, a picture dealer in Boston and "a poor stick," as we are informed by letter; he left two s. (Abt. & Nath'l and Dan'l Warner), and a dau., Betsy, b. 25 Nov., 1762, who was adopted by her aunt, Mrs. Verstille, and, abt. 1781, m. one of two bros. (either Josiah or Wm. Gibbs) Willard, who came from Htbl. and became rich in Phila. Sam'l, Ridgeway, Jr., m. (1) a dau. of Col. Phillips of Boston, (2) —, of his ch., John m. (prob.) Catharine. —, settled N. Y. city, and left wid. and several ch., 2 dms., at least, viz., Catharine, who m. Charles Buck (related to, if not ancestor of, Dudley Buck, the musical composer), formerly of Wethersfield, 17 Meh., 1813; and "Sacc," who m. twice, and was last heard of as a rich wid., Mrs. Patten.

In the spring of 1761 Peter Verstelle removed his family from Boston and opened a shop in Wethersfield, Conn. He was aided in this undertaking by Thos. Bromfield of Boston, who suggested that Mr. V. settle at Hartford, he having been informed that the country back of H. "is vastly larger." Why Mr. V. decided in favor of Wethersfield, we do not know; but we find this paper which lacks a signature: "These may Certify whom it may concern, That, whereas M. Peter Verstelle, late of Boston, in the Province of the Massachusetts Bay, hath now informed us that on or about the 20th of April, last past, [he] set out from said Boston with his wife, Family, and Effects, and came into this Town with design to Settle and be an Inhabitant — here on or about the 27th of said April, and has hired him a Dwelling and a shop for the Carrying On his business, and, whereas it appears to us that he behaves well and is of an honest conversation, we do therefore approve of his Coming and Settling in this Town, and Consent that he be an Inhabitant among ——. Given under Our hands in Wethersfield, this 4th Day of June, 1761."

At this time Mr. Verstelle sold dry goods, hardware, groceries, boots and shoes, musical instruments, pictures, furniture, and jewelry, accepting in return much country produce, notably onions and pork. He was also engaged in trade with the W. Indies, and exp<sup>td</sup> onions, horses, rum, and flour. At first he met, as he thought, with ill success, not knowing, as he said, the nature of the people and their way of trading, which he conceived to be vastly different to that of Boston people. He overcame his early losses and discouragements, and in Oct., 1768, set sail for London to purchase and bring home a large bill of dry goods. During his absence Mrs. Verstelle was left to conduct her husband's business "in a small way," which she did much to his satisfaction, and in six months sold, mostly for cash, upwards of £700 worth of merchandise.

While Mr. Verstelle was in London negotiating for the purchase of goods "on credit," a resolution was entered into by many of the colonists, beginning at Boston, not to import, buy, or sell, and not to allow to be exposed for sale any British woolen goods. Therefore, when Mr. Verstelle returned to Wethersfield and had received his invoice of goods, which he began to unpack on Christmas Day, 1769, a body of men, to the number of about 300, with sticks, staves, etc., assembled before his house, and the leaders demanded that the obnoxious goods be given up to be "stored by the Committee." Mr. Verstelle was obliged to comply with this imperative request, although he believed the demand was caused mainly by the jealousy of other shopkeepers who had no such goods as his in their shops. "By which" he was enabled to "see how far Selfish and Sinister Views will extend, especially when private Interest is like to Suffer." Whatever his feelings, the good man—so he writes—"behaved with all the Calmness and Steadiness of mind as was possible, without the least sort of Revenge or Malignancy of Spirit." The affair was brought before the Honorable County Court, and Mr. Peter Verstelle humbly petitioned for the return of his goods. It was agreed that he should be treated on the Boston plan, and much correspondence passed between the Boston committee and the Hartford committee as to the exact steps to be taken. In a letter from Gilbert Dublois, himself one of the most prominent merchants in Boston, advising his friend, Peter Verstelle, how to conduct his suit for the recovery of his "stored" goods, it is given as a reason why the Hartford committee should take this case into especial consideration, that his (Verstelle's) "Sale far exceeds anything among us [i. e., merchants of Boston], or in any other province." Not until the following June, six months after they were first seized, were the obnoxious goods returned to Mr. Verstelle, and he was permitted to expose them for sale at a season most unfavorable for the profitable disposal of goods "which were principally of the Woolin and Winter kind."

Mr. Verstelle was, undoubtedly, as is shown in his letters and private "Memorandum Book," quite as patriotic as the best of his neighbors, but, to use his own words, "it was my Misfortune to Purchase a Number of Goods in London and to direct the Importation of the same into this Colony before I knew of, or there Actually was any Combination or Agreement among the Merchants here to the Contrary." Nor did he ever recover from the great "wrong and injury" done to both his business and his feelings by his jealous townsmen under the cloak of Patriotism. Therefore, in the spring of 1772, Mr. Verstelle returned with his family and effects to Boston, and carried on business at his old stand "at y<sup>e</sup> South East Corner of winter Street, Opposite Seven Star Lane, Near the governor's." His letters were often directed "at the sign of the fan." He still kept two shops in Connecticut—one at Hartford, under the care of Stephen Mears, opposite the North Meeting-house; the other at Enfield, in charge of one John Reynolds, who, in writing a letter to Mrs. Verstelle, signs himself "your kinsman." In Apl., 1775, at the beginning of the war of the Rev., Peter Verstelle fled from Boston and sought refuge in Htfd., and was congratulated by all his friends on his good fortune in having thus early escaped, with his family and effects, "from the prison of Boston." He "opened shop in the house of the Widow Sarah Edwards, lately occupied by Mr. Sam<sup>l</sup> Westcote at Hartford." We farther learn that his address was "North Side of the State house, In Hartford." Mr. Samuel Ridgway, Sen., the father of Mrs. Verstelle, died in Boston in the fall of 1773. His wid. and an unmarried dau., Ruth, accompanied Mr. Verstelle to Htfd. Here Mrs. Naomi Ridgway died, 17 July, 1775, aged 68, and was buried in the old cemetery back of the Center church. The Hartford Courant, published Tuesday, July 7, 1778, contains the following notice: "Yesterday fe'n-night departed this life, in the 45th year of his age, Mr. Peter Verstelle of this town, Merchant." The estate was not settled until after the close of the war, and then little or nothing remained for the heirs. Mrs. Naomi Verstelle m. (3) Rev. Joseph Perry pastor of the First ch. in E. W., 3 Meh., 1781. After his death, and in his old res. Mrs. Perry kept a small shop until her death, 30 Apl., 1785. The only child of Mr. Peter Verstelle and Naomi Ridgway (Gedney) Verstelle was

Mr. Strong of Hartford. His desire was to become an artist, and his taste was evidently not disapproved by his father, whose accounts make frequent mention of articles needed in drawing, purchased "for Billy." In a letter addressed to his brother-in-law, John Olds, London, he says: "You have a small minute for Sundrys for a Young beginner in Limning from whose Performances has discovered a Genius for that Polite Science, which if approved of you may send, the Person is your Kinsman William Verstelle."

"Billy" returned with his father to Htfd., in 1775, and in Jan., 1777, as Ensign William Verstelle, he was paying bounty to the American soldiers. WATSON. [This genealogy is much indebted for the accuracy of its revision to the late HENRY WATSON, Esq., of Northampton, Mass., and his brother, Dr. SERENO WATSON of Harvard College, both of whom have deceased since this work began to be printed; also by GEO. WATSON of E. W.]

Tradition claims that seven brothers of this name came to New Eng. together and sett. in Mass. and Conn. colonies. Hartford and Windsor rec. show a THOMAS and JOHN, 1644 (see Gen. of John Watson of Hartford, Conn., by Thomas Watson, Printed for the U. Q. Club, N. York, 1865). There was also a CALEB (s. of John), b. Roxbury, Mass., who was afterwards of Hartford, where he died 1725, having been a school teacher for 25 years, and sometimes called "Rev.," left a wid. Mary; d. s. p. Doreys, a sister of this Caleb, m. an Adams of Ipswich, Mass. "There is a vague trad.," says Mr. D. W. Patterson, "among the desc. both of Robert and John, that they, as well as Thomas, were bro's, and Caleb a relative; but we find no positive proof of it on record. The fact that the names of John, Thomas and Caleb have been cherished and transmitted among the posterity of Rob't and John, affords good ground for conjecture, but it is not conclusive evidence of relationship."

Robert, a bell-founder from London, Eng.;* was at Windsor, 1639-40; m. Mary (dau. John) Rockwell of W., 10 Dec., 1646 (O. C. R.); he d. 19 July, 1689; she d. 21 Aug., 1684. He was adm. memb. W. Ch., 22 Jan., 1649 (O. C. R.), which further states, under date of 1677, that "Robert Watson was taken into ch. fellowship in '49, and May 11, 1651, he was cast out and so stood till January 18, '56; betwixt his casting out and taking in he had Mary, John, and Samuel, which 3 ch. were bp. He practiced medicine two years. From 1856 to 1861 he was Secretary of the Planters' Insurance Company, Alabama, and during this period paid some attention to botany. For a few years after this he was engaged in literary work with Dr. Henry Barnard at Hartford. In 1867 he went to California via the Isthmus of Panama, and, after a while, became botanist of the surveying expedition of the fourth parallel, better known as the Clarence King expedition. The results of this work were elaborated in the herbarium of Professor Eaton of New Haven, and later in that of Professor Gray of Cambridge. From the year 1870 he had passed most of his time at Cambridge, in the study of North American flora, publishing many papers in the Proceedings of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences. Among his many important works printed separately may be mentioned his Index to North American Botany and the Botany of California, the latter in conjunction with Profs. Gray and Brewer. He carried to completion the work on American Mosses, begun by the late Lesquereux and James. On the death of Professor Gray, Dr. Watson became curator of the Univ. herbarium and continued the editing of the unfinished Synoptical Florist of North America. He was botanical editor of the earlier vols. of the Century Dictionary. His revision of Gray's Manual was issued two years ago.

He made several journeys of scientific interest, notably one to Guatemala, one to Europe, and one to the great Northwest, the latter in connection with the forest department of the census of 1880. He received the degree of Ph.D. from Iowa Univ., where he was at one time a tutor. He was a member of many scientific societies at home and abroad. He was one of the five oldest active collectors of Hary's, and continued in his characteristic energetic work up to the very moment of his illness. Although his work was carried on wholly at the herbarium, so that he was not brought personally in contact with the students, he always took an active interest in the college, and his flora was very familiar in the college yard, though he was known personally to but few.

The Montreal Canadian Gazette also says: "His connection with the valuable work of the principal herbarium of America made him widely and most favorably known as one of the best vegetable morphologists of the day. His death removes practically the last of the conservative school of botanists on this continent, and creates a gap which it will be found difficult to fill. The fact that he had for many years been looked to as our leading authority for the determination of species, will cause Canadian students to feel that their loss is hardly less than that of their fellow-workers in the United States."

And a correspondent at East Windsor Hill, where Dr. Watson's relatives reside, writes to the Hartford Times: "Mr. Watson's name will be handed down to posterity. There is a sweet lesson learned from the study of such a man's life. With all his talent, his was a most beautiful soul. He loved every spot of his native soil here in old Connecticut. He often came to the old homestead where he was reared." His fame was world-wide, and his name goes into history as a distinguished educ. at private school until age of 13, then for a year at a school at Hopkinton, N. H.; then at the academies at Amherst, Mass., and Walpole, N. H.; teaching, during these later years, a district and several writing schools. While at Amherst he experienced a religious conversion, and at one time seriously thought of fitting for the ministry. He early discovered great inventive genius and mechanical talent, and after attaining manhood was recognized as quite an inventor. In 1834, he commenced the study of dentistry at Boston, and when he entered upon its practice there, soon took high rank in his chosen profession, and his mechanical genius enabled him also to make valuable improvements in dental instruments and methods; and, in 1838, he published an Essay on Teeth. In 1841, being then a resident of Htfd., Conn., he gave to the world his wonderful discovery of Anesthesia, by which, by the use of nitrous oxide gas, surgery could be divested of pain. Though others afterward endeavored to wrest from him the merit of originality in this great discovery, their efforts have only served more surely to establish his claims. In 1846, he went to France, to lay his discovery before the medical profession of that country, and succeeded in convincing them of its value, as was evidenced by the fact that the Medical Society of Paris subsequently honored him with the honorary title of M.D. Returning in the spring of 1847 from his trip to Europe (the expenses of which were defrayed by the purchase of pictures which he imported and sold in the United States), he published a small pamphlet, A History of the Discovery of the Application of Nitrous Oxide Gas, Ether, and other Vapors to Surgical Operations, giving the results of his experiments, etc. At this time, also, he gave lectures on ornithology, a branch of natural history in which he was well versed. He died 24 Jan., 1818, in N. Y. city, where he had gone for the purpose of introducing anaesthetics in the hospitals and in dentistry. We feel that it is an honor to claim this modest and gifted scientist, the discoverer of the greatest boon to humanity of modern times, as a grandson of Ancient Windsor. WILLS, Solomon, captain of the volunteers from Tolland in 1775, was descended from Windsor ancestry, who were among the most respectable families in a town (Tolland) which peculiarly abounded in such. In the latter part of the war of 1755 he was a subaltern, and was the lieutenant commanding in the expedition to Havana in 1762. He was also a colonel of State troops, temporary levies, etc., in the Revolution. He was a justice of the peace twelve years, and, on the organization of Tolland county, was appointed one of the judges of the county court. Next to Col. Chapman, he was the most influential patriot of Tolland. He was elected to the Assembly twenty-two times, semi-annually. The absence, or expected absence, of Col. Wills and Col. Chapman in the army, seems to have prevented their election several times each. It ought also to be stated that Col. Wills, having acquired one or two unbecoming habits, or hard failings, in 1793, the Legislature then and thenceforward omitted him in making out the annual judicial appointments. He died in 1807, æ. 76.

WOLCOTT. This genealogy, as it appeared in our first edition, was compiled by us from W. Rev., a Wolcott Gen., pub. in the N. Eng. Gen. Register, and an article entitled "Henry Wolcott and His Children," pub. in the Congl. Quarterly. The present revision has been largely enriched from the pages of The Wolcott Memorial, compiled by the late Rev. Dr. SAMUEL WOLCOTT and privately printed (1881), in an edition limited to 300 copies. This great work is especially rich in Wolcott correspondence, etc., and also gives some branches of the family which do not come within the limits of a Windsor history; and while we have not followed out some of these lines (notably the Wetherfield line), we have been able to render some of the more distinctively Windsor lines more perfect. In this connection we desire to acknowledge the kindly interest of Hon. HENRY R. WOLCOTT of Denver, Col., and of ROGER WOLCOTT, Esq., of Boston, Mass., by whose courtesy this genealogy is so fully illustrated with the beautiful engravings made for the Family Memorial Volume. We are fully assured that many of our readers will appreciate their liberality in this matter as sincerely as we do. — H. R. S.

The name in Somersetshire is spelled Wol; in Shropshire, Lincolnshire, and elsewhere, Wal. The ancestral seat in England of the family which came to Windsor was at Tolland, Co. Somerset, though its branches reside in adjacent parishes. "Tolland," says H. G. SOMERBY, Esq., in a letter to the family, "is one of the most secluded, quiet, and picturesque villages in England. The Galdon Manor, which I sketched, and which is now occupied as a farm-house, must at one time have been very extensive, and the principal room very splendid for the period. It is still richly ornamented with carved work, etc. I visited the old Mill, which belonged to the Family at least 300 years ago. The house connected with it, now somewhat dilapidated, is the same which was then standing, and is a curious specimen of architecture, both internally and externally. The mill is also the original one, with a modern addition to one end. I made a sketch of the house and mill. The manor-house, which is still standing, is said to be of very great antiquity and extent. It was originally a splendid mansion, designed, as well for the purposes of defense against the excesses of a lawless age, as for the purposes of a permanent family residence. It is still richly ornamented with carved work, and if left to itself unassailed by the hand of violence, it will stand for ages. The familiar motto of the family arms, borrowed from the Roman poet, is still to be seen upon the walls of the manor-house, its bold words informing us that the family who have adopted it as their text of life were "accustomed to swear in the words of no master" (Nullius addictus jurare in verba magistri). It is alike in keeping with the independent spirit of an English gentleman of the middle ages and with that of a Puritan of the 17th Century, who spurned the dictation of ecclesiastical domination.

In relation to the Wolcott coat-of-arms, the following is of interest to those who are curious in matters of heraldry. John Wolcott of Wolcott, who lived in the time of Henry V, and who m. Matilda (dau. of Sir Richard Cornwell of Beresford, Kent, assumed for his arms the three chess rooks instead of the crow with the fleur-de-lis borne by his ancestors. It is recorded in the old family pedigree, that, "playinge at y<sup>e</sup> chesse with Henry y<sup>e</sup> Fiftthe, Kinge of Englande, he gave by in y<sup>e</sup> chesse matte with y<sup>e</sup> rouke, whereupone y<sup>e</sup> Kinge changed his coate of armes, which was y<sup>e</sup> crosse with flower de luces, and gave him y<sup>e</sup> rouke for a remembrance . . . . It seemes these Chess Rooks were first called Rooks for being in defence of all y<sup>e</sup> rest, and therefore they stande in y<sup>e</sup> uttermost corners of y<sup>e</sup> Chess board as Frontier Castles. Kinge Wm. y<sup>e</sup> Conqueror lost greate Lordships at this playe. And it might well become a Kinge, for therein are comprised all y<sup>e</sup> Stratagemes of Warr, or plotts of Civill State."—Herald's Visitation.

The register of the parish of Lydiard St. Laurence, adjoining that of Tolland, contains the following: "HENRY, y<sup>e</sup> sonne of John Wolcott, was baptized the VI of December, 1578"; and "HENRY Wolcott & Elizabeth Saunders [of Lydiard St. Laurence, b. 1584], were married 19 January, 1606."

Henry Wolcott, whose m. and bp. are thus recorded, was the emigrant to Windsor,

Henry Wolcott

Conn. As the second son of John Wolcott, of Galdon Manor, Tolland, Co. Somerset, Eng., he held a fair position among the landed gentry, and an estate which placed him in affluent circumstances. By the decease of his elder bro. Christopher, intestate, 1639, the family estate, including the manor-house, mill, etc., also came into his possession after his removal to America. The earlier portion of his life was passed in the quiet pursuit of a country squire's duties and responsibilities; but, becoming converted under the teaching of the Rev. John Elton, he soon found himself closely identified with the Puritan party in the religious and political revolution which then convulsed England. America presented to him, as to hundreds of others like-minded, the only asylum where civil and religious freedom could be found; and, though then past 52 years of age, and with children of an age when they most needed the social and educational advantages afforded in their native land,—to emigrate to a new home beyond the ocean. Taking their three sons, and leaving behind them for a time two daughters and their youngest son (a. 5), they joined the Warham and Maverick emigration of 1639, on the 19th of October in which yr.

MR HENRY WOLCOTT'S DEED CHEST, 1639
(Wolcott Family Memorial)

we find Henry Wolcott's name as one of the first list of freemen of Boston. He rem. from Dorchester to W. in 1635; in 1637 was elected a member of the lower house of the first Gen'l Assembly of Conn.; in 1640 stands first in a list of the inhabitants of W.; in 1643 was elected to the House of Magistrates (the present Senate) of Conn., and was annually re-elected during life, and was probably, after the pastor, the most distinguished citizen of W.; the younger ch. who had been left behind, rejoined the family between 1631 and 1641. He d. 30 May, 1655; his wid. d. on July 5, same year. His est. was inventoried at £764, 8s., 10d., not a large sum for one who is known to have sold about £8,000 worth of estate in Eng. preparatory to removing to America, and illustrating the remark of the historian Trumbull, that "many of the adventurers expended more, in making settlements in Conn., than all the lands and buildings were worth, after all the improvements which they had made upon them." Mrs. Wolcott was adm. to W. Ch. Apl., 1640; O. C. R. In the ancient "Family Chronologic" it is recorded of Henry Wolcott and his wife, that "these both dyed in hope and Ly buried under one Tomb in Windsor." Ch.

FAM. 4. Simon<sup>2</sup> (Mr.) (Henry<sup>1</sup>), adm. freeman, 1654; m. (1) 19 Meh., 1657, Joanna (da. Aaron Cook of W., b. 5 Aug., 1638, and d. 27 Apl. 1657, a. 18 yr.); (2) 17 Oct., 1661, Martha Pitkin (O. C. R.), described in W. Rec. as "late from England," who was sister of Wm. Pitkin, Esq., of E. Hfd.; Attorney-General and Treas. of the Colony.

Simon Wolcott

Tradition says: "This girl put the Colony in a commotion. If poss. she must be detained; the stock was too valuable to be parted with. It was a matter of general consultation what young man was good enough to be presented to Miss Pitkin. Simon Wolcott of Windsor was fixed upon; and, beyond expectation, succeeded in winning her hand; her brother favored the proposal, and the results showed that they had judged worthily." He purchased the house-lot of Goodman Whitehead, opp. the residence of his father, on the meadow road to Hartford. (See p. 171, Vol. I.) In Apl., 1761, he sold this place to the Saunders Brothers and rem. to Sims., where he had received a grant in 1667, and was one of a committee app. by the General Court to promote the settlement of that town; where he was permitted by the Gen. Ct. to "dispose" of liquors "until an ordinary be set up in Sims.;" was one of the two captains of Sims. militia app. 1673, and townsman 1674. He was obliged to leave Sims. in the Indian troubles of 1675-6, with much loss of ppy.; remained a few years in W., and in 1680 sett. on his land (200 acres) on east side of Conn. River, present So. W. In 1686 his est. was the largest on the W. Town List, but it was involved, and remained so until his death. On this list he was one of six having the prefix of "Mr." He d. 11 Sept., 1687; buried in W. Sam<sup>l</sup> Wolcott grad. Harv. Coll. 1698, first of the name to complete a college course in America. On day of his graduation was employed by the selectmen of W. to "keep a reading and writing and cyphering and grammar school for one full year," to be taught 3 mos. on the east and 9 on the west side of the Great River, the latter half on north and half on south side of the Rivulet. In 1701 he took his Master's deg. at Harv., his theme being an affirmation of the question, "La Predestination publico doceri, ac praeceptis debet?" In 1705 he was app. Capt. of Hfd. Co. Troop, in 1706 rep. W. in Gen'l Assen.; he d. 25 June, 1709. With him died the expectations of his father that through him, as the only surviving son and the eldest heir in the male line, the original English real estate would remain in the family; for, on the death of his father (Henry<sup>2</sup>) without male issue, it naturally reverted to the heirs of his two dms., Mrs. Allyn and Mrs. Chauncey, whose claim was contested by the heirs in the male line. The suit attracted much interest in the Colony, as it was supp. to involve the question which the Eng. law of primogeniture and entail should be recognized in this country. The Wolcott claim was disallowed, and the ppy. div. bet. the Allyns and Chaunceys. A decision wh. caused some unpleasantness in the fam., and Benjamin, s. of John W., proceeded to Eng. and took personal possession of the ppy., wh. caused difficulty there. The Wolcott demands, whether legal or not, were subsequently purchased by Col. Allyn; and so much of the estate as remained in poss. of his heirs in 1781 was disposed of, at that time by Henry Allyn, Esq., for £250 sterling.

To call to and keep in remembrance Mercy, and some remarkable Providences that have hitherto fallen to my share, in this weary pilgrimage of life.

* W. Rec. say Lieut. Henry m. Mrs. Hannah Porter, 11 Apr., 1727. If so, it was a 3d m. not noticed in Wolcott Mem.

“Windsor, June 10th, 1755.—Come, my soul, enter into thy chamber and shut the door. Consider seriously thy sun is setting and just in the horizon; yea, the shadows of the evening are already drawn over my heart, and my strength faileth. I am now far advanced in the 77th year of my age; the things of time and sense have lost their relish; I can no more hear the voice of singing men and singing women, and the things of God, if any there be that remain in thee, are ready to dye. Dost thou not want to have them strengthened? Canst thou not call the sun some degrees back upon thy dial, by calling to mind the days of old and the right hand of the Most High, to excite thy thankfulness and dependence upon Him? Is there nothing in these many stages of time and tasks of life that thou hast already passed, that may subserve hereunto? Come then, and with the sweet Psalmist of Israel (Psalm 103, 2) Forgett not all His benefits.

“I was the youngest child of my hon<sup>d</sup> father, M<sup>r</sup> Simon Wolcott, tender and beloved in the sight of my mother, M<sup>rs</sup> Martha Wolcott, and was born January 4th, 1679, at a time when my father's outward estate was at the lowest ebb.

“Some years before, he sold his estate on the west side of the River in Windsor, to settle on a farm at Sinsbury, to which he removed and laid out his money to promote his settlement there. But in the calamitous year for New England (1675) he was driven back to Windsor with his Family by the war; his buildings were burnt, and his farm at Sinsbury ruined by the Indians. He had left about 200 acres of meadow and uplands adjoining, on the east side of the River in Windsor, but durst not then settle upon it for fear of the enemy. His family was chargeable, the public taxes high, he was much in debt, and no house to put his head in but upon hire, and that upon high rents and difficult to be obtained.

“Soon after I was born, I was taken with a sore mouth which prevailed to that degree that my life was almost despaired of, but thro' Divine Goodness recovered, and thro' mercy this is the only threatening sickness I have had in my life.

“In the year 1680 my father settled on his own land on the east side of the River in Windsor. Everything was to begin; few families were settled there. We had neither Minister nor school, by which it hath come to pass that I never was a Scholar in any school a day in my life; my parents took care and pains to learn their children, and were successful with the rest, but not with me, by reason of my extreme dulness to learn.

“On September 11th, 1687, dyed my hon<sup>d</sup> father, in the 62<sup>d</sup> year of his age; it was just before the coming of Sir Edmund Andross. It was generally expected persecution for religion would soon ensue; it filled him with agonizing fears, and excited his fervent prayers for deliverance, but God took him away from the evil he feared to come. . . . We were now a widow and six fatherless children; the buildings unfinished, the land uncleared, the estate much in debt, but we never wanted.

“In the year 1689 my mother married with Daniel Clark, Esq. I went to live with her on the west side of the river. The times were now changed. King William and Queen Mary ascended the British throne. With them all fears of persecution vanished. Those that come after will never conceive the joy of New England at King William and Mary's coronation. The French Leviathan, that had long been King of the children of pride, was by our glorious monarch stopt in his career. In the year 1690 my mind turned to learning, and I soon learned to read English and write. In the year 1691 thro' the constant monitions of my father-in-law and my mother, I had many convictions of my sin and danger, but after a while they wore off. In 1694 I went an apprentice to a Clothier.

“The year 1697 was a year of great scarcity and mortality. The summer was cool and cloudy, not a month without a frost in it; the winter very long and severe. In February and March the snow was very high and hard. There was a great cry for bread. The cattle famished in the yards for want. The sickness was very distressing and mortal; those in health could scarcely get food, tend the sick, and bury the dead. Many suffered for want of firewood and tendance, but I was preserved in perfect health and never wanted. On January 2, 1699, I went into my own business. My hands were enabled to perform their enterprise and my labor was crowned with success."

[In an obituary notice which appeared in the Connecticut Courant of July 27 succeeding his death, we find this statement: "As soon as he left his master he was determined to have a liberal education if possible; but, on taking an inventory of his estate he found it not to amount to fifty pounds, so he was obliged to drop that design; but still unalterably determined not to remain in a state of ignorance, he borrowed such books as he could get, and read with attention, and having a retentive memory and solid natural judgment, what he read he retained, digested, and made his own. He got an acquaintance with men of the best abilities of his time, and by an indefatigable industry and application got acquaintance with most branches of literature; for he was an exact chronologer, well acquainted with history, ecclesiastical and civil, and geography, both ancient and modern, and with the Newtonian philosophy, and most of the curious discoveries of the moderns."]

"December 31, 1702, I married M<sup>rs</sup>. Sarah Drake, and went to live on my own land, on the east side of the river, in Windsor. My settlement here was all to begin, yet we lived joyfully together; our mutual affection made everything easie and delightfull; in a few years my buildings were up and my farm made profitable.

"In 1707 I took my first step to preferment, being this year chosen selectman for the town of Windsor.

"In the year 1709 I was chosen a Representative for that town in the General Assembly.

"In the year 1710 I was put on the Bench of Justices. This year, the 10th of August, dyed my kind father-in-law, Daniel Clark, Esq<sup>r</sup>, in the 86th year of his age, with which I was much affected, and soon after, these words came powerfully into my mind: What hope hath the hypocrite tho' he hath gained, when God taketh away his soul? and were followed with such convictions as I hope will never wear off.

"In 1711 I went in the expedition against Canada, Commissary of the Connecticut Stores. . . . In 1714 I was chosen into the Council. [In 1719 he notes the death of his mother, wid. of Dan<sup>l</sup> Clark, Esq.] In the year 1721 I was appointed Judge of the County Court. In the year 1732 I was appointed one of the Judges of the Superior Court.

"In March and April, 1733, my family was visited with sore sickness, my house, like a hospital, was full of sick persons; all in it were sick but myself, my wife, and one child. In this hurry and distress I was impressed, as if it had been a voice: 'Be still, and know that I am God'; this something laid my troubled mind, and disposed me humbly to wait the issue. I lost, in this sickness, a son and a servant; the rest, after a long time, recovered. . . .

"In the year 1741 I was chosen Deputy-Gov<sup>t</sup> of this Colony, and appointed Chief Judge of the Superior Court. In the year 1745 I led forth the Connecticut troops in the expedition against Cape Breton, and rec<sup>d</sup> a Commission from Gov<sup>r</sup> Shirley and Gov<sup>r</sup> Law for Major-General of the army. I was now in the 67th year of my age, and the oldest man in the army except the Rev<sup>d</sup> Mr. Moody [of York, Me., b. in 1676, a minister of some note in his day]. It was a tough business; Divine Providence appeared wonderfully in our favor and should forever be remembered with thankfulness, nor ought the firmness of our troops ever be forgotten. After we had continued the siege 49 days, the City of Louisburg was surrendered on Capitulation and we with great joyfulness entered it. [In this campaign Lieut. Gov. Wolcott not only commanded the Conn. troops, but was second in command of the united colonial forces under Gen. William Pepperrell (see pp. 245, 246, Vol. I.) Among the family papers is his daily journal, detailing the events of the siege, with copies of the official communications which passed between the respective commanders, letters from friends and high officials, etc. In this affair he enjoyed not only the sincere respect of all those officers, both regular and volunteer, with whom he came in contact, but became the hero of his own colony and town. Yet amid all this personal admiration and the delirium of joy which filled the public mind, his modesty proved equal to his valor; he wrote to Gov. Hamilton: "God gave us the victory; but, humanly speaking, it was because our soldiers were freeholders and freeholders' sons, and the men within the walls were mercenary troops."

"On the 21st of January, 1747, God took away the desire of my eyes with a stroke. My wife for a long time had been out of health, but constantly attended her business, and rose this morning not well, but took care of and went about the business of the family. About two hours after she was up she was taken with an apoplexy, and in a short time expired, in the 61st year of her age. Upon consideration of her life and sudden death my thoughts burst out in the following reflections:

This bird of Paradise upon the wings
Of flaming Seraphs mounts; she sits and sings
And sees as she is seen her God above,
And in the arms of Jesus drowns in love.
Me, ah! bereaved! me now left alone, —
My lovely turtle ever to benom; —
So long my morning star whose beaming eyes

Did never open but my day would rise;
So long my constant help to give relief,
Double my comfort and divide my grief;
So long my living wife, of thee bereaven;
I have no friend so good unless in Heaven;
I'll not forget thy kindness nor thy charms,
But love thee dead that long lay in my arms.

"In the year 1750 I was chosen Governor of the Colony of Connecticut [succeeding Gov. Jonathan Law, who died in office. He filled this position, as he had others before, to good acceptance, till the affair of the Spanish ship (Nov., 1752), which came in distress into New London harbor, and a considerable part of whose rich cargo being embezzled and wasted through the indolence, inadequateness, and inattention of the Spanish supercargo, the freemen were, by designing persons, made to believe that the loss was occasioned through Gov. Wolcott's fault, and that the people must be taxed for repayment. He writes] "the Council approved of what I had done, but the House of Representatives were terrify'd with it, and refused to approve it. Soon after the rising of the Assembly the land was filled with Reports that I had oppressed the Merchant and extorted vast sums out of his cargo, and occasioned his delay and loss of time; that I had laid my proceeding in the affair before the Assembly to be approved, but they refused to approve it; that then I pleaded with the Assembly to tax the Colony for damages, but could not prevail. . . . The people see the cargo wasted, and these reports so impress upon them, that at the election in May, 1754, I was dismiss'd by a great majority of voices.

"I had now the common fate of discarded favorites. Neither the Government or Assembly took any more notice of me than of a common porter. To redeem my name from infamy and the people from their fears, I moved to their Court to be examined on oath upon that affair, and submit to their judgment, but they shut their doors against me. Note :

If solid virtue don't support the frame,
They are but fools who hold on babbling fame;
Ransack thy conscience, there if thou'd find friends,
Leave it to time to make thy name amend.

"And having now done all I could, here I left it, supported with the sense of my own innocence, and it was not in vain; for the redemption of my name that I could not obtain from the Assembly, was in a short time rolled upon me. The Assembly's complaint was laid before the King in Council, when no fault was found in any one step of my conduct in it; yea, the merchant declared that I had been friendly and favorable to him, and in this manner went off with his cargo. A universal opinion prevailed that I was innocent and abused by these reports, and the reporters sunk into contempt. ["He retired with composed, unruffled grandeur, cheerfully referring it to Divine Providence to find means to evidence that innocence that he had an inward consciousness of; nor were his expectations disappointed, for we suppose every one is now fully convinced that that affair was well conducted, and that to a wonder, considering its suddenness and the little acquaintance this Colony had in affairs of this nature."]

"My conduct being thus searched to the bottom and thereby appearing to be without fraud or error, the freemen now looked upon the whole affair in a true light, and at the next election, in 1755, I had more than 2,500 of their voices, and did not want 200 more to put me in my former seat.

"Undoubtedly there were a few malicious persons that were from that principle active and furious in raising and fomenting these Reports; but the effects were from mere terror, and how can we blame the Assembly or the people acting under this passion?

"It is certain that terror may be and often is impressed as strongly from imagination only as from real danger, and when it is by any means imprest upon the mind, it is an irresistible passion. It made a whole herd run violently down a steep mountain into certain perdition. The Syrian army that in the days of King Joram fled from the walls of Samaria and left the camp as it was and cast away their garments and their vessels in the flight, tho' we may imagine that when they had rested and found they had neither seen an enemy nor lost a man, it raised many speculations among them, yet we have no reason to think they blamed themselves for making haste in the condition they had been under.

"Nor may we in these times, without offering violence to human nature, blame men that are much in the same condition for acting a like part. No; nor may we blame them for not staying to examine, for in such case men can think of nothing but now or never, and then 'tis best to cut and run, and yet we find that afterwards, if they find they had an old servant that dare stand the shock, and prudence to avert the danger, he will not fail of their esteem.

"I am now stript of all public trust and business, and yet have lost nothing that was my own, or that I had right to claim a continuance of, or anything that, considering my age, it is not better for me to be without than to have. May I not then take this as a benefit, and since my mother's Sons have discharged me from keeping their vineyard, apply myself more closely to the keeping of my own. There is work enough to be done in thankful acknowledgments of former favors, and living up to my duty for time to come. . . ."

Thus far the Governor. From other pens we learn that, "after his retirement from public life, he divided his time between devotion, reading (which was principally church history and the works of the most celebrated divines, especially Doct. Owen and Doct. Bates), agriculture, — his beloved employ — and the enjoyment of his friends.

"His body was strong and well-proportioned; his countenance and deportment peculiarly adapted to command reverence and esteem; his wit was ready and uncommonly bright; his method of reasoning (free from sophistry) was clear, nervous, and manly, as became a generous inquirer after truth. . . . He was a sincere, unfailing friend to every industrious, virtuous, honest man who acted his part well, whatever was his station in life. . . . But, above all, persons of true piety were his delight. . . . He was a wise legislator and an able statesman. While he was a judge, he held the balance of justice with a steady, unwavering hand; and, being far superior to venality, or the influence of personal, family, or party connections, he pronounced the law impartially on all the causes brought before him. As a governor, he appeared to advantage; this was his proper element, for he seemed originally formed to govern."*

Psalm cxii, 6; lviii, 11; Text, Deuteronomy xxxiv, 5, Hartford, Printed by Thomas Green), describes him as "a kind husband, a good father, and a compassionate master. He was a member of this church for a great many years; a steady professor of the Christian name, a constant and devout attendant on public worship and holy ordinances. He was one of your praying rulers; had the grace as well as the gift of prayer. He made the Bible his text, and had a particular affection for the peculiar doctrines of grace, rightly understood; and with a catholic spirit, embraced the Calvinistick scheme. . . . On making him a visit, in his last sickness, a few days before his death, I was surprised to find how well he retained his intellectuals, and glad to see how well he supported a firm trust in God, and dependence on Christ, and a good hope of glory. . . . Thus lived, thus died, and thus was buried that eminent servant of the Lord, whom we may, for his resemblance in many instances to the illustrious Hebrew in the text, call the Moses in our Israel."

Unfortunately there is extant no portrait of him, but his grandson, Gen. Roger Newberry (whose portrait will be found in this volume), was said strongly to resemble him. In one of the political squibs of the day he is referred to as "stately, smoking Roger." A dau. of Rev. Mr. Marsh of Wetherfield has preserved a pen-picture of him, as received from her mother, who had often seen him in childhood, at a time when he was at the height of his popularity. He was a frequent visitor at her father's house, and the costume of an officer under the royal government was too imposing to pass unnoticed. "Several times a week he rode out on horseback, and never appeared abroad but in full dress. He wore a suit of scarlet broadcloth. The coat was made with wide skirts, and trimmed down the whole length in front with gilt buttons and broad gilt vellum button-holes, two or three inches in length. The cuffs were large and deep, reaching nearly to the elbows, and were ornamented like the sides of the coat, as were also the pocket-lids, with gilt vellum button holes and buttons. The waistcoat had skirts and was richly embroidered. Ruffles at the bosom and over the hands; they were of lace. He had a flowing wig, and a three-cornered hat, with a cockade, and rode sternly and stately on a large black horse, whose tail swept the ground."

The Governor's house was in So. W., about a third of a mile N. of the present meeting house; a sketch of it appears opp. p. 773, Vol. I. He built it in 1704, the year of the attack on Deerfield, and the walls of the front room were covered with a painting descriptive of that scene. The house was taken down abt. 1770, and some of the panels which belonged to that apartment are preserved in the neighborhood as relics. He spent the last years of his life with his daughter, Mrs. Newberry, in Old Windsor, where he died 17 May, 1767, and was buried there with his fathers. His estate invent. £1,805, 4s. 2d. He desired to marry a lady in Durham, but she kept him waiting, hoping for an offer from a physician whom she preferred. Griswold, having an intimation of this state of affairs, at last pressed her for a decision. She hesitatingly answered that she "wished for more time." "Madam," said he, rising with decision, "I will give you your lifetime," and withdrew. She took her lifetime, and never married. This rebuff disinclined him ever to approach a lady again. He had been intimate from childhood with his second cousin, Ursula Wolcott, and a confiding affection grew up between them, but he never spoke his mind. At last Ursula, with that good sense and resolution which characterized her, took control of the situation. Meeting him about the house, she occasionally asked him, "What did you say, Cousin Matthew?" "Nothing," he answered. Finally, meeting him on the stairs, she asked, "What did you say, Cousin Matthew?" "Nothing," he answered. "It's time you do," she said. Then he did, and the result was a long and happy marriage. Ursula was not quite twenty at the time of her marriage. Gage, then in command of the British troops at Boston, and to ascertain, as far as possible, the designs of the British, with a view to an immediate preparation for the worst events—an interview in which they gained only specious and delusive promises of peace. In 1776 he was app. to the command of a regiment of militia, with which he joined the army then investing Boston, under Washington; from thence he proceeded (after the evacuation of that city by the British to New London, where he superintended the erection of fortifications, and, with his regiment, garrisoned Forts Trumbull and Griswold during the summer; app. in 1777 a Brig.-Gen., he served at and around Peekskill, N. FAM. 22. Oliver<sup>4</sup> (Gov.) (Gov. Roger,<sup>2</sup> Simon,<sup>2</sup> Henry<sup>1</sup>), grad. Y. C., 1747; "on leaving college, he received a commission as captain in the army, from Gov. George Clinton of New York, and immediately raised a company, at the head of which he marched to the defense of the Northern frontiers, where he served until the regiment to which he was attached was disbanded, in consequence of the peace of Aix-la-Chapelle. He then returned to Conn., and studied medicine under the direction of his brother, Dr. Alex. Wolcott, then a distinguished practitioner. Before he was established in practice, the county of Litchfield was organized, and he was app. the first sheriff of the county, in 1751. He settled in Litchfield, and rep. the town in Gen. Assemb. In year 1774 he was chosen an Assistant, or Councillor, to which station he was annually re-elected till 1786; at the same time he was also Chief Judge of the Ct. of Common Pleas for the Co., and for many years Judge of the Ct. of Probate for the Litchfield district. He served in the militia in every grade from Capt. to that of Maj. Gen. On all questions preliminary to the Revol. War, he was a firm advocate of the American cause.

At a town meeting in Litchfield, 17 Aug., 1774, to consider the resolutions of the Legislature on the subject of the Boston Port Bill, he presided and drew up the most eloquent preamble and resolutions then adopted. He was chosen a member of the Continental Congress, and in July, 1775, was appointed by that body one of the Commissioners of Indian Affairs for the Northern Department — a trust of great importance, its object being to induce the Indian natives to remain neutral during the war. While engaged in this business the controversies respecting the boundaries between Connecticut and Pennsylvania, and between New York and Vermont, menaced the tranquility of the colonies, and exposed them to the seductions of British partisans. His influence was exerted with great effect to compromise these disputes, and to unite the New England settlers in support of the American cause.

In January, 1776, he attended at Philadelphia the session of Congress at which the Declaration of Independence was adopted, of which he was one of the signers. During the session he returned to Connecticut, carrying with him from New York city the leaden statue of King George, which formerly stood in the Bowling Green, and which was converted into bullets under his direction. On the 15th of August he was appointed by Gov. Trumbull and the Committee of Safety to the command of fourteen regiments of the Connecticut militia, ordered to the defense of New York, which duty he performed until the force, amounting to more than 5,000 men, was subdivided into four brigades. In November, 1776, he resumed his seat in Congress, and accompanied that body to Baltimore during the winter of 1777. On the 17th of January he was appointed by the General Assembly as Brig.-General, and was constantly employed the ensuing summer in superintending detachments of militia and corresponding on military subjects. After detaching several thousand men to the assistance of Gen. Putnam on the North River, he headed a corps of between three and four hundred volunteers, who joined the Northern Army under Gen. Gates, and he commanded a brigade of militia and aided in reducing the British army under Burgoyne. From February to July, 1778, he attended Congress at Yorktown. In the summer of 1779, he was in the field at the head of a division of militia for the defense of the seacoast. During the severe winter of 1779-80 famine added its terrors to excessive cold; the colonies were well-nigh drained of resources, and amid this gloom and distress every dollar that could be spared from the maintenance of his family was by Gen. Wolcott expended in raising and supplying men, every blanket not in actual use was sent to the army and the sheets torn into bandages or cut into lint by the hands of his wife and daughters. From 1781 to 1783 he occasionally attended Congress. In 1784 and '85 he was one of the Commissioners of Indian Affairs for the Northern Department, and, in concert with Richard Butler and Arthur Lee, prescribed the terms of peace to the Six Nations of Indians. His military services, his known probity and judgment, his ardent attachment to the Rep. cause, and his social standing, all contributed to give him an extended influence, which was faithfully exerted for the public good.

In 1786 he was elected Lieutenant-Governor of Connecticut, and annually thereafter until he was chosen Governor. In November, 1787, he was chosen a member of the State Convention which adopted the Constitution of the United States. In November, 1789, he was appointed by the State, with Samuel H. Parsons and Jas. Davenport, to hold a treaty with the Wyandotte and other Indians for the extinguishment of their title to the Western Reserve of Connecticut. In the fall of 1796 he was chosen a Presidential Elector, in which capacity he voted for John Adams and Thomas Pinckney, and the same year was chosen Governor of Connecticut, which office he held until his death, at L., 1 Dec., 1797, on his 71st birthday.

In person Gov. Wolcott was tall, erect, and of dignified appearance and bearing; his complexion was dark; his features bore the impress of an iron will, and their general expression was sedate. Firm in his own opinion, he was ever deferent to the opinions of others. He was intimately acquainted with public law, and received from Yale College the honorary degree of LL. D. "Of unswerving integrity; of devoted patriotism; a sincere and humble Christian, untainted by bigotry or intolerance; exemplary in his private as well as his public relations; possessing natural abilities not brilliant but sound; of indefatigable industry and immovable resolution—the State had no truer servant and no better citizen."—*W. FAM. 41. Oliver<sup>5</sup> (Gov.) (Gov. Oliver,<sup>4</sup> Gov. Roger,<sup>3</sup> Simon,<sup>2</sup> Henry<sup>1</sup>), graduated from Yale College in 1778; during his college course (April, 1777) he volunteered in the militia to repel the invasion of Danbury, by Gov. Tryon, and was in a skirmish at Wilton. After graduation he commenced the study of law under Judge Reeve, at Litchfield; in November, 1779 (after the destruction of Fairfield and Norwalk), he attended his father to the coast as a volunteer aid; shortly after, accepted a quartermaster's commission in the service without relinquishing his professional studies. It was a period of great privation and distress, and the absence of his father in Congress threw upon him an almost insupportable burden in obtaining fuel and provisions for the family, and in keeping open the roads for the transportation of the army stores and ordnance under his charge. In January, 1781, at becoming of age, he was admitted to the bar, and, leaving home with only $3 in his pocket, accepted in Hartford a clerkship in the office of the Commissioner of Pay-Table, with a salary of about 50 cents a day, specie value. This year he took his M. A. in Yale College, his thesis being "An Agricultura in Republica Americana sit magis colenda quam Commercium." "His diligence in his employment had attracted the notice of the General Assembly, who, in January, 1782, unsolicited, appointed him one of the Commissioners, at that time the Central Board of Accounts. Being the junior member, it became a part of his duty to call upon the Council of Safety, at their almost daily sittings, and receive and execute their directions. Thus he became initiated into the system of conducting public affairs and personally known to many of the prominent characters in different departments. His labors from this time to the end of the war were incessant. In May, 1784, he was appointed a Commissioner for the State of Connecticut (with Oliver Ellsworth) to adjust and settle the accounts and claims of the State against the United States. This duty, continued through several years, was in addition to his regular occupation on the Board of Pay-Table. In May, 1788, this board was abolished, and the office of Comptroller of Public Accounts created, he was appointed Comptroller, and so served until the establishment of the National Treasury, September, 1789, when he was appointed Auditor in the U. S. Treasury Department; removed to New York, was appointed Comptroller of the Treasury, June, 1791, and, February, 1795, Secretary of the same, holding the office through the balance of Washington's and nearly the whole of John Adams' administrations. Resigning in December, 1800, he was appointed, February, 1801, Judge of the United States Circuit Court; afterwards entered business as merchant in New York; in 1817, returned to Litchfield, was elected Governor of Connecticut, and was re-elected ten years successively, closing his administration 1827.

The third representative of the W. family who had occupied the gubernatorial chair of Conn., he presented in himself the culmination of all their virtues and abilities, as man, citizen, and statesman. His literary tastes were highly cultivated, and from Brown Univ., the Coll. of N. J., and Yale, he received the honorary deg. of LL.D. He d. 1 June, 1833. In person he was of ordinary size, inclining with years to corpulence; head large, countenance strongly delineated and expressive; possessed much dignity of manner, a disposition sedate, but cheerful, and with some caustic humor. He m. 1 June, 1785, Elizabeth (only dau. of Capt. John) Stoughton, b. 27 Oct., 1767, d. 25 Sept., 1805. His wife, in personal appearance, gracefulness, and dignity, as well as in her solid virtues, was a fit helpmeet for so distinguished a husband. An anecdote of Mr. Tracy (U. S. Senator from Conn.), whose sarcasms were of old dreaded alike in the senate chamber and the drawing room, has been preserved, at once commemorative of Mrs. Wolcott's attractions and his own peculiar wit. Mr. Liston, the British Minister, who was thoroughly English in his ideas, on some occasion remarked to him: "Your country-woman, Mrs. Wolcott, would be admired, even at St. James." "Sir," retorted Senator Tracy, "she is admired, even on Litchfield Hill." Children:

FAM. 12. Frederick (Gov. Ol., Gov. Reg., Simon, Henry), grad. Yale Coll., 1786, with the first honors of his class; entered upon the practice of law, but was prevented by ill-health from its practice; app. Clerk of Court of Common Pleas, 1793; in 1798, Clerk of Superior Court of Litchfield Co., then first established; resigned these offices in 1836; in 1796 was appointed Judge of Prob., which he retained until his death; was Rep. in Gen. Assem. in 1808, one of Presidential Electors, elected to State Senate in 1810, and annually thereafter till 1823, being, during last six years of service, one of the Fellows of Yale Coll.; was associated with his bro. Oliver in the mfg. enterprise at Wolcottville, Conn., and in manuf. of woolen goods; also in the improvement of agriculture and introduction of improved breeds of stock, especially of Durham and Devon cattle, and of Merino sheep, of which they were importers. Twice the nomination of Governor was offered him, under circumstances which led to the belief that he would have been elected if he had consented to stand, but he felt that his health was inadequate to its cares and responsibilities. He was an accomplished helles lettres scholar, and kept up his acquaintance with the ancient classics. He was a gentleman of the old school, of the purest and most high-toned sentiment, distinguished alike for the benignity and delicacy of his feelings and the snavity of his manners. Retiring and modest, he was yet unwavering and inflexible in matters of principle, and he adorned his Christian profession by a blameless life.

FAM. 51. Samuel<sup>1</sup> (Rev. and D.D.) (*Elihu, Sam'l, Capt. Gideon, Lieut. Henry, Simon, Henry<sup>1</sup>), studied for coll. at E. W. Hill Acad. (then taught by Mr. William Strong, afterwards Assoc. Judge of the U. S. Supreme Ct.), grad. Y. C., 1833, and at Andover Theol. Sem., 1837; was for 2 years after in the office of the Am. Bd. of Commiss. for Foreign Missions, at Boston; was ord. at Boston, 13 Nov., 1839, and sailed for Syria, as a missionary, arriving at Beirut, April, 1840. That country was then in a troublous state; he was driven from Mount Lebanon by the dangers of civil strife, and in the spring of 1841 he rem. to Damascus, and in the summer opened a school for the Druses of Mt. Lebanon, at Deir el Khamr, but it was broken up by war between the Maronites and Druses, and his ppv. pillaged. The next winter was spent in Jerusalem, and in Palestine explorations in the interest of Biblical Geography, then beginning to attract public attention. The results of his explorations in the Holy Land were pub. in the Biblical Repository for 1842, the Bibliotheca Sacra in 1843, and in the American edition of Smith's Bible Dict. Another attempt to open a mission school at Mt. Lebanon was defeated by the disturbed condition of the country, and Mr. W. left Syria in Jan., and arrived in Boston in April, 1843. On 30th Aug. of same yr. he was installed pastor of the Longmeadow (Mass.) Congregational Church. In October, 1849, he was installed pastor over the Cong'l Ch. at Belchertown, Mass.; over the High Street Ch., Providence, R. I., 20 Apl., 1853; over the New Eng. Ch., at Chicago, Ill., 27 Sept., 1859, and over the Plymouth Ch., Cleveland, O., in 1862, from which he resigned in 1874, and became Sec'y of the Ohio Home Miss. Society — a position which he held for eight years. After closing his relations with this society, he res. in Cleveland for 2 years longer, and then settled at Longmeadow, Mass. From Marietta College, Ohio, he received the degree of S.T.D. in 1863.*

Rev. Dr. Wolcott was, early and late, engaged in reformatory movements and the furtherance of all interests of Congregationalism and Christian progress. He was pronounced against Slavery from his early manhood, his name appearing at the head of a number of Andover theol. students, who, in 1837, issued an anti-slavery manifesto. At a critical period of the Am. Tract Society's history, when it was trying to occupy a non-committal attitude upon the Slavery question, it was he who compelled the managers to define their position, by asking them to publish some selections from the Bible which he had arranged, and which, without comment, made clear the exceeding sinfulness of the oppression of man by man. At successive anniversaries of the society, he led the minority in attempts to reverse the false policy of the managers. He was also, in a temperance agitation between 1843 and 1853, one of the principal speakers at the conventions and mass meetings of the cause in New England. During the Civil War, Dr. W.'s patriotism was ardent and effective. He went South in the service of the U. S. Christian Commission, and was for some time with Gen. Hooker's command, where he contracted a fever and lay for several weeks in hospital.

Besides his Palestine researches, he was the author of many papers on various questions. His Election Sermon before the General Court of Mass., in 1853, was pub. His tracts on Congregationalism, and Conversion of a Lawyer, and Counsels to Young Converts, have had a very large circulation. Late in life he began to write hymns, some of which have been widely adopted into Collections, the favorite being the well-known missionary lyric, Christ for the World, We Sing! Several other of his hymns have been inspired by missionary zeal, and one of the most poetic, All Thy Realms in Midnight Shrouded, was written for Africa, "whose afflicted children," he felt, "are yet to be the choir leaders of the Millennial Church" — reminding one of Victor Hugo's prophecy that the center of civilization of the globe in the Golden Age will be in Africa.

His Wolcott Family Memorial (referred to in the prefatory note to this general), a most sumptuous specimen of the bookmaker's art, gives touching evidence of his deep interest in all that pertained to the history of "the fathers," not only of the exalted family to which he belonged, but of New England. He was active, laborious, indefatigable, thorough in research, and exhaustive in treatment. His extraordinary memory, his alert, keen, and ready intellect made him interesting in address, in debate, and in conversation. He never occupied a doubtful position, and was always to be relied upon for plain statement and vigorous argument. His occasional addresses were marked by a rare happiness of phrase.

Dr. Wolcott's personal appearance was striking, especially in his later years; his tall stature and stalwart frame, his abundant white hair and beard, his fresh complexion, and bright, observant eyes, drew attention wherever he appeared. His sons in Denver purchased one of the fine old places in Longmeadow, Mass., as a home for their parents, upon his retirement from active life, and erected for them a handsome house.

HENRY R. WOLCOTT was born at Longmeadow, Mass., and was educated at Providence, R. I., and in Cleveland, O., during the periods when his father ministered to Cong'l churches in those cities. After leaving school he held positions in two of the banks of Cleveland, Ohio. In 1861, when only 18 years old, he enlisted in a regiment of young men recruited in that city, for one hundred days' service on the defenses of Washington. When near the end of its term, the War Department requested, since it could not command, that the regiment be sent to the front as a reinforcement to Grant's decimated army, then before Petersburg; but, as most of the members objected, the scheme had to be abandoned. Nevertheless, Mr. Wolcott and four others, anxious to witness something of the more serious business of war, re-enlisted in the 113d Ohio, and remained with it until the regiment was sent home and discharged. In 1869, soon after the Union Pacific Railway had been built across the Rocky Mountains, he went to Colorado, passed up to the Gilpin County Gold Mines, and after a brief experience in mining, became bookkeeper and general accountant in the office of the Boston & Colorado Smelting Co. at Black Hawk. Here his native qualifications for the conduct of business affairs, which have promoted his success in life, were signally developed. Later he became a stockholder and assistant manager. In 1878 he was elected to the State Senate from Gilpin County for a term of four years, and at the session of 1881 was elected President of that body. When Prof. N. P. Hill became a Senator of the United States Mr. Wolcott took his place as acting manager of the smelting company. In 1888 he was made Chairman of the Colorado delegation elected to the Republican National Convention which met in Chicago and nominated Benjamin Harrison for the Presidency, and in the ensuing campaign wrought earnestly and effectively for his election. He was elected President of the Merchants National Bank of Denver, at the time of its organization, and was afterwards Vice-President of the First National Bank. In 1882 he was brought prominently forward as a candidate for Governor. Retiring from the management of the Boston & Colorado Smelting Works in 1887, he has since been continuously engaged in supervising the large real estate, smelting, and other property interests he has acquired in Colorado and Montana.

Mr. Wolcott's talents lie pre-eminently in the direction of large financial projects. By more than twenty years' experience in the busy whirlpool of Colorado, his comprehensive mind has been thoroughly cultivated for corporate and co-operative work on a large scale. Mr. Wolcott is unquestionably an excellent financier, connecting his prestige and capital with many large enterprises, managing their affairs ably and well, with the usual result of well-directed skill. He was a superior presiding officer in the State Senate, a serviceable legislator, universally esteemed and respected, and undoubtedly would have been a superior Chief Magistrate. He is methodical and orderly in all things. He has a very large circle of attached friends. Many young men owe their success in business to his timely assistance.

Hon. EDWARD OLIVER WOLCOTT, now (1893) represents the State of Colorado in the United States Senate. He was educated at the Norwich (Conn.) Academy, the Cleveland High Sch., Yale Coll., and Harv. Law Sch., where he grad. LL.B. in 1875, and afterwards continued his law studies in the office of C. T. & T. H. Russell, in Boston. At the age of 16, there being an urgent call for volunteers for the temporary defense of Washington, he enlisted in a company of young men recruited for that special duty; when the need passed these troops were discharged and Mr. Wolcott returned to his studies. In 1871 he went to Colorado, whither his elder brother had preceded him. Between these two brothers there has always been an unusual brotherly devotion. He first opened an office in Georgetown, Clear Creek Co. In 1876, he was elected to the office of prosecuting attorney for the First Judicial District, comprising the counties of Gilpin, Clear Creek, Jefferson, and Boulder. Thenceforward his rise at the bar, and in the political affairs of the State as a member of the Republican party, was almost phenomenally rapid. Some time before the expiration of his term he had accomplished the unprecedented feat of clearing the dockets of the district of all criminal cases that could be disposed of, and in a manner to compel the admiration of courts, lawyers, and juries. It was then that he first established his reputation for eloquence and force in both civil and criminal cases. Some of the speeches he then made were among the most effective he has ever delivered. It was the beginning of his celebrity as a speaker, the initial epoch as well of his political career. Having executed his mission as District Attorney to the entire satisfaction of all, save the class upon whom he had closed the doors of the State penitentiary, he resigned and in 1878 was elected to the State Senate and at once became the leading figure in that assembly. Here, again, his ability as an orator, no less than as a law-giver, became widely recognized through a number of masterly addresses. In 1879 he was made attorney of the Denver & Rio Grande Railway. This occasioned his removal from Georgetown to Denver, where, in addition to railway business, a large general practice came to him. In 1884, when the Rio Grande Company was reorganized he was elected General Counsel, a position which he still retains.

His first active engagement in State politics was in the legislative session of 1879, where his force as a speaker and director of combinations was eminently displayed, and where he exerted great influence in the election of Hon. N. P. Hill to the Senate of the United States. In 1889 the General Assembly was largely Republican in both branches; when a canvass of that party was held for the purpose of nominating a Senator, Mr. Wolcott was nominated on the first ballot, and when the Assembly met in joint convention, he was elected by a very large majority.

In personal appearance, manner, and bearing, Senator Wolcott is one of the most fascinating of men—Young, fresh, vigorous, with an extremely attractive face, broadly informed, an ardent lover of literature and art, polished and refined, a royal entertainer, he has won as great admiration in the higher society of the national capital by these qualities, as by his brilliancy in oratory. He is candid and outspoken, employing no subterfuges, going direct to the point, proceeding in all things upon the line of action that he conceives to be the right one, and calmly accepting the consequences. In most of his ruling characteristics he is so unlike other men of our day as to be wholly exceptional, a figure standing by itself, an extraordinary exemplification of traits that exert a wonderful influence upon all with whom he may be associated. In popular oratory he is unexcelled. His delivery is so rapid, fervent, and sweeping, as to compel the applause of his auditors—so charming in rhetorical finish, so fascinating as to enforce admiration. As a lawyer his practice is very large and lucrative. It is too early to review his career as a Senator and politician, for it is but recently entered upon. Yet much may be said, that although among the youngest in years and in experience of statesmanship, he has already risen to an enviable position in the United States Senate. His record thus far has been almost meteoric, filled with swiftly consummated aims that have led to fortune and eminent reputation.

It will be found, however, in the Mag. of American History, for March, 1881, pp. 234-237, and is from the pen of Mrs. Edward E. SALISBURY, herself a descendant. The list comprises no less than twelve governors, thirty-six high judges (most of them distinct from the governors), and a galaxy of men eminent in other professions.

As we are reading the proof of this page we learn that the gubernatorial prestige of the family of Wolcott has been maintained in this year of grace, 1892, by the election of ROGER WOLCOTT, Esq., of Boston, as Lieutenant-Governor of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. French Indian War Records. While these volumes having been passing through the press, a most interesting and valuable discovery of muster and pay-rolls of Connecticut troops in the French and Indian wars was made by Judge SHERMAN W. ADAMS, of Wethersfield. These valuable documents had been for three generations in the keeping of the Seymour family of Hartford; but, until the settlement of the estate of the late Governor Thomas H. Seymour (to whom these papers had descended from his grandfather Thomas S., associated with Chief-Justice Oliver Ellsworth on the Continental Pay-Table Committee), their whereabouts was unknown. They are now being carefully examined, repaired, and prepared for reference use, and will soon be placed among the archives of the State in the State Library; so that it will be possible for every Connecticut man to trace the military antecedents of his ancestors who served in the "old colonial" wars.

8. Simeon, b. E. W., 3 Feb.

Mrs. Erskine of New Britain, Conn., was Louise Abbe, and a lineal desc. of Capt. Thomas Abbe. Her father was Simeon, and had a brother named Westminster, and it is thought the two were sons of this Simeon whose birth is rec. (as above) on E. W. Rec. The Chase family of W. Pt., were also of the same line.

[The Northampton Prob. Recs., embracing for a time the town of Enfield, reveal but little concerning the family of Abbe. The will of Thomas Abbe, dated 12 Oct., 1720, mentions sons Thomas and John, daus. Sarah Geer and Tabitha Warner. The will of Obadiah Abbe (Vol. V, p. 121), mentions wife Sarah, "cousin Thomas Abby, son of my bro. Thomas Abby, dec'd"; sons of cousin [i. e., nephew] Thomas Abby, cousin [nephew?] John Abby, and his s. John Abby. Vol. V, p. 123.—13 Feb., 1732/3, Thos. Abbe of Enf. is app. guardian to Obadiah and Thomas Abbe of Enf., his sons and heirs of Obadiah Abbe of Enf., dec'd; idem, p. 124.—John Abby chooses his father, John, to be his guardian. Before the close of the War of the Rev., Obadiah Abbe grants the use of certain land in E. W. to Capt. Thomas Abbe (Land Rec., Vol. II). I have seen signatures which prove that this Capt. Thomas Abby of Enf. and E. W., of famous in prose and poetry, was one and the same man (see Htfd. Co. Mem. Hist., Vol. II, pp. 147, 148. also, Vol. I, p. 686-7 of this hist., and Vol. II, p. 285). The Hannah Abbe who m. the stonecutter made the mistake of what was originally "80th" year for 88th year; for this stone, I doubt not, marks the grave of Abigail Bissell, the second wife of Joseph Baker of Windsor and Tolland, who, in 1761, would have been in her 80th year. HOLKINS. From the Preston Ch. Rec. we learn that another ch. of George Halkins, John, was bp. 28 Oct., 1716.

Preston Ld. Rec. show that 15 Aug., 1694, Thos. and Peter Davison (Denison?) together with George Halkins, bought from Daniel Mason of Stonington, a tract of land "scituate and lying near to patchog cedar swamp." This swamp is in what is now the town of Griswold, and is between the Patchaug River and the State of Rhode Island. The deed does not say of what town the grantees were resident, but we incline to think they were then of Stonington. Later Geo. Halkins was made a freeman of Preston, and held the office of surveyor of highways. He moved to Coventry, and there some of his ch. are buried; he prob. d. there.

NATHAN D. BATES of Norwich, a descendant of the Hawkins fam., tells me the following, which he learned from a correspondence with Dr. T. LARKEN TURNER of Boston. Hau-clans, a family originally in Scotland [Wales?], derived its name from the fact that the clan was affected with an impediment in speech—hence, hau-clans. The chief of the clan was Richard. He having overcome an enemy, granted pardon, saying, "I am bold as a lion, but hold out the olive branch of peace." The family crest is a lion with an olive branch in his fore-paw. Descended from Rich'd was Thomas Hawkins, a sea captain, citizen of London, member of the London Artillery, who rem. to Boston, sett. in Dorchester; Capt. of the company of The Anc. and Hon. Art'y; m. Melitable——, and was father of a large fam.; he d. at sea. Some of his sons went to Portsmouth and to Providence, R. I., and from the R. I. lines descended the Hawkins, Hawkins, Halkins, Holkins, and Halkins of Rhode Island and Conn. We have not learned the name of the fath. of Geo. Halkins of Preston, but Mr. Bates is confident that this George Halkins was a descendant of Capt. Thomas of Dorchester.—R. T. S.

HOOKER. Page 400, line 32; for "Corwenhaven" read Corwenharen.

HUNTINGTON. Careful search in the first one or two vols. of W. Ld. Rec. would probably give more information concerning Simon, Thomas, and Christopher Huntington than we have printed in Vol. II. Time was too limited and other work too pressing, however, to permit this search.—R. T. S.

LEWIS, John (John<sup>1</sup>), m. 1675, Mary (dau. Michael, the emigr.) Humphrey. He came from Malden, Mass., was the son of John and Margaret Lewis of M. and Charlestown, and was b. 12 Sept., 1638. This was discovered by Mr. J. B. Lewis of Westfield, Mass., in a deed recorded in Middlesex Registry of Deeds at Cambridge, Mass., Vol. XII, p. 241. Oct. 2, 1695, John Lewis of Windsor, cordwainer, names "my brother Abraham Lewis of Rumney Marsh" (now Chelsea), and "our father, John Lewis of Malden, deceased."—Vol. X, p. 419. Aug. 21, 1695, a deed names Samuel Lewis of Malden, and John Melvin of Charlestown, sailor, attorney for my brother-in-law, John Lewis of Windsor, Abraham Lewis of Rumney Marsh, and Bryant Borden, who m. Elizabeth Lewis, and Samuel Penfield, who m. Mary Lewis, and Joseph Brabrook, who m. Sarah Lewis, Tryall Lewis, and Thomas Pratt, heirs of Isaac Lewis, all children and heirs of the late John Lewis, late of Malden, deceased. The latter m. (1) Margaret, who d. at Malden, 1649; (2) 10 Apl., 1650, Mary Brown; he had six children by each wife.

John of W., who m. Mary Humphrey, may have been m. before and had Mary, b. Lynn, Mass., 21 Feb., 1666, but I doubt it; more likely it was another John, for John Lewises were numerous in those days. The 6th ch. of John and Mary (Humphrey) L. was John, b. 1 Feb., 1693/4, and is the John who res. later at Turkey Hills (Simsbury), and was made Captain, 1736. He had long been confounded with another John who res. in Sims., and had several children. This John had Lucy, b. Sims., 5 Oct., 1727; Dorothy, b. 1733, m. Lemuel Bates; Simon, b. 1739, m. Deborah Thrall; and Hezekiah, b. 1743, m. Lydia Merriman. Hezekiah (gr-grandfather of the writer of this note), was adm'r on his father's estate and built the brick house in W. Suffield now owned by Mr. Knox, as proved by deeds dating from 1715 to present time.

Pages 605-6, Line of Isaac. It is believed that the father of Isaac, b. abt. 1733, was Isaac; but who was his father is not known. It is said by some of his descendants that the name was Josiah, but we do not find that any Josiah Phelps had a son Isaac in this generation. Search has been made in both town, church, and prob. records. The rec. as given may be correct; but there is no certainty back of Lieut. Isaac. W. land records read that Wm. Barber granted land to Isaac Phelps, Jr., 4 Aug., 1742, vol. 7, p. 263. The Town Rec. of Westfield read that Isaac Phelps d. Oct., 1753; the Prob. Rec. of N. read that the will of Isaac P., late of Wstfld, was prob. Apl., 1753. There is either some mistake in the public records, or there were two men of the same name and generation.—*R. T. PINNEY. [From documents furnished by Mr. W. W. PINNEY of Unionville, Conn., and Mrs. A. O. PINNEY of Colebrook, Conn., we add the following to the Pinney Genealogy.] This gives the date of Humphrey Pinney's arrival at Boston as 14 May, 1634, and of his removal to W. as abt., instead of 1635, as given on page 610. It also states that a copy of the original will of John, the gt. gt. -gd. father of Humphrey P. was found in Eng. by the late Mr. HENRY BRIGHT of Northampton; also that Humphrey retained for some time after his coming to America the lease of Montague Manor, Broadway, Eng., and received the rents therefrom; also that Humphrey Pinney's will is dated 3d June, 1682; witnessed by Abraham Randail and G. Hull, the testator making his mark G. By this will he gave one-third of his land "over the Great River" to his s. Samuel, and 5 acres more next to Sarah Gaylord; to his s. John two-thirds of his lots on west side the river; to his gd.-dau. Sarah, dau. of his s. Nathaniel, £7; to his (H. P.'s) three daus., Mary, Sarah, and Abigail, 5s each, one year after his death; to John and Samuel, each, 2 years after death of his wife, —; to Isaac, the remainder; to s. of Nathl, 2 yrs. after his death, £10. This doc. also says that H. P.'s dau. Mary m. (2) Daniel Adams.

At a special town meeting of the Town of Windsor it was voted to give my gt. gt. -grandfather, Captain Abraham Pinney, a tract of land in what is now a part of Bloomfield, Conn., standing at a point a little south of the old place occupied by Rockwell Hoskins, running east one mile, then north across (Little River) Farmington River two miles; then west one mile, then south across (Little River) Farmington River to place of beginning; provided he would build a house and cultivate a certain number of acres of land, which he did; the cellar is still in plain view, the house having been removed a few years ago.

My gt. -grandfather, Lieut. Abraham, built himself a house about one-half a mile south of the house of Rockwell Hoskins; that was the most elegant house in those parts, being a large two story and attic, well finished inside, having the front rooms paneled from top to bottom, with a fine old stair way in the front hall; and a large buffet stood in the front parlor, now in my possession. All the hinges, nails, and iron used was made in the Old Newgate Prison, in Copper Hill, Granby, Conn. This house is still standing, in fair repair. — Letter of W. W. Penney.

The following receipt given to Hester Higley, third wife of Lieut. Abraham, is interesting as showing the manner in which citizens not of "the Standing Order" (i. e. Congregational) in religious belief, had to "sign off" to escape being taxed for "ministerial rates" of the parish in which they resided. The original is a printed form, names and dates (as italicized) filled in with a pen:

STR,

Please to discharge Mrs Hester Higley and the Estate of Mr. Thomas Coffe, Jr, dec<sup>d</sup> (being a Professer of the Church of England, as by Law established, and residing so near to that she can conveniently, and does attend the Service of the said Church) from all the ministerial Rate for which you are Collector. ROCKWELL, Harry, b. W. Pt. 18 Jan., 1796 (s. of a seafaring man, who d. at sea); m. 19 Jan., 1817 (the day after he became of age), Esther (dau. of Elisha) Niles, of Chatham, Ct.; about two years after, went with a party of carpenters to work at Savannah, Ga.; after spending the winter, returned as far as New York, where he and some of his companions shipped for a whaling voyage to the South Seas, or Falkland Islands. The voyage was one of much hardship, aggravated by cruel treatment on the part of the officers of the vessel; finally, the crew mutinied, and Mr. R. and some others deserted and shipped on an English man-of-war, which was soon after captured by a Spanish vessel, the crew imprisoned, etc. Being finally released, he enlisted in the American naval service; afterwards in the mercantile marine. During all his wanderings his family lost all trace of him, and when after six years, he came into New York harbor, he learned that his wife had married again. For ten years longer he followed the sea; but finally, 4 July, 1835, he revisited his home and found his wife a widow. Her husband, Geo. Evans, of Chatham, Ct., had died in 1831; and, on 9 July, 1835, Mr. Rockwell was reunited to his wife in marriage. Their only child by their first union had died; by the second union they had three sons: (1) Henry Edward, who was killed in the Union service in the Civil Rebellion; (2) Horatio, d.; (3) Edward Almeron, living at Chatham in 1883.—[Letter of H. STILES, Mr. Francis, p. 720, line 5. [Mr. JABEZ H. HAYDEN furnishes the following]: Htfd. Co. Mem., Vol. II., 555, 556, and 557, gives the writer's latest views as to the location of the Stileses. The 13 rods which Francis sold in 1641 to William Gaylord, Jr., lay, I think, all north of the north elm in the street row. Gaylord's second wife was a daughter of John Drake, and when the cart-wheel ran over that old gentleman, 1659, he was carried into his daughter's house. You know "the cattle were scared against John Griffin's house" (the Francis Stiles house). Henry Stiles' lot was not to the south of Francis, but next north of Gaylord, and extended 42 rods to the Ferry Road; then came Eggleston, 10 rods; and the 10 rods next north, John Bissell bo't of a Hartford (?) man "which was formerly Thomas Stiles." John Stiles' lot was south of Francis'. I think the fact that Francis Stiles' name appears in the list of "dwelling-houses" that "have paid for seats in the meeting-house" in 1859/60 is no evidence that Francis was living in Windsor at that time. I have been accustomed to think that these seats were put in in 1659/60, but I have been comparing all the authorities I have at hand, as to your list of those houses which are named as having been paid, and I think the parties named were living here when the seats were put in. More than twenty-five of them had died or removed after 1647 and before 1660. About a dozen of them are supposed to have come here between 1641 and 1647, and three others marked 1648 may have been, for instance, William Hayden; 1645 was the first year he owned a house in Windsor, so I think the seats were put in and paid for by those who used them before Francis Stiles removed, 1647; and I know of no evidence that he ever returned to Windsor after 1647. The meeting-house was built by a tax on the Grand List. The seats were paid by Poll Tax; but, like the regular tax, seem to pertain to the real estate not to be paid again; but page 151: "Those that be seated and never paid [are not, 1659/60] to make payment to Mr. Buell for work about the house," etc.

Saltonstall Park. Page 736-741, Vol. I. [Mr. JABEZ H. HAYDEN, under date of Nov. 17, 1891, gives us some later views as to the location of this park]:

"I have, by accident, fallen on what long searches have heretofore failed to discover, viz.: the 1500-acre lot which Francis Stiles sold to Robert Saltonstall. As I could find it nowhere else, and Massachusetts gave Saltonstall 500 acres, I concluded that it was included in Saltonstall's 2000-acre park. There was a great difficulty in getting Stiles' lot, in its original shape, into a parallelogram, it being at one end 60 rods, at the other 444. I have little doubt (though I don't crow again until I get out of the woods) that I shall bring it to bay a little north of the Scantic. I expect to find the general course of the fences at right angles with the river, and continuing at right angles north of Scantic, the lines will bear more to the north, necessitating just such a shaped lot as Stiles's,—60 rods on the Great River, and at the end of three miles the lot was 444 rods

"When Saltonstall disposed of Stiles' land, it was not put on record. He had once mortgaged it, the day he bought it, to Edward Hopkins and Mary Wills, but no release appears. But when Josiah Ellsworth purchased 'land that was formerly Francis Stiles', and then from him to Robert Salkinson, then purchased by Master [Nicholas] Davison, and now made over to Josiah Ellsworth by Joanna Davison, the widow and relict and sole executrix,' the 1,500 acres was included. This was Mch. 31, 1665, eighteen years after Stiles sold it."

A PARTIAL RECORD OF HIGHWAYS IN SOUTH WINDSOR,

COMPILED BY CASSIUS M. NEWBERRY AND RUTH T. SPERRY IN 1876,

AND PUT ON FILE IN SOUTH WINDSOR TOWN RECORDS.

The Official Laying-out of the Public Road on East Side of the Great River.

At a Court of Election held at Hartford, May 12, 1670, this Court orders that the Selectmen in the respective plantations on the river shall lay out a highway six rods wide upon the upland on the east side the Great River, that men may pass to their lots there as occasion shall require, and they may order the fences to be set up in the place where they shall order the highway to be set out. And this Court grants the several plantations that their bounds shall extend to the eastward twenty rods farther than the three miles formerly granted in consideration thereof.—Col. Rec., 1665-77.

This Court appoints Nathaniel Bissell of Windsor to keep the ferry at Seantic, to transport passengers over the Great River, to take the same fare that is allowed at Hartford.—Col. Rec., 1689-1706.

An Agreement about a Highway with Thomas Bissell, etc., 1711.

Thomas Bissell, Sen., Thomas Bissell, Jr., William Taylor, Jonathan Bissell, Ephraim Bissell, and David Bissell, "all of Windsor, being sensible of our need of a highway to commons from the Country Road," mutually agreed to lay out a way for their use and benefit "between the land of Ephraim Bissell and Thomas Bissell, Jr., to the commons (viz): Jonathan Bissell is to allow out of his lott ten feet which his brother David is to have, David is to allow of his lot ten feet which Ephraim Bissell is to have, and also the ten foot which Jonathan Bissell is to allow out of his lot on the south side of said David's lot, and Ephraim Bissell is to allow out of his lot towards the way seven feet; and the said Thomas Bissell, Sen., and Thomas Bissell, Jr., do agree to allow out of their lots one half rod on the north side their lot, and William Taylor do allow out of his lot toward the way one-half rod, provided Isaac Bissell will sit down so much on him;" and they mutually agreed and bound themselves each to maintain their respective proportions of fence "whether we improve in common or particular, by proportion"; and the said Thomas Bissell Senior and Junior and William Taylor "agree and oblige ourselves to fence according to each one's proportion of land on the south side of the aforesaid way; that this is our agreement to which we bind ourselves, our heirs, successors and assigns, forever," etc., 1710/11. Recorded 7 Feb., 1719.—Windsor Town Rec., Book III, page 122.

Record of the Highway from Hartford to Enfield, June 18, 1716.

Nathaniel Loomis, Israel Stoughton, Jonathan and John Ellsworth, Selectmen of Windsor, "by desire of some of the Inhabitants of the Town to complete the laying out the Country Road or highway on the east side the Great River in Windsor from Hartford north line to Enfield south bounds, . . . began about Hartford north line where the road is now laid, and run a strait course northerly untill it cometh to the top of the hill on the east side Podunk River, where the way is now used, leaving on the east side of the way a crotched stump near ten foot high, near Hartford line, and then we turned westerly untill it cometh over Podunk River, upon the upland, and then run it northerly untill it come to the land we bought of Joseph Elmore and Jeremiah Diggons, Jr., for a Country Road. The above-mentioned way is six rods in breadth, then it is to run westerly until it comes to Jeremiah Digzons' southwest corner of his lot, and it is to be four rods in breadth; and it is to run from Benjamin Cowl's north fence to Enfield bounds, six rods in breadth; we continue the road as it is now laid until it comes to the foot of a hill at John Osbarne's land, east of the bridge formerly used, and so it is to run northerly on the east side of a row of marked trees until it comes to the east end of the Half-Mile Lott in the lot that was Hosford's, and so to continue on the east side of a row of marked trees until it comes to Enfield bounds." Recorded 29 June, 1716.—W. Rec., Bk. IV, p. 102.

Lieut. Henry Wolcott's Deed of a Town Way to the Inhabitants of Windsor, etc., 1729.

Henry Wolcott, "for and in consideration of my love and regard to the peace and welfare of the Town of Windsor," etc., deeded to Capt. Samuel Mather, Sam'l Strong, and Ensign William Thrall, a committee for the Town of Windsor, "one piece or parcell of land lying in the township of Windsor, aforesaid, on the east side of the Great River, on the south side of my lott two rods and one-half in breadth, abutting westerly on James Wolcott's land, running easterly through my said lott unto a neer stone eastward of Podunk River, partly up the hill; abutting also northerly upon the remainder of my said lott, southerly on Lieut. Nathanael Lomis' land, also another piece of land in the woods lying eastward of Podunk River, beginning at the place where the way crosses Mr. Simon Wolcott's lott, and is in breadth two rods and an half, butting westerly on said Henry Wolcott's own land, and runs easterly through until it comes to Hartford town line, and then turns northerly on said Henry Wolcott's land until it comes to Windsor town commons, abutting northerly on the remainder of my said lott, and southerly on Mr. Simon Wolcott's land," . . . . . "to have and use the same as a publick highway." "Signed, sealed, and delivered in Windsor, Apl. the 3d, 1729. Recorded Sept. 24th, 1730."—W. Rec., Bk. VI, p. 40.

Lieut. Nathanael Lomis' Deed of a Way to the Town, 1728.

He conveys to Capt. Samuel Mather, Sen., Samuel Strong, and Ensign William Thrall, committee of the Town of Windsor, "a piece or parcell of land lying in said Windsor on the east side the Great River, on the north side of my lott neer Hez. Lomis's dwelling-house, containing by estimation two acres, be it more or less, in breadth one rod and one half from the Country Road, till you get over Podunk River, and from thence eastward two rods and one-half in breadth, in length from said river twenty-six rods, bounding west on the Country Road, north on land of James Wolcott, east and south on the remainder of my said lott," . . . . . "to have and to hold, use and enjoy as a publick townway to pass and repass in as they shall have occasion, forever hereafter." Mch. 20, 1728/9. Recorded Sept. 24, 1730.—W. Rec., Bk. VI, p. 41.

David Bissell's Deed of a Way to the Town of Windsor, 1730.

He conveys "for and in consideration of the sum of forty shillings," paid by Sam'l Mather and Sam'l Strong of Windsor, and the rest of the inhabitants of said Windsor, to them "one certain tract of land lying in said Windsor, and is in length from the highway eastward to Windsor Town Commons, and is in breadth four foot north and south till it runs one hundred and nine rods and thirteen foot, the whole length throughout eastward till it come to Windsor Commons, and it is bounded north on my own land, east on Windsor Commons, south on land granted for a highway by myself, Jonathan Bissel, Isaac Bissel, Thomas Bissel, Jun'r, Ebenezer Bissel, and Nathaniel Bissel, by an instrument under our hands and seals and bearing equal date with these presents; west it bounds partly by my own land and partly by the highway;" . . . . . "to have and to hold for the use of a highway for them and the rest of His Majesties subjects, from time to time and at all times freely to pass and repass, as they shall have occasion," etc. Sept. 15th, 1730. Recorded, Sept. 24, 1730. W. Rec., Bk. . . . . p.

An Act of the General Assembly Establishing the Upper and Lower Highways.

WHEREAS, the General Assembly at their sessions in October last past, granted liberty to the town of Windsor to change the two highways laid out by the jury on the east side of the Great River, in Windsor, viz., the Upper and Lower ways, provided it be done in the space of six months, and the town of Windsor did at their meeting held by adjournment Feb'y 3rd, 1728/9, choose, appoint, and fully empower a committee to repair to and view the upper and lower highways and sundry other places proposed for highways, to consider the conveniency of the ground or places most fit for highways, and to determine and fix the place or places for said highways, and procure the same as cheap as might be; pursuant to which the committee did view, consider, and determine that the lower highway shall be on the south side of Lieut. Henry Wolcott and James Wolcott's lot, and the upper highway to be at and in the lot belonging to Sergt. David Bissell and Jonathan Bissell, according to the directions of the Assembly, both which ways the said committees have fixed and obtained for highways without cost and charge to said town. The said committee made report to the Town of Windsor of their doings, at their meeting held April 29th, 1729. At said meeting the Town of Windsor accepted of what their committee had done in that matter, and ordered that application shall be made to the General Assembly in May next for confirmation of the upper and lower ways obtained and fixed by their committee, and also that the upper and lower way laid out by the jury may be declared void. The prayer of the Town of Windsor respecting their highways on the east side of the Great River, heard and granted. And it is RESOLVED and ordered by this Assembly, that the two highways, namely, the upper, in Bissell's lot, and the lower way on the south side of Lieut. Henry Wolcott and James Wolcott's lot, as it is now fixed by the Town of Windsor, be accepted, ratified and confirmed; and this Assembly do hereby establish and confirm the same to be the two ways in lieu of the two ways laid out by the jury.—Col. Rec., 1726-1735.

David, Isaac, Thomas, and Ebenezer Bissell, &c., Deed of a Way to the Town of Windsor, 1730.

WHEREAS, wee, Jonathan Bissell, David Bissell, Isaac Bissell, Thomas Bissell, Jun'r, Ebenezer Bissell, and Nathanael Bissell, all of Windsor in the County of Hartford, by our instrument under our hand and seals, dated December 28th, 1719, did grant, sequester, set apart, and confirm one certain tract of land in said Windsor, forty-four feet in breadth north and south, and in length east and west from the highway on the west to the town commons on the east, to be & remain a highway forever, for us, our heirs and assigns, as by said instrument on record doth more fully appear, and whereas it is now found needful that the said way should be and remain a highway for all His Majesties subjects freely to pas and repas as they shall have occasion forever, now to the intent that it may be so;

KNOW ALL MEN BY THESE PRESENTS, that we, the said Johnathan Bissel, David Bissel, Isaac Bissel, Thomas Bissel, Jun'r, Ebenezer Bissel, and Nathanael Bissel, for and in consideration of the sum of forty shillings to us in hand already paid by Samuel Mather and Samuel Strong, and the rest of the inhabitants of Windsor, do give, grant, enfeoff, and confirm to them, the said Samuel Mather of Windsor and Samuel Strong of Windsor, the said parcel of land set apart for a highway as aforesaid, to have and to hold the same to them and their heirs and successors forever, for the only use of a common highway, for them and the rest of His Majesties subjects freely to pass and repass from time to time as there shall be occasion, without lett, suit, hindrance, or molestation from us or any person or persons claiming from, by, or under us. Sealed with our seals
